

Committee Reports Told At Council

Nineteen members of the Student Council took advantage of Wednesday's meeting by airing views on various campus functions prevalent to student body opinion from organizations.

Included were the possibility of dismissal of classes the day of Homecoming, the extension of Thanksgiving vacation as a traveling aid to students, and where the authority lies in removing student organization heads.

Nothing definite was decided on these matters, but consideration will be given at later meetings.

Dance Proposal Endorsed.

The most important report of the meeting was the approval of the dance band proposal by the faculty committee on student affairs. With this endorsement, the proposal is now valid.

Very few other committee reports were given. However, the main report concerned the student questionnaires to be drawn up by the Scholarship sub-committee under the direction of Mayer Moskovitz.

He urged Council members to draw up questions "as to what they think should be changed in our scholarship setup." The questions are to be handed in by organization representatives at the next meeting.

A recommendation that the student migration be planned and the date set a year in advance was heard following a report of this year's migration. No action was taken.

DP Meeting Scheduled.

Vladimir Lavko, sub-committee chairman of DPs, reported a meeting date for University students concerning the drawing up of a new organization in taking care of the sponsorship of DP students. This was in connection with the proposal submitted by Lavko last week.

Three other ideas concerning campus activities during summer school, a campus bulletin board for posting meeting dates, and the looking in to the exchange of student activity tickets among students, were submitted to the Council by the Student Activities committee chairman, Gene Berg. The next meeting of the council will be held the Wednesday following Thanksgiving vacation.

Wesleyan to Hear Foreign Students

Problems of world government will be the panel discussion topic at the Wesleyan University convocation, to be held Thursday, Nov. 17, at 10 a. m.

Speakers have been provided by the NUCWA and include Paul Reitez, who will discuss federal world government and its possibilities today, Claude Hannezo, who will speak on world government and its possibilities in the future. Juergens Herbat will discuss the negative side of the problem, world government in the remote future.

Rules, Dates For Bridge Tourney Told

A preliminary round to determine the University's entrants in the National Intercollegiate Bridge tournament will be held later this semester, the Union activities offices announced.

The contest, which more than 300 colleges and universities have been invited to enter, will begin in February. A preliminary round of contract bridge will be played at that time and the sixteen highest ranking teams will then participate in the finals.

The finals will be held at the Blackstone hotel in Chicago. Expenses will be paid by the tournament committee. Only undergraduate students are eligible to play the event, which offers a trophy for the winners.

Last year's tournament was won by the Wayne University team, in competition with 1306 students from 163 colleges in 45 states. To insure representation from all parts of the country in the finals, the country has been divided into eight zones, with two pairs of finalists from each zone.

Students wishing to enter the Nebraska preliminaries may sign up starting immediately at the Union activities office. The approval of the dean, which the national committee requires before a college can be regarded as officially entered, has been secured.

Mass Meeting Called to Air D.P. Question

A mass meeting for all persons interesting in working for and with displaced persons on the campus will be held at 5 p. m. Thursday, Nov. 17 in Room 316 of the Union.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Student Council committee on Displaced Persons. Vladimir Lavko, committee chairman, in announcing the meeting said that "all discerning students are invited to join to tackle the problems related to bringing more DPs to our campus, and to help those already among us to adjust themselves."

Lavko pointed out that "any person for a better world today realizes that it takes more than good intention." He continued that "basic world problems are not achieved in the verbal abstraction of the classroom, in wishful thinking, however idealistic it may be," but rather "there must be a way of working out problems in the everyday give and take of human relationships."

All students are urged to help in solving these manifold problems. The reward will be a better appreciation of different cultures and a contribution to the student's own emotional maturity in human relations.

Economist . . .

(3) Supplies of agricultural commodities and their distribution between users or markets.

(4) Bargaining conditions under which farm supplies are marketed.

Dr. Wells concluded that since the consumption of food in the country today is 25% above prewar years but that food supplies are 35% greater than prewar levels; a good foreign market is necessary for American farmers unless they are willing to face acreage and marketing adjustments.

He said another relatively good year for farm exports is in sight but the longer-run problem is still unanswered. This, he said, is the most difficult single question in the whole farm field.

The economist said that farm prices are on a downward drift. This trend is being felt severely by many farm families and it must be halted soon, he declared.

The entire field of agricultural programs will be discussed at a special panel discussion Thursday morning. Participants will include Wells, Dr. T. W. Schultz of the University of Chicago, Kirk Fox, editor of Successful Farming; Sam McKelvie of Wood Lake; and Frank W. Reed, state PMA chairman.

Union to Teach Square Dancing

"Swing your partner, almande left." You don't know what they mean? Then by all means find out.

Free instruction by an experienced square dance instructor will be given from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Thursday in the XYZ parlors of the Union. This should straighten out the "dos-a-dos."

A regular series of square dances will start in January, to be sponsored by the City Campus Square Dance Club, a sub-committee of the Union dance committee.

The question of the week . . . Will there be a rally Friday night. The rally committee doesn't know. The Pep squad doesn't know. Do you?
