Trial Will Contest Howard's Sanity

Court to Hear Plea in Union Ballroom

One of the only campus trials in the history of the University of Nebraska will begin today as a student appears on a charge of "spiritual insanity."

Roswell Howard, president of the Student Council, will appear in court at the Union ballroom at 7:30 p. m. in a fight to retain his freedom and to prove his sanity.

Prosecuting attorney, the Rev. Rex Knowles of the Presbyterian Student House, will attempt to prove the charge of spiritual insanity and gross negligence in the living of Howard's life.

Defending the accused, Ted Sorenson will act as defense attorney. Sorenson, a law student at the University, will bring to the stand, Kathy Witney, alleged girl friend of the accused as the only defense witness. Her testimony, based on her friendship and relationship to the defendant has been cited as an excellent chance to win an acquittal for Howard.

Three judges will preside over the court. They are: G. W. Rosenlof, registrar, chosen because of his knowledge of students; Dr. Daniel G. Blain, medical director of the American Psychiatric Association, because

AUF Nets $2810 In Drive Receipts

AUF Week contributions from about 12,000 University students and faculty members total $2,810.89.

In announcing the fund receipts for the year's one charity drive on campus, All University Fund Treasurer Ginny Koch revealed that the final figure is partially incomplete.

Thus far, all sororities have turned in their donations to the fund. Some fraternities, all honoraries, denominational groups, faculty members, organized houses and activities have not yet submitted their contributions.

The additional receipts are expected to raise the final tally not more than $500. Proceeds are also anticipated from the AUF auction and the carnival set for this Friday afternoon.

Faculty contributions have been coming in to Miss Koch during the past week, as have additional contributions from students and groups.

Though no exact goal was set for this year's drive, a suggested $5,500 tally was expected. Contributions were to go to the Community Chest, $2,000; World Student Service fund, $3,000, and Displaced Persons on campus, $500.

sponsor the annual Dairyland cafeteria which is held each year in the Dairy Industry building during Farm and Home week. The noon meal will be served as well as coffee in the mid-morning and mid-afternoon.

Groups that still intend to submit donations should see Miss Koch in Room 307, Union, between 4 and 5 p. m. Thursday, and from 4-4:30 p. m. Friday.

Booth collections ended Monday, as did independent students solicitations about campus. Some checks are now being processed at the Student Activities office.

Carson to Repeat Role as KK Master of Ceremonies

John Carson will again be master of ceremonies for the annual Kosmet Klub revue to be presented Friday at 8 p. m. at the University Coliseum.

Faculty Approves Council Proposal

A $1500 limit on band prices for University dances was set yesterday by final faculty action on the Student Council's proposed dance regulations.

The Faculty Committee on Student Affairs approved the two recommendations authored by the Student Council dance-band subcommittee with the advice of the Faculty subcommittee on Social Affairs.

By the action, the price limit will become effective about

January 1 on the budgets of all student-sponsored dances. Formation of a permanent sub-committee of the Council to review dance budgets, assist in making up the University social calendar, aid organizations in arrangements for the dance and continue an analysis of the ticket price question was also approved.

Lower Ticket Prices.

According to Gene Berg, Council subcommittee chairman, the whole purpose of the plan was to cut ticket prices for all-University dances. He commented that the committee's program was "to protect the interests of the entire student body."

"We hoped to reduce exorbitant ticket prices without altering the quality of these dances or the University social life. Neither do we want to subject student organizations to undue risks of losing their group's money."

Other members of the committee that formulated the dance-band plan in the Council were Bob Raun, Bob Parker and Bruce Kennedy.

Other Universities.

The permanent subcommittee created in the plan will review with the Director of Student Activities the budgets, including ticket price, of University dances before any tickets are printed. The approval of the budget must be secured from the secretary of the Student Affairs committee, the Director of Student Activities and the chairman of the subcommittee.

In assisting to draw up the social calendar, the subcommittee will suggest two week-end nights to aid in bargaining power for the agent. The subcommittee will also offer its services to student organizations who desire help on such problems as lighting, decorations, amplification and orchestra.

Economist Discusses Ag Situation

The farm problems won't be solved by agriculture itself but rather by an expanding economic system in this country, O. E. Wells, chief of the Bureau of Agriculture Economics, told the opening of the Farm and Home week yesterday.

"We must remember that the eventual solution of the farm problem lies for the most part outside agriculture itself," Wells said. "It is necessary for farmers to find ways and means of strengthening their bargaining position. This is very evident by the fact that most legislation to date has been the result of organized farmers."

Mr. Wells described this expanding system as one which will require not only more food for many American families but also increased incomes for farm people and the opportunity to use their full resources.

"Much of our research and many of our conservation, reclamation and valley development activities are beside the point unless the United States does continue to grow and unless standards of living do continue to rise," he declared.

The economist listed four factors which he said seemed to immediately determine U. S. farm prices or returns:

- (1) Consumer demand within the United States.
- (2) Foreign demands of which the availability of dollar exchange is the most immediate single factor.

Law Students Attend Party

Over 230 law students and their wives or dates attended the annual law association party in the Union ballroom Monday evening.

The program was opened by Donna Doran, who sang two numbers. Sarah Devoe accompanied her and then played a number on the piano. Patsy Dutton gave one of her much celebrated performances entitled "I'm in Love with a Jerk."

The senior class had charge of the skit, entitled "Layman and the Lawyer," which dealt with the experiences of one Alfred Pichsen in law school and his subsequent success packing for West Publishing Co. The program concluded with a piano solo by Houghton Furr, law school instructor.
