

Huskers Stress Aerial Defense

WALT SPELLMAN—Husker guard playing defensive line-backer, was the bright spot of the Husker workout Monday night. Walt, always a stalwart on the defense, continually knocked down aials.

Coach Bill Glassford gave his Huskers a well deserved rest Monday afternoon. A rest insofar as they were in sweat suits rather than the conventional pads.

Glassford and backfield coach Bill Davis were working with the defensive backfield on pass defense, while the linemen were working on a defense to stop the Jayhawk's ace backfield that literally chewed-up the K-State line as they romped to a 38-0 victory last Saturday.

Particularly outstanding on the pass defense was Walt Spellman who was backing up the line. Spellman knocked down Wiegand's intended passes time and time again.

Besides Spellman, Glassford had Captain Tom Novak, Nick Adduci, Jerry Ferguson and Kenny Fischer. Husker speedsters Harry Meginnis and Ron Clark were also used, switching to different spots in the defensive backfield.

Even though most of the passes were incomplete, Wiegand was able to complete some that had a TD label on them. Glassford pointed out various weak spots of the Husker pass defense and was slowly rounding up a good defense.

Line coach Jim DeAngelis had one combination working on plays while the other combo was trying to stop them with various defensive line-ups.

No member of the squad appeared to be injured as they were all out running at top speed. After the rough game with the Tigers last Saturday, it is a wonder that none of the Huskers were injured.

Those who were able to make the trip to Columbia saw practically an iron-man team almost upset highly touted Missouri. Squad morale was very high, which can be credited to the moral victory gained last Saturday.

Tuesday, Glassford will again run practice in sweat clothes and have top speed in preparation for the Homecoming tilt with Kansas U. Saturday afternoon in Memorial stadium.

for the team, there is a possibility that fall track might be dropped at the University. It seems that intramural activities have almost killed-off the minor sports because the students are placing more importance on the intramurals than they are in the intercollegiate sports.

Since the frosh will be running against the varsity, the times that they turn in should rank high when Big Seven commissioner Reaves Peters computes the times of the frosh from the various schools.

Frosh-Varsity Cindermen Duel Friday

The annual fall frosh-varsity track meet will be held Friday afternoon, according to head track coach Ed Weir.

Weir, in announcing the meet Friday, said that there would be a preliminary meet held Tuesday afternoon to give him a chance to compare the frosh against the varsity as well as pick which of the freshmen that he wants to run.

The Nebraska "Greenies" saw their chances for an upset victory jump to a new high as Esref, the tireless Turk, Aydin was side-lined with an ankle injury. Aydin's injury is not too serious since Weir said that there still was a very good possibility that he would run Friday.

The frosh have already won two postal meets with Colorado and took another from the Kansas University "Greenhorns." In their meet with the Colorado newcomers, the Huskers made a clean sweep, slamming every place for a 10-30 win.

In their single postal meet with the freshmen from Kansas university, the future varsity aspirants dropped only a few places as they almost humiliated the Jayhawks.

Since the times of the freshmen will be entered in the Big Seven's Freshman postal meet next week at Kansas City, this meet will take on added importance.

Besides the "best the varsity" spirit, the Frosh will be striving to turn in their best times for Big Seven honors.

Weir said that these times will also be entered in postal meets with Missouri and Iowa State, two schools that supposedly have very strong freshmen track teams.

Possibility for Upset.

Weir said, "The Freshmen will have a very good chance to upset the varsity, provided that they get in some good workouts this week."

In continuing the interview, Weir said that he was very much concerned with the poor showing that the freshmen had in their turn outs, but was quick to add that those who are out show much promise.
