

Lee Williams Featured In Farmers Formal Plans

October 7 Is Date for Ag Dance

Lee Williams and his ten-piece orchestra, attired in typical farmers garb, will be featured at the 1949 Farmers Formal Oct. 7. This traditional Ag College dance is scheduled for 8:30 p. m. in the College Activities building.

Williams and his band, who play out of Omaha, are a top favorite in this part of the country. They have played for several other campus affairs in the past.

The formal, which is in name only, is a yearly attraction of the Ag campus. Although this is an Ag dance, city campus students are also invited; provided they wear the traditional clothes—calico and jeans.

The ballroom will provide plenty of atmosphere with its barnyard and ranchlike decorations. Hay bales, corn shocks, barnyard fence, and a false ceiling are included in the decorations plot.

Even the orchestra will fall in with the theme of the dance. Their blue jeans, neckerchiefs, and "farmey" arrangements of several songs will highlight the music.

The high point of the evening

MARGE REYNOLDS, last years Farmer Formal Queen, and her date Harold Kopf, now her husband, recline on some of the decorations at the 1948 Farmers Formal. Mrs. Kopf was chosen from a list of 30 senior home economics girls in an all Ag campus election.

Casting the Council

By Gene Berg

The last six authorized delegates to the Student Council have now been elected. One woman and five men were added to the Council by the six remaining groups.

Representatives and their groups include: Janet Carr, Coed Counselors; Ray Simmons, Law Association; Don Sterns, Interfraternity Council; Ben Wall, Independent Students Association; Harry Kenyon, YMCA; and Jim Stoddard, Engineering Exec board.

Miss Carr is the third Towne Club member to be named to the Council. She is a Teachers College junior and a member of the Teachers College Dean's Advisory committee. She is a board member of the group from which she was elected, Coed Counselors. Miss Carr is also a Tassel officer, serving as notifications chairman. She will be the moment when the Queen of the Farmers Formal is presented.

The Queen, chosen in an all campus election, must be a home economics senior with at least an 8 average. The election is Wednesday, Oct. 5, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. in the Ag Union. A list of the candidates will be announced later.

Tickets for the dance can be obtained at the Ag college from any member of the sponsoring Ag-Exec-Board. They are $2.00 per couple including tax. A ticket booth will be run in the Ag Union from Wednesday to Friday of next week; tickets will also be on sale at the door.

is secretary of Towne Club. Law College senior, Simmons, is a past president of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and a member of Phi Beta Kappa. A past member of Interfraternity Council, he acted as chairman of the political parties and elections committee of the constitutional assembly held last spring. He is also comment editor of the Nebraska Law Review. Simmons attended a six weeks course of study at Oxford university in 1948.

The Interfraternity Council representative, Don Sterns, is vice president of that organization and treasurer of Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity. He served as a delegate to the constitutional assembly from the IFC last spring. A freshman in law college, Sterns is a pledge of Phi Delta Phi, law fraternity. He is a sophomore member of the Nebraska Law Review. He has twice won Regents scholarships during his college years.

An ISA member for two years and an active barb participant in campus government, Ben Wall will act as the ISA's delegate to the 1949-50 Council. Wall was a regular guest at Council meetings last year, and served as an ISA delegate to the constitutional assembly. He is a junior in Arts and Sciences.

Jim Stoddard, the Engineering Exec Board delegate, is vice-chairman of that group. He is a junior in chemical engineering and serves as secretary of AICHE.

YMCA representative, Kenyon, is an Ag college junior. He is a member of Ag YMCA cabinet.
