Delayed Action . . .

Our biggest gripe against the Greek system has always been centered around rush week. Many aspects of rush week—disappointed rushees, behind-locked-doors dealing and high pressure sales talks—are unavoidable to a great extent, but there is one drawback that can be eliminated. We think the Interfraternity Council would be doing a good thing if it set the date of rush week in the middle of October. The later date would cut down the confusion of registration, etc., which always attends the opening of the fall term. More important, we think, it would give the fraternities more time to get to know the freshmen, and, in the words of Cicero, vice versa. The fraternities would have a better idea of who they want. At the same time, the rushees would have a better idea of which group they wanted to fit into. Late rush weeks are common in American universities. We think the Greek system at the University would be improved by a later rush week. Does anyone agree?

Student Talent Tryouts at Union Wednesday Night

Don't forget tryouts for the Union Talent show Wednesday night at 7:15 p. m. in the Union ballroom. The Talent Show, sponsored annually by the Union, will be held Sunday, Nov. 6, featuring winners of the tryouts. Prizes will be awarded to top talent of the evening and students may be called upon for other services during the year. The Union Activities committee keeps a file of all such talent available for other organizations. All kinds of talent are wanted for the tryouts. "So, if you sing, dance, or would make a good master of ceremonies, plan to try out," says Gene Weidmaier, chairman of the general entertainment committee.

Union Continues Dancing Lessons

The second of a series of dancing lessons sponsored by the Union will be held in the ballroom Tuesday night. This series will continue lessons in ballroom dancing. This will be the last time that the lessons will be segregated. Mixed dancing will be held after this lesson. The girls' dancing is scheduled from 7:45 to 8:15 p. m. and the boys from 8:15 to 9:15 p. m.

Yearbook Proof Deadline Nov. 3

All proofs of student pictures for the 1950 Cornhusker must be returned to Rose Manor studio by Nov. 3, according to John Connelly, editor. If the proofs are not returned by that date the photographer will select the picture to be used. Students who have not yet had their pictures taken must have their proofs returned to the studio within ten days after receiving the proofs or the same rule will be applied.

Wisconsin Offers Five Suggestions

A sub-committee of the University of Wisconsin has set up some meaty suggestions to narrow the widening student-faculty gap. These include:
1. Late afternoon and night classes should be eliminated.
2. A dairy bar should be set up at intervals on campus, where students and professors could meet between classes.
3. Faculty-student clubs should be planned on an informal basis to promote faculty-student relationships outside classes.
4. Students should be made members of the University committee on lectures and convocations and should help to plan symposia on issues of campus interest.
5. Student political activity should be stimulated.

Three Thousand Prepsters March at NU Band Day

Sixty Nebraska high school bands traveled to Lincoln Saturday to participate in the annual University Band Day, feature of the Oklahoma-Nebraska football game. Termed one of the "largest and most colorful Band Days" in the history of the University by Prof. Donald A. Lentz, the day's program included a parade through Lincoln business district and a performance at half-time of the game. Began Parade on Campus Shortly after noon Saturday the bands, ranging in size from 25 to 120 members, began their parade through campus and the downtown area. They were dispatched from the starting point at Memorial Stadium at the rate of one band every 45 seconds. Approximately 3,002 high school students participated in the parade in full dress uniform. The appearance and performance of the marching bands were judged when they passed the reviewing stand at 12th and O. Criticisms on improvement were sent to individual instructors of the bands. Each band also received a certificate of participation. During half-time intermission at the Oklahoma-Nebraska game, the bands marched out onto the field and played the national anthem and three other selections with the University ROTC band.

in Lincoln early Saturday morning for a 9:00 a. m. rehearsal in Memorial Stadium. Following the rehearsal the Retail Division of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce provided lunch for the students at an improvised stand under east stadium. Lentz, director of the University ROTC band, was in charge of Band Day arrangements.

Red Cross Unit Plans Party For Children

Witches, hobgoblins and candy-filled jack-o-lanterns will reign supreme at the Orthopedic hospital Oct. 26. Under the auspices of the Red Cross college unit 40 children will celebrate Halloween in the traditional fashion. Some 20 University students, dressed in Halloween costumes, will provide entertainment for the hospitalized children. The girls will be aided by Jack Lange, ventriloquist, and his dummy, Chester.

The skit will be a take-off on "Farmer in the Dell" done in witches costumes. Carried on in pantomime, the actors will be aided by backdrops of black cats, brooms and other Halloween regalia.

Another skit, will use heads and arms visible through Halloween drawings in stock-fashion. The party is planned for children between the ages of 6 and 15.

Following the skits, the girls will distribute jack-o-lanterns, candy and apples to the children. The program is under the direction of Ann Figge and Gloria Larsen, who will do the art work for the show. They will be aided by a committee of Dorothy Nordgren, Merry Lu Williams, Marilyn Coupe, Betty Andersen, Georgine Havlik, Janice Hannaford, Mary Libershal.

The orthopedic party is one of the many functions of the Red Cross institutions committee headed by Figge and Larsen. Another Red Cross Halloween party will take place this week at Vets hospital.

Formed Giant N They also formed a large "N" on the field while playing two numbers. Baton twirlers performed along the sidelines. Band members began arriving

Union to Open Craft Classes Next Tuesday

Instructions in ceramics, wood working, painting and other crafts will be available to University students at the official opening of the Union Craft shop Tuesday, Oct. 25, from 2 to 5 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

The Craft shop, Room 12, Union basement, is under the sponsorship of the Competitive Games and Hobby committee.

Wendy Gauger, committee chairman, announced that the room will be open for instructional work on Tuesday and Wednesday nights from 7 to 9 p. m. It will also be open for craft work from 2 to 5 p. m. Monday and Thursday afternoons.

Instruction and tools will be furnished free to students but a charge will be made for materials. Other craft instructions will be added during the year, if students so desire.

Members of the Competitive Games committee are Roger Metcalf, June Fessler, Delaine Bishop and Bob Maher. Pat Bussey is sponsor.

YW to Open Member Drive On Ag Campus

The YWCA freshmen membership drive for ag campus will be held Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Booths will be set up in the home economics building and in the college activities building where freshmen and all upper classmen not already members may join YWCA. This announcement was made by Annette Stoppkotte, membership chairman.

Memberships will be sold at the regular Tuesday evening meeting on Oct. 25. All Ag college girls are especially invited to attend.

YWCA minimum membership is $1.00, but students are being asked to contribute or pledge an amount in addition to this to bolster the budget.

YWCA activities, headed by president Laverna Acker, include joint discussions and social gatherings with the YWCA, social welfare projects, Thursday morning worship services, and meetings with guest speakers.

The Oct. 25 meeting will be a discussion of the ideas obtained at the recent conference held at York.

Directory . . .

Students Warned of Fires

Students at the University of Colorado at Boulder have been warned that no fires are to be started in mountain parks except in city-built fireplaces.

Audubon Plans Metropolitan Wildlife Film

Within an hour of New York City's Times Square there is an amazing variety of wildlife creatures which has been recorded in an unusual natural color motion picture called, "Trails for the Millions."

Students will have an opportunity to see the film next Tuesday night at 8 p. m. in Love Memorial Library. They will be shown by the man who took them, Allan Cruickshank, nationally known wildlife photographer and naturalist.

Dr. Cruickshank's lecture and films are the first in a series of "Audubon Screen Tours" to be held on the campus this season under the sponsorship of the University Extension Division and Museum, and the National Audubon society. Lincoln is one of 100 American cities selected for the screen tours this year.

The screen tours are presented in the interest of wildlife protection, wise use of natural resources and conservation education, according to James Taylor of the Extension Division. Season tickets cost $2.40, and single admissions 60 cents.

NU Graduate Named Queen Of Ak-Sar-Ben

A University graduate was revealed Friday night as Queen Ak-Sar-Ben 55th when Susan Storz was crowned in the pomp and splendor of the traditional Court of Quivera coronation.

Miss Storz is a 1948 graduate of the University, and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta and Theta Sigma Phi. Her presentation was the climax to the elaborate ceremony which highlights the Omaha social season.

She was attended by a number of University women who appeared as Princesses and Countesses of the Court of Quivera.

Three of the 16 Princesses are former students. They are Marjorie Benson, Barbara Stryker, and Sara Stucht.

Of the ten Countesses, eight are students or graduates. Students in the coronation court were Jan Nutzman, Eugenie Sampson, Peggy Reynolds, Lorna Lou Bornholdt, Charlene Holcomb and Catherine Elliott. Former students in the court were Martha Aitken, Marilyn Dawson and Barbara Zemer.

Regents Praise Beef Research

The Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska believe new experimental work about to be undertaken at the Fort Robinson beef cattle research station near Crawford, will be of great value to the state and the cattle industry.

Returning from an inspection trip of the station, the Board members viewed the proposed work with optimism. They praised the co-operative efforts of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Animal Industry and the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University in the project.

The group was accompanied to Fort Robinson by Chancellor R. G. Gustavson and others from the University. Dean W. V. Lambert and Marvel I. Baker of the Animal husbandry department told the Board that from 1,200 to 1,500 cattle will probably be stocked on the station.
