Two Nebraska Rotary Profs Receive Honors

World recognition honors in the field of botany came to two university faculty members during the summer months.

Dr. John E. Weaver received an invitation to serve as honorary president of the International Botanical congress, to be held in Stockholm, Sweden, in the late summer of 1950. The meeting will bring together all of the world's greatest botanists. The invitation was extended by Dr. C. Skottsberg, Sweden, congress president.

Dr. Weaver, who has been a member of the University faculty since 1915, is a specialist in plant ecology. During this time he has published 12 books and monographs.

A drawing by Dr. R. J. Pool, a leading Nebraska botanist, was a featured exhibit at the International Horticultural and Garden exhibition in London, England, last summer. The illustration was used to prepare a working model of how plant life works. The drawing was prepared for one of his widely-used university textbooks on botany.

Got Your Cornhusker?

ANNUALS ON SALE—Corn Cob worker Kuxhausen begins his sales talk to two prospective customers in front of the Union. His "best bargain in the world" is the 1949-50 Cornhusker, which Corn Cobs and Tassels have been selling since school began. Each year workers in these two organizations sell Cornhuskers to earn points. Tassels receive a certain number of points for each Cornhusker sold. Corn Cob workers have their sales weighted with work hours and attendance records. The 16 Corn Cob workers who have the highest number of points are admitted to active membership. Cornhuskers have been on sale before registration at 6 dollars apiece.

With Tongue In Cheek

By Cub Clem

Everybody is jumping on the bandwagon. Corn Cob ticket sellers, Kosmet Klub ticket sellers—and now it's University Theatre ticket sellers. Organized house members on this campus just don't get a rest.

The Theatre last year inaugurated a plan whereby the organized house buying the most season tickets won the honor of having one of its members named Honorary Producer. The competition extended to both men's and women's houses. The plan was so successful that the Theatre is doing it again.

Most of the houses, of course, have already begun to put pressure of their members to buy the tickets. Since inter-house supremacy, supposedly, is involved to a degree, no house can afford to lag.

We would like to see the Theatre sell many, many tickets. But we hate to see them take advantage of the poor, defenseless club member.

Four Huskers Serve KLMS Radio Station

A new commercial radio station, KLMS, will soon go into operation with several University alumni and students taking the spotlight.

News editor will be Tom Sorenson, '47, a journalism instructor of the University. General manager will be J. Russell Joynt, who is also a Husker graduate. Taking over other jobs on the staff will be some University students, as yet unnamed. Other officials include William P. (Bill) Dietz as commercial manager and Wally Johnson as program director.

Joynt is now holding auditions to select broadcasters. Their tasks will concern a comprehensive sports coverage, full news reports and disk jockey work.

The new station which will be found on the dial at 1480 kilocycles, will be on the air from 6 a.m. until midnight. The 1000-watt station will probably begin broadcasting early next month.

Students Answer Blood Donor Call

Approximately 50 University students have answered a call from the Veterans hospital for blood donors, according to the offices of the hospital manager.

Dr. H. A. Scott, manager of the VA hospital issued a request last week for university students to register at the Veteran's hospital to give blood.

According to Dr. Scott, a continuous supply of blood at all times is necessary to speed the recovery from disease and operations.

Any student who would like to give blood may call 2-7691 for an appointment. All types of blood are needed, and donors will be paid $5 per 100cc of blood. The usual amount taken is 500cc.

There will be a meeting of all interdenominational managers or representatives on Wednesday, Sept. 28, at 5 p.m. in Room 101, Physical Education Building. Each religious group on the campus interested in intramurals is urged to send a representative. This meeting will be used to set up an IM program for you.

Casting the Council

BY GENE BERG.

Six students have now joined the four holdover members as representatives to the Student Council.

Three organizations today added their delegates to those elected by N Club, Religious Welfare council and Ag Exec board, reported yesterday. They are: Tassels, Shirley Allen; Publications, Bruce Kennedy; and BABW, Norma Chubbuck.

The women's pep group selected Miss Allen at its meeting last night. She is an Arts and Sciences junior, a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority, and a member of Magee's College board. She is also a member of Builders and YWCA, besides being a Tassel.

The three publications, The Daily Nebraskan, Corn Shucks and The Cornhusker, chose Kennedy yesterday in a combined voting session. He was selected from publication board-appointed junior staff members of the three publications by votes of all staff members named by that board. Kennedy is a Corn Cob active and a Daily Nebraskan News Editor. He is a member of Alpha Tau Omega and Sigma Delta Chi, journalism honorary.

Norma Chubbuck was selected by Barb Activities Board for Women at its weekly meeting last night. Miss Chubbuck is a member of the board, serving as publicity chairman. She is also a News Editor for The Daily Nebraskan and publicity director for YWCA as a cabinet member. She was named last spring to Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism honorary. During the past year she also served as publicity director for the Red Cross College unit. She is a member of Towne Club.

The selection of Kennedy as a Council member brings the number of male representatives on the student governing body to four. Also elected have been Robert Raun, Herb Reese and Mayer Moskovitz.

Miss Allen and Miss Chubbuck are the first women named to the Student Council thus far.

Now that six groups have elected their delegates, only 13 members remain to be named from the 19 authorized organizations. Other organizations may be granted representation by the Council in the near future.

The 13 groups which have been instructed to elect their delegates by Friday, Sept. 30, are: Interfraternity council, Corn Cobs, Cosmopolitan club, YMCA, YWCA, Builders, Panhellenic council, Law association, Engineering Exec board, ISA, Coed Counselors, Innocents and Mortar Boards.

Debate Sponsor Lauds Proposal For Year's Meet

"One of the most interesting questions ever debated by college students," said Donald Olson at the first debate meeting held in the Temple last Thursday night.

Mr. Olson, welcoming the debaters, commented that many of this year's activities will be centered around public service debates in Lincoln and outstate.

Students interested in debate who missed the meeting will have an opportunity to acquaint themselves with the question Tuesday at 3 p.m. in Room 203 Temple. Dr. Curtis Elliot will address the Speech 123 class on the question, "Resolved, that the United States should nationalize the basic non-agricultural industries." This talk will be open to all interested in debate.

The next meeting of the squad will be Thursday, Sept. 29, in two groups in the Temple. One group will meet at 4 p.m. and the other at 7:15 p.m.

Marine Reserve Seeks Recruits

Two days of active duty a month—with four days' pay!

This is offered by the Marine Air reserve for peace-time duty. The reserve will sponsor a booth in the Union lobby Wednesday afternoon for students or veterans who are interested in Marine air service, or wish to secure information.

Lt. Henry Schlueter and Capt. J. R. Cooper of the Lincoln Air station, will be on hand at the booth. They anticipate a large number of recruits from the Nebraska campus.

Art Classes Still Open

Ceramic and water color classes on Tuesday evenings are still open for registration according to Duard W. Laging, head of the art department.

The classes, offered by the University art department, meet between 7 and 10 p.m. in Morrill hall. Interior decoration and drawing classes are already filled. Although the classes started last Tuesday, students may still register. Fees are $6 per credit hour.

Paddles Give Incentive To Wear Frosh Beans

Frosh! Better be glad that you're a freshman at Nebraska rather than at Kansas State.

While the wearing of "frosh beans" is not too strictly enforced here, at Kansas State the freshmen were informed that a paddle line would be started for those who might possibly forget to wear their caps.

Will you agree that "There is no place like Nebraska"?
