Campus Chatter

BY JEAN FENSTER

You lucky, lucky girls! For your information we are publishing a list of truly eligible bachelors. First come, first served. What's more, some of these dateless men ARE eligible bachelor candidates and they DON'T have dates, to the Mortar Board Ball Friday night. This is your big chance, so get on that phone. We'd give you their phone numbers too but since you're so anxious to use those new Student Directories, we'll leave the pleasure all to you.

Here's what you can pick from: Bill Dugan, Jerry Ewing, Frank Jacobs, Don Bloom, Jack Cohen, Byron McLaird, Bob (I hate publicity) Berkshire, Paul McKee, Al Abramson, Tom Kokjer, Swede Hanson, Bob Metrakos, Herb McDole, Fritz Simpson, Butch Mansfield, Don Cook, Butch Schroeder, Dick Lander and Chuck Burmeister. If you can't find any other number, try 2-7816—that'll get any of them.

Some more pinnings for the books: Dave Miller and Joey Walters, Jan Champine and Chuck Dugan, Jan Armstrong and Dick Simonson. Going steady are Charlene Kruse and Don Lawson.

If any of you girls would like to learn the piano, guitar, accordion, organ, fencing, skiing, German, French, Hungarian or any other little thing, see Louis Stur at the Sig Ep house. No foolin'!

What could be Joe King's interest in Kappa Alpha Theta? Some rumor it's Sue Peterson. Making regular off-campus trips lately is Jim Kostal, and inevitably he heads for Bryan Memorial Nurses home.

The Thetas are planning a dinner at Arbor Manor prior to the Mortar Board Ball Friday night. Couples going include Jo Zierott and Charlie Toogood, Gloria Pinney and Don Sailors, Joan Swerre and Bud Gilmore, Nancy Miller and Don Schneider.

Sig Eps planning a big time at the Mortar Board Ball are Jim Keenan and Bev Thompson, Jim Fild and Claire Raish, Berry Thompson and Judy Schnert, Wendy Cole and Carolyn Kunkle, Dave Myers and Nancy Glynn, Don Not Guilty Darst and Carol Gelber and Hod Myers and Alice Irwin, who will have their own chairs.

Against Discrimination? . . .

"Racial discrimination? Sure, I'm against it. Who isn't? After all, this is a free country . . ."

Familiar? Yes, it's a common thing heard about campus these days. But how sincere is it? That is the question.

It sounds good to sermonize on the deplorable conditions in the South relating to allowing equal rights to Negroes. Yet what good is the ideal if students sit back and say, yes, the situation is bad there, but not here.

In effect, that is what many students have done in the past week. The specific incident we are referring to is the speech of the distinguished Walter White last week on racial discrimination problems. An overflow crowd attended the convocation—and applauded when White condemned a reactionary senator from Nebraska who is opposed to Civil Rights legislation. And then what? Fraternity, sorority and independent students went home to dinner and joked about "Pinky" and "Abie." It happened more than once.

Where's your sense of humor, you may say. But if we can joke so flippantly about such a serious problem, how sincere are we when we say we want "equal rights"?

What we are getting at is this: Nebraska has made a good start toward lessening the racial problem on this campus by lifting of discriminatory clauses bars on the admittance of women to the university-operated residence halls. It's only a start, though. Another start was made last week in Washington, D.C., when a resolution urging the striking out of discriminatory clauses of fraternity constitutions was adopted by the national interfraternity conference.

The effect is more important than the fact. Will girls in the women's dorm who are of other than Caucasian extraction really be allowed to live in the dorm without any discrimination whatever? Or will they be stuck off in a corner of the dorm by themselves? And the fraternities. Very little can come of the resolution, says one interfraternity council member who attended the meeting. It was only a resolution—no enforcing clauses. Something like having your cake and eating it too, we presume.

What the campus, and the nation, needs is a practical plan for the elimination of discrimination in the minds of people, as well as in their actions. We have no profound solution except this—only by thinking about the problem—often—will a solution be reached. Not just a few people with profound philosophic leanings; but many people, with only ordinary minds, can solve the problem, which affects so many people who have only ordinary minds. It's something to think about.
