NU Wins Closer, 25 to 14

KOSMET KLUB ROYALTY—Prince Kosmet Don Bloom and Nebraska Sweetheart Roxie Elias break through the red heart to become the couple of the hour at the annual Kosmet Klub fall revue. Their presentation climaxed the presentation of the fraternity skit show Friday night.

Bloom, Elias Join KK Royalty Roll

As the orchestra played "Sweet Nebraska Sweetheart," two shadows appeared behind the large red cellophane heart on the stage of the Kosmet Klub fall revue.

Several seconds—and a football limp—later, Roxie Elias and Don Bloom stepped through the heart to be named Nebraska Sweetheart and Prince Kosmet of 1949.

Crowd Votes.

A capacity crowd which filled the Coliseum Friday night applauded while its choices were introduced. The couple was elected by votes on each ticket at the door.

Miss Elias and Bloom were

Flying Club Elects '49-50 Officers

Don Maunder was re-elected president of Flying Kernels at their last meeting.

Cherly Jones was elected vice-president, and Beverly Shuman was chosen associate flight director. Blaine Runner and Louise Cook were re-elected secretary-treasurer and flight director, respectively.

Maunder outlined activities of the club for the year, which will include breakfast flights, an air meet in the spring, and representation at the National Inter-collegiate Air Meet again this year. The club also hopes to work out a plan with a local airport whereby its members may fly at reduced rates.

It was decided that each member would discuss a phase of flying, such as weather, navigation, instruments, at each of the meetings. Beverly Shuman will lead the discussion at the next meeting.

chosen from six Prince Kosmet and Nebraska Sweetheart finalists, selected from candidates named by organized houses by Mortar Boards and Innocents.

Miss Elias, a member of Alpha Phi sorority, is a section editor of The Cornhusker, an AWS board member, a cheerleader and a member of YWCA.

Football Squad Member.

Varsity football squad member, Bloom, is a Phi Gamma Delta, sports editor of The Cornhusker, and an N Club man. An ankle injury identified Bloom as he limped through the heart with Miss Elias.

Introduced by Bob Sim, president of Kosmet Klub, the new Sweetheart received a bouquet of roses from KK business manager Jack Campbell, and the '49 Prince Kosmet was presented with a gift from the men's dramatic group.

The presentation of the couple climaxed an evening of eight fraternity skits, with Jack Carson acting as master of ceremonies for the fall revue.

Regional ASCE Elects NU Officer

Officers for the Mid-Continent Conference of Student Chapters ASCE for 1950 were elected at the last business meeting.

Hal Faulconer of Kansas State College was named president; Frank A. Dulton, Nebraska University, vice-president; and K. W. Rippy of Arkansas University, secretary-treasurer.

The fifth annual Mid-Continent Conference will be held at the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, Arkansas, in the fall of 1950.

Billboard Cites NU Action on Name Bands

Billboard magazine headlined Nebraska's $1500 band price limit in its Nov. 12 issue and cited the action as having "widely felt ramifications in the band booking business."

Under a banner saying "Rah Rahs Sound Off Vs. Names," the "world's foremost amusement weekly" reported "a rebellion against 'exorbitant prices' for name bands which show signs of engulfing 163 colleges and universities... was instigated... at the University of Nebraska."

The author of the story, Johnny Sipple, wrote to Duane Lake, that the editors of Billboard "justly feel that this is an important controversy."

The story told of the Student Council—faculty plan at this University to limit costs of bands for University functions. It also told of a program gaining impetus in the American Council of Unions, which Lake serves as vice president along the same lines as the student action.

NU Students, Faculty Speak On FEPC Bill

Several University students and professors were among those who testified at a hearing before a legislative group at the State Capitol on a proposed FEPC bill Saturday.

Two faculty members from the law college, Professors Allen Axelrod and Paul D. Tillet spoke in behalf of the proposal. Axelrod gave a discussion of the possible alternatives to setting up such a commission and the provisions that would be desirable. Tillet based his testimony on his experiences during the war with the President's committee on discrimination.

Ted Sorenson, a junior law school student spoke in behalf of the proposed bill and pointed to a growing support it is finding on the University campus. Charles Goulsby, also a University student, spoke in behalf of the FEPC.

Several other students and faculty members, all supporters of the proposal, attended the meeting but did not testify.

Crop Judgers To Compete in K. C. Contest

The University crops judging team left today for Kansas City to compete in the contest to be held there Tuesday.

After the Kansas City judging the team will move to Chicago where they will compete in the National Collegiate Crops Judging contest Nov. 26.

Men recently named to the team by Coach Dave Sanders are Jim McDowell, Dale Flowerday, Lloyd Wirth and Wayne Nielsen.

Sanders' team will compete with nine other teams from surrounding states at the contest in Chicago starting at 9 a. m. Tuesday. Generally the contests last four and one-half hours, three in the morning and one and one-half hours in the afternoon.

Last year the crops team placed second at Kansas City and fourth at Chicago. Expenses for the trip are paid by Tri-K, agronomy honorary.

Long Runs Thrill 32,000 Fans

By JERRY WARREN

Avenging last year's crushing upset, the Cornhuskers out-powered Colorado's Buffaloes, 25-14, and brought Bill Glassford's first year at Nebraska to a successful climax. Eleven seniors, headed by Tom Novak, played their last collegiate game. Novak, who was celebrating his 24th birthday, finished his career in a style well known to Husker fans. Tom received the acclaim of 32,000 fans and the fine Nebraska band during halftime.

Although the spotlight was focused on these 11 men, tribute must be given to such undergraduates as Bill Mueller, Nick Adduci, Fran Nagle, Charley Toogood, Walt Spellman, Moon Mullen and many others. Their play was an outstanding feature of the game.

Early Fumbles Hurt

Inability to hang onto the ball hampered Husker progress in the early stages of the game but the Scarlet and Cream settled down in the second and third quarters to outlast the injured Buffs.

Colorado scored first when senior Harry Meginnis fumbled Malcolm Miller's punt and Pete Thompson fell on it for the Buffs on Nebraska's 13-yard line. Four plays later Merwin Hodel plunged one yard for the score. Ed Pudlik converted the extra point to give Colorado a 7-0 lead after three minutes of play.

A scant three minutes later, Meginnis made up for his bobble when he shot through a wide hole in the right side of the Buff line, surprised the secondary, and sprinted 55 yards to score. The speedy Lincoln halfback was never touched on his trip to the goal. Rich Yost converted to tie the score, 7-7.

Adduci Goes 75 Yards

Not to be outdone, Nick Adduci, Chicago fullback, abandoned his line-plunging chores and raced 75 yards to score. The stocky plunger took the ball on a reverse from Fran Nagle and sped down the right sidelines. Ron Clark cleared the last Colorado defender from the path of Adduci. Yost's kick was no good.

Both of these scoring drives started on the Husker 20 with Kenny Fischer, senior from St. Edward, working as quarterback.

The Buffs received their second scoring opportunity late in the first quarter when Hilary Johnson, third string end, covered Kenny Fischer's fumble on the NU 26-yard line.

Hodel Scores for CU.

A Dane Graves to John Strobel pass, covering eight yards, and two running plays by Hodel brought the ball to the five-yard line. From there Hodel, the running star for Colorado, hurdled right guard and crashed into the end zone standing up. Pudlik converted to give the Buffs a 14-13 lead.

Clark's fumble of the kickoff gave the Buffs another chance but Art Bauer stopped the threat on the Husker 10 when he recovered his tenth fumble of the year.

A long Nagle to Frank Simon pass, reminiscent of the Kansas game, set up the Huskers' next touchdown. Nebraska took over the ball when Clark returned Miller's punt to the NU 48. Nagle speared for two yards and then passed to Simon.

Pass Covers 50 Yards

The ball went over fifty yards in the air as Simon took the ball on the two and slid over the goal line. The ball was ruled dead on the two after a 48-yard gain. The stubborn Buff line held, the next two power plays so Fran Nagle called an end run. Rocky Mueller took the ball around left end and tipped over the stripe for the score. A bad pass from center forced Rich Yost to run the con-

Ag Leaders Debate U.S. Farm Issues

Over 2,000 farm people and students heard six experts debate what kind of farm program the U. S. should have to give the farmer a fair return for his expenditure of labor to produce food and clothing.

The experts were O. V. Wells, chief of the bureau of agricultural economics; Dr. T. W. Schultz, University of Chicago economist; Sam McKelvie, Valentine livestockman; Kirk Fox, editor of Successful Farming; Frank Reed, Nebraska director of the production and marketing administration; and Dr. C. C. Mitchell, head of the rural economics department of the University.

Two Conclusions

Two broad conclusions emerged from the two hour forum held at the Ag College as a part of Farm and Home Week.

The first is that some sort of government program is necessary to give the farmers the organization needed to insure them of firm hold on the economic pump handle along with labor and industry.

The second is that farmers are poorly informed on what kind of program they want and a widespread grass roots educational program is needed to crystallize their own thinking.

Question of Control

"The question is not whether we are in favor of a controlled or an uncontrolled farm enterprise in this country," Dr. Mitchell said. "The question is what kind of control do we want."

Dr. Schultz said, "The issue of what kind of farm program we are to have must be threshed out at every crossroads in public forum fashion. Congress in the near future will make the decision. It should be wisely advised by the farmers."

Annual E-Week Heads Named By Exec Board

William Wendland and Eugene Von Fange have been chosen co-chairmen of the 1950 Engineers Week by the Engineering Exec board.

The appointment was made after interviews with 12 candidates nominated by the engineering societies.

Engineers Week is held each spring, and features displays put on by each engineering college, as well as a field day, and a climactic dinner-dance. Complete plans for the week will be made by the co-chairmen, in conjunction with the Engineering Exec board. They will set the date for the observance and select committees and chairmen from the various engineering colleges.

Wendland is a senior in civil engineering, and a pledge to Sigma Tau, Gamma Delta, and Pi Mu Epsilon.
