

Rosenlof Gives Support To Current AUF Campaign

A top University official added his endorsement today to the work of the World Student Service Fund, a chief beneficiary of the AUF drive.

Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, Director of Admissions, commented in an interview, "There is no cause that is deserving of more support and genuine interest on the part of the students on our campus than the World Student Service Fund.

"Through different services of this agency, our American student population is given the opportunity to participate in that very important task of providing relief and rehabilitation of students abroad. There is so much to be done to rebuild student life the world around that none of us can afford to neglect his responsibility in sharing to that end," emphasized Dr. Rosenlof.

"Not only are our students given this opportunity, but so also is the instructional staff, and we sincerely hope that the University of Nebraska student and faculty bodies will join 100 percent in contributing to so worth-while an undertaking.

"This organization has been in operation for over ten years," explained the Registrar. "At the outset, it confined its efforts to the Far Eastern student problem. It expanded its services two years after its founding to include European student services. It has had the support from the beginning of all faiths, Protestant, Catholic and Jewish, and of many secular groups concerned with the better establishment of international relations and good will among the peoples of the world.

"Its funds are used to provide food, clothing, and shelter, as well as medical aid and books.

The funds have permitted the opening of canteens and emergency shelters.

"The WSSF has developed reading rooms and library facilities and has furnished many kinds of travel aid. It has given relief to the sick and has extended a helping hand in hundreds of ways, all of which have contributed so much to the happiness and contentment and well-being of thousands of students everywhere in the world.

"And more than this," remarked the University official, "the World Student Service Fund has made the student population on our American campuses very conscious of the necessity of becoming world-minded and realistically aware of the world's needs.

"Here is a chance to do a big thing in a big way. It is a chance to ally one's self with the things that make for true greatness. Of course, we should 'SACRIFICE FOR AUF.'"

AUF Publishes '49 Financial Statement

The financial report of the All University Fund for last year was revealed today by Ginny Koch, present treasurer of AUF.

Submitted by last year's treasurer, Betty Bloss, the report tells how student and faculty contributions to the fund were administered.

The financial statement released by Miss Koch is printed below for the information of college stu-

Contributions	$4,304.96
Administrative expenses	337.90
Donations	3,865.65
Balance on hand	101.41

Under the item of contributions are included the gifts of student houses, activity organizations, Ag campus and Medical school, as well as general student and faculty donations.

Administrative expenses include expenditures for printing of receipt books, tickets, leaflets, mimeographing, buttons, government tax on Starvation banquet, and part of a delegate's expenses to an international World Student Service Fund conference this summer.

Donations were made to the Community Chest, $1,546.26; the United Negro College fund, $386.56; and the World Student Service Fund, $1,932.83. The balance of $101.41 is now being used by the AUF to conduct its coming drive, Nov. 7-14, on campus.

WSSF, Chest To Receive Contributions

"Sacrifice for AUF."

With that slogan, the All University Fund is now making plans for its one annual campus drive, Nov. 7-14, AUF Week.

AUF is the official charity organization of the University campus. It conducts its one drive so that students and faculty members are not contacted numerous times throughout the year to contribute to various relief agencies.

Funds to Two Agencies

Beneficiaries of the AUF drive this year will be the Community Chest and the World Student Service fund, according to Ted Gunderson, AUF director.

The Community Chest solicits funds for many local welfare agencies, among them the YM and YWCA. The campus counterparts of these organizations receive Chest sums annually for their work. The Community Chest also contributes funds to local orphanages, destitute families, welfare agencies and youth programs.

Active International Role

The WSSF carries on an active international program of relief for both students and faculty members throughout the world. It aids refugee students to carry on their schooling by providing food, shelter, medical care, books and technical equipment. The various administrators of WSSF personally supervise the distribution of funds to see that they are used only in situations of great need and for a specific purpose.

The Community Chest board is made up of local citizens aided by a staff of paid secretaries. The WSSF is sponsored by such groups as B'nai B'rith Hillel foundations, Newman Club federation, United Student Christian council, made up of all Protestant churches and the YM and YWCA, and CARE. It is the only international relief agency of its kind.

Dulles Is Sponsor

The executive committee of WSSF includes both American and foreign persons. Among them are John Foster Dulles, U. S. Senator; Reinhold Niebuhr, writer and educator; Dr. George N. Shuster, president of Hunter college; Dr. Katharine E. McBride, president of Bryn Mawr college; Dr. Charles Seymour, president of Yale university; and Dr. Guy E. Snavely, executive director of the Association of American Colleges.
