Youth Must Be Served . . .

All through the fall we've been hearing good reports about the Cornhusker frosh football team. These reports say the freshmen have speed, size, deception and power. They make Nebraska's football future look brighter than at any time since 1940.

Along with these good reports, however, we get a bad one. We hear that the frosh haven't had enough practice using Nebraska plays. Since the "B" team was eliminated, the frosh have been running opposition plays against the varsity, with the result that they haven't had much time to learn the Cornhusker "T" attack.

The whole thing seems to boil down to the fact that the freshmen have not been able to work much on the fundamentals of Glassford's type of football. Aside from a game with Kansas State's freshmen, their work with the Glassford "T" has been limited to a few isolated practice sessions sandwiched between learning the plays of Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas and other opponents.

WE THINK THAT the best thing that happened to the NU frosh team was the Kansas State fracas. It gave them a chance to work as a unit with Nebraska plays. Experience like this is going to pay off next year better than experience gained from running opposition plays.

Big Seven rules allow a member to schedule two freshman games a season. We think Nebraska would do well to schedule as many as they can. There must be another university around here that wants to send its frosh against Nebraska.

With two intercollegiate freshman games, plus more time to practice on Nebraska fundamentals and plays, we think the frosh would be in a better position to help the varsity sooner next year. As it is, it may take half of next season before this year's freshmen are able to take much of a part in Nebraska's gridiron fortunes.

SIGMA NU—A scene from the underworld brought first place in men's competition for the Sigma Nu's. "Give 'em Hell" was the theme of the decoration, which showed Husker number 20 shoving scared little Jayhawks into a fiery abyss. A scarlet devil's head added atmosphere to the decoration.

GAMMA PHI BETA—"We're Gonna Wash Those Hawks Right Out Of Our Hair" brought first prize in house decorations for women's houses. A huge Husker sitting in a wash tub scrubbed his hair, and blue Jayhawks flew in all directions to win for the Gamma Phi's.

British Labor Critic to Speak At Convocation

Alfred Edwards, English industrialist and parliamentarian who was recently purged from the British labor party for his criticism of current policies, will address university students Tuesday at 11 a. m. at the Union ballroom. His topic will be "Has British Socialism Failed?"

A discussion and question and answer period at 3 p. m. in the faculty lounge will be held by Edwards for students who desire to attend.

In a recent speech at Edinburgh, Scotland, the Englishman has declared that it was a great relief to be outside the Socialist party after seventeen years inside it. "They have expelled me," he continued, "for saying what I think about the folly of any more nationalization, and now I feel like a man released from captivity."

Edwards believes that the trouble with the Socialist move-

Hanson Joins Campus Royalty

Every campus has its Queens—and now Nebraska has a King.

He's the Chesterfield personality of the month, Jerry Hanson. Jerry is a well known man about campus, holding down the presidency of Delta Upsilon fraternity. Another job which keeps him busy is membership on the inter-fraternity council.

A senior in Engineering college, Jerry came to sudden fame when the Chesterfield campus representatives chose him the personality for November.

Representatives who made the choice are Joel Bailey, Ted Gunderson, and Keith O'Bannon.

ment is that it refuses to move. "It still talks and thinks and feels," he claims, "as though it were in opposition."

A journalist, Edwards has contributed widely to magazines and periodicals in both England and the United States. He has written a number of books and pamphlets on economic topics and has participated in institutions devoted to economic research.

Active in the labor party for many years, he entered Parliament in 1935 and was regarded as one of the best speakers in the House of Commons.
