Recruiting for NUCWA . . .

Here is a job for all students—whatever your major . . . physics, education, history or agriculture—whatever your background . . . a freshman just out of high school or a veteran back from service overseas. It's the job of NUCWA, the Nebraska University Council for World Affairs.

The choice for the future lies between a successful UN and world chaos. Actually, this leaves no choice. We must act with determination to make the UN work. The outcome will depend in large measure on informed public opinion. In the formation of such opinion, students can play a vital role.

One of the big projects of NUCWA, the one with which you will be most familiar, is another model conference. Last year there was much argument over the actual value of the UNESCO conference. Several students believed that the ones who gained the most from the conference were those who actually participated in it.

Here is your chance to participate. NUCWA will hold its first mass meeting tonight. The meeting is open to all students. Here is your chance to get in on the ground floor, not only on the model conference, but on an impressive program of international relations projects.

Young Schutz read his prize winning essay as part of the Nebraska Grange's annual meeting Tuesday night. The meeting is being held at the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture.

There were 10,000 essays entered in the national contest.

Local Paper Praises Two NU Students

Two University students were cited by the Lincoln Journal's Weekly Recognition Gallery for "contributions to their communities or to society in general."

The students were Audrey Rosenbaum, president of the Red Cross College Unit, and Merle Stalder, president of the Innocents Society.

The activities of the Red Cross College unit on campus consist of entertaining hospitalized veterans, courses in first aid, volunteer drivers transport, and provide parties for orphans.

The Innocents revived Dad's Day Oct. 1 at the University and "despite the fact that plans had to be made hurriedly, 160 guests attended the banquet at the Union. Honored guests were the fathers of the football players. Chancellor Gustavson addressed the group.

Each Tuesday the Lincoln Journal honors six Nebraskans.

Dancing Classes To Start Tuesday

If you are planning to join the Union dance instruction classes—if you want to learn to dance—register for the classes in the Union Activities office this week.

The first instructional class in ballroom dancing to be sponsored by a Union committee will be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 18, in the Union ballroom. Miss Donna McCandless, local dancing instructor, will head the classes.

The classes, which will be held each Tuesday evening until the Military Ball, will be free of charge for University students. They will primarily serve to teach ballroom dancing to beginners. However, if enough advanced students should register, more complicated dance steps will be taught.

Students may attend the classes without registering, but they are urged to do so if possible. Ralph Taylor is chairman of the dance instruction committee.

On the Ag Beam

By Arlen Beam

The Ag-Exec-Board has a plan—and a good one. It has set up a reorganized schedule of all Ag campus meeting times.

The purpose of this reorganization was to (1) relieve the congestion of several clubs meeting on the same night and (2) reduce the number of "joiners" in many of the clubs.

Every one realizes the object in the first reason, and altho they realize the second objective they are reluctant to admit it.

In order to achieve their second purpose, the board set up a standard meeting night for all departmental clubs of the campus. They reasoned that by having all these clubs meeting on the same night, the student would pick out the one he or she was interested in and give it their full attention.

Each group as the Block and Bridle, Tri-K, Poultry club, Entomology club, Home economics club, Voc-Ag club, Dairy club and University 4-H come under the departmental club heading.

As with any new and seemingly progressive plan there is some opposition. A few people feel that the Ag-Exec-Board is overstepping its jurisdiction in telling the clubs on which night they can meet. This is not the case. The board is elected by the Ag campus as a whole, and it is entirely within their power to do this. Incidentally, it also has the unqualified backing of the faculty on this meeting night schedule.

If students were really interested in the clubs, they should understand the value of the plan. It stands to reason that if the members devote all their time to one club, rather than dividing it among several, the clubs themselves will be stronger and the students will profit more from them.

Red Cross Motor Corps will meet in Room 315 of the Union at 9 a.m. Saturday. Members must be present or they will be dropped from the corps.

Canterbury club will give a dinner at 6 p.m. Sunday following Evensong. Movies of the Nebraska-Kansas State game will be shown.

Red Cross Plans VA Entertainment

Entertainment for patients at Veterans' hospital will begin in earnest this week by the Red Cross College unit.

Regular weekly features in hospital service were announced today by the unit Veterans' hospital chairman, Carla Renner.

Every Thursday afternoon University students will sponsor canasta and bridge parties for the vets. Thursday evenings they will entertain patients at ward parties.

A sports broadcast will be aired every Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon at the hospital by Clayton Hughes, University radio student. This is a continuation of a series of broadcasts Hughes began this summer at the VA hospital.

A Hallowe'en theme auditorium party at the hospital Monday, Oct. 31, will inaugurate a program of monthly auditorium shows there. University talent will present each month's show.

No Shoes Allowed At Ag Sock Dance

Shoes, shoes, who's got my shoes?

If you have odorous feet, or holes in your socks, you can't come. Yes, it's the "sock" dance, Friday, Oct. 14, which is the talk of the Ag campus. The secret of this little game is no shoes.

When you enter the dance floor you must check them at the door.

Anyone who comes in anything less than their best socks will undoubtedly be stared at. If you do wear your best, soon they won't be your best—you can't win.

If you figure this thing out and go to the dance Friday night in the Ag Union, be sure to label your shoes.
