ISA to Sponsor Regional Meeting

Nebraska Unit To Welcome 12 Chapters

Delegates from 12 schools will travel to the University Nov. 11 and 12 to attend the annual regional Independent Students Association convention.

Nebraska is host to the convention for the first time this year. Representatives from schools in Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado and Wyoming will attend the two-day conference.

Panel Topics

Panel discussions will be held for two classes of schools—those with enrollment under 2,500, and those with higher enrollments. Six topics will be discussed. They are:

1. Social activities and participation problems
2. Point systems
3. Campus service activities
4. Publicity, advertising, and publications
5. Membership and finance
6. Council and governing bodies systems and problems

The panel groupings have been broken up according to size of student bodies in order to enable schools of like size with like problems to work together, according to ISA.

Dutton, Guy Top Cast of Murder Play

When the curtain rises for the University Theater's second production of the year, "The Two Mrs. Carrolls," Margaret Dutton and Richard Guy will be playing the two lead roles announced Max Whittaker, director. The play is scheduled for Dec. 5, 6, and 7 at the Nebraska theater.

Others receiving parts in the production following tryouts last week are as follows: Elaine Elliott will take the part of the first Mrs. Carroll, and Bob Pfeiler will be seen in the role of Dennis Pennington. Twila Walker is Mrs. Latham, Janice Crilly is Cecily, Bill Klamm is Dr. Tuttle and Jan Keppner is Clemance.

Two members of the cast are winners of the University Theater acting awards presented last year at the annual spring banquet of the Nebraska masquers. Margaret Dutton received the "best actress" award for a major role for her performance as Georgine in "Dream Girl" last year, and "best supporting actress" award was presented to Jan Crilly for her part as Mrs. Atkins in "Beyond the Horizon."

Dick Guy is a music major and will be playing his first role in a theater show. He is a member of the Johnny Cox orchestra.

One unusual part in the production, pointed out Whittaker, is the role of Clemance. Jan Keppner who is playing her first role in a University play, in this role, will speak only French.

"The Two Mrs. Carrolls," written by Martin Vale, presents a psychological study of attempted murder. "The play is a good example of contemporary theater in creating and building suspense," claims the director, "and the final outcome may come as a surprise and shock to the audience."

The production has been presented on Broadway, and has been made into a motion picture, starring Barbara Stanwyck and Humphrey Bogart.

Rehearsals and work on the sets have started already, announced Whittaker. Assisting him are Clare Denton, production manager; and Mary Lou Thompson, prompter.

William Ellis, technical director of the theater, still needs workers on crews for the construction of sets.

Independent Organization Urged by Plank

"We must organize the independent independents," stated ISA president William Plank at the all membership convocation held last night in the Union ballroom.

Don Flescher, chairman of the membership drive, presided at the meeting and introduced the officers and council members of ISA.

Purpose of the meeting was to organize wards for independents not living in organized houses and to explain to the students the Independent Student Association regional convention to be held on this campus Nov. 11 and 12.

Ben Wall, ISA representative on the Student Council, urged members to express their opinions about University functions, and stated that, "with an organization like ISA and a voice on the Student Council, the independent student can be a force on this campus."

Wall also urged members to subscribe and contribute to the national independent students magazine, "Smoke Signal."

The following students took part in the program: Jean Malone, Tom Rische, M. J. Melick, Joan Lemming, Paul Rider and Betty Carroll.

Acker Receives Borden Award

One of the highest honors given to any home economics student was received by Laverna Acker in the form of the Borden Company Scholarship, yesterday at the Freshman Home Economics convocation.

The award is given annually to the girl who ranks highest scholastically in the department.

Miss Margaret Fedde, in presenting the honor said, "Not only do we want to congratulate Laverna for achievement in scholarship but for her achievement socially and religiously."

Representatives of ten Ag campus activities gave short talks about their respective activities. Those taking part were: Gwen Monson, Connie Crosby, Alice Boswell, Laverna Acker, Dorothy Bowman, Rob Reun, Dorothy Borgens, Sally Hartz, and Louise McDill.

Parliament Member to Tell Views on Socialism Today

Edwards to Address Convocation at 11 a. m.

ALFRED EDWARDS

Alfred Edwards, English industrialist and parliamentarian, will address University students today at 11 a. m. in the Union ballroom. His topic will be "Has British Socialism Failed?"

Regarded by many as one of the best speakers in the British House of Commons, Edwards represents the Labor party, now in majority.

Appearing before many lecture audiences in the United States and contributing to American magazines, Edwards has offered many ideas on business and industry. An economic analyst and social reformer, he has been active in bringing about many changes in the British situation.

Recently Edwards vigorously opposed the proposed nationalization of Britain's steel and other industries, and was strongly critical of the success of the socialization of England's coal industry. For this stand he has been expelled from the Labor Party.

In a recent speech at Edinburgh, Scotland, the Englishman declared that it was a great relief to be outside the Socialist party after seventeen years inside it. "They have expelled me," he continued, "for saying what I think about the folly of any more nationalization, and now I feel like a man released from captivity."

Edwards believes that the trouble with the Socialist movement is that it refuses to move. "It still talks and thinks and feels," he claims, "as though it were in opposition."

Mr. Edwards, born in humble surroundings in Yorkshire, rose rapidly and is now managing director of Harrison Brothers, Ltd. large manufacturing concern.

A discussion and answer period will be held by Edwards at 3 p. m. in the faculty lounge for students who desire to attend.

The public is invited to attend the convocation. There is no admission charge.

Ag Box Social To Aid AUF

A box social is being planned by the Ag College solicitors of AUF to raise money for this one big charity drive of the campus.

The event will take place at the Ag Activities building Friday, Nov. 11. The boxes, prepared by the women, will be auctioned off beginning at 6:30 p. m. All receipts will go on the Ag College quota for the All University Fund.

Another feature of the evening's entertainment will be a faculty skit organized by Mrs. Tullis, instructor of vocal music for the Ag College. A juke box dance will follow the presentation of the skit.

Mary Francis Johnson, head solicitor for the Ag College said, "In addition to being fun, the box social, with the cooperation of the students of Ag College, should be a good way for the AUF to reach its quota on Ag."

She also stated that the whole University is invited to the box social and entertainment.

Ticket Sales for Migration To Terminate Wednesday

Just four more days until the game at Iowa State . . . and the official student migration to Iowa State campus.

Urging ticket sales, "Potsy" Clark says, "This will be the initial test of true Cornhusker spirit; the team really needs the support of all the students at the Saturday game. Let's show them we're behind them 100%."

The price of the tickets, $14.75, not only covers the cost of transportation and game admission, but insures the possibilities of seeing our team come out victorious.

Along with the student crowd that will migrate on the train, the University ROTC band, Corn Cob actives, Tassel actives and Yell Squad members will be on hand to keep up student spirit.

A good sample of school spirit was shown by Kansas State rooters last week end when that school held their migration. The majority of that crowd traveled by train.

Cobs, Tassels Sell Tickets.

Tickets have been on sale on city campus and Ag campus for the past two weeks, by Corn Cobs and Tassels.

They are being sold in group sales, and tickets acquired so that students may be seated together. The tickets insure good seating arrangements in front of the Iowa State stadium.

Iowa State Cooperation

Iowa State officials have given their full cooperation in order to provide facilities for the Nebraska students. The ballroom in the Union has been reserved for the rally, the bleacher seats procured and eating places will be able to accommodate the crowd.

The Iowa State women's pep section has extended an invitation to Nebraska students to attend a dime dance in the Union following the game.

The migration train will leave Ames at 9:30 Saturday night, and arrive back in Lincoln at 2:30 or 3 a. m.

Students wanting information about the migration may get in touch with any of the following people: Bob Sim, Roz Howard.
