not lessened in the years since the end of the war. Foods are still scarce. Disease, especially tuberculosis and malnutrition, is increasing in many places. Garments are in shreds. Thousands have no shelter but a dug-out or a room shared with many others. "This is especially true about refugee Palestinian Arabs, victims of the Chinese civil war, Moslems and Hindus, as well as recent refugees from eastern Europe," commented Lavko, Cosmopolitan Club representative to the Student Council.

"Hunted With Dogs."

The Czech student gave this condensation of a friend's letter, labeled "somewhere in Germany": They threw us all out of Masarky university in Brno, they hunted us with dogs along the border, they shot and killed three of our group. After the February incident, the communist action committees notified all non-communist students that the university was closed to us and that we would soon be sent to forced labor camps.

"Of the 10,000 students expelled from universities, there are now 1,500 in exile, including most of the leaders of student organizations, the first of our generation. At Ludwigsburg, 300 of us live in a former Nazi barracks. There are nine professors with us who helped us establish the Masarky college in October 1948."

WSSF Aid.

Lavko, graduate student in economics here, told Nebraskan reporters, "Today the above mentioned group is much better off. WSSF has sent English grammars, textbooks, paper, pencils and other necessities."

The three foreign students, Saad, Willi and Lavko, unanimously urged University students to "SACRIFICE FOR AUF."

Cosmo Paper Hits Stands

The first edition of the "U.N. Cosmopolitan," published by the Cosmopolitan club was off the press yesterday.

Edited by Walter Willi, thru the organization of foreign and American students, the monthly four-page paper contains articles on NUCWA, the University Goethe festival, and international effects of devaluation.

Other features include international humor, greetings by G. W. Rosenlof, Director of Admission; an address by Jacques Levi, Cosmopolitan club president; international "Who's Who" and "Cosmopolitan of the Month."

Subscriptions to the monthly paper cost $1. To subscribe, contact Walter Willi, "U. N. Cosmopolitan," C/o. Cosmopolitan Club, Student Union. The first edition will be free.

Students to Hear Atomic Discussion

"Atomic Energy—The Modern Problem" will be discussed by Dr. Theodore Jorgensen, jr., at a supper meeting this evening at 7 p. m. The meeting will be held in the Y lounge in the Temple building.

The problem of atomic energy is one of the most vital social issues confronting us today. This meeting will provide an opportunity to get first-hand information and understanding about it as Dr. Jorgensen, a member of the University physics department, was one of the scientists working on the atomic project.

A buffet supper will be served at 6:15 for the price of 25 cents. All men on the campus are invited to attend but are urged to call the "Y" office to make reservations for their meal.

Union Craft Shop Offers Instruction

If you are looking for a way to solve your Christmas gift problem, here's your chance. Instructions in leather work are to be featured in the Craft Shop tonight at 7:30.

Materials for the work will be purchased by students, but the tools and instruction will be furnished free by the Craft Shop.

Craft work may be done in the Shop on Mondays and Thursdays from 2 to 5 p. m.
