With Tongue in Cheek

By Cub Clem

An instructor Wednesday morning pointed out to me a very obvious defect in the Council's by-laws on election publicity. According to Article 4, a candidate is disqualified if any printed, mimeographed, typewritten, etc., material is circulated in his behalf. What better plan could be devised to elect a person than to distribute a few mimeographed sheets of publicity material around the campus on each of his or her opponents? Wouldn't the Council have to declare everyone disqualified except the one who was not publicized? This is but one of dozens of reasons we have heard on why the article in question should be revised or thrown out altogether. But it'll do for now.

Soph Registration Cards Available

Sophomores pick up their assignment cards Thursday in Temporary building B. Seniors and juniors who have not picked up their cards may do so then.

To qualify for sophomore cards students must have from 27 to 53 hours credit. Conferences with advisers are being held this week also. Students should make appointments immediately for making out the second semester schedules. Actual registration procedure will begin next Monday, Dec. 12.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

YOU'D never guess to see him now, but just two weeks ago there was a sad, forlorn look in Sheedy's beady eyes. People picked on him because his hair looked like he was moulting. Not a gal on campus would even carry a conversation with him. Then he bought a bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil hair tonic and he's been a gay old bird ever since. Non-alcoholic Wildroot containing Lanolin keeps hair neat and well-groomed all day long. Relieves annoying dryness, removes the loose ugly dandruff that can make you a social outcast. So if your hair is giving you trouble, set your corpse for the nearest drug or toilet goods counter and get a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil hair tonic. And ask your barber for professional applications. It's the best treatment your hair cadaver get.

Administration Distributes Exam Query

If any upperclassman wants to find fault with the system of examinations on the University campus, they will have the chance this week. Approximately 3,000 questionnaires have been or will be distributed to 9 a.m. classes Monday, Wednesday and Friday this week by the examination committee of which Dean T. J. Thompson is the chairman. Faculty members will receive blanks by mail next week in order to get their opinion of examination procedures also. The purpose of the survey is to discover the interests and opinions of both students and faculty members in regard to examinations, said Dean Thompson. In order to conduct a fair survey, content of the questionnaires will not be revealed until upperclassmen and faculty have turned in their blanks.

casting a write-in vote is undemocratic, and seemingly not in accord with the Nebraska statutes on elections which, we feel, should possibly set a precedent in this case.
"As for our evasiveness in revealing the results of the election to The Daily Nebraskan, the judiciary committee chairman felt justified in such action. An unusual situation had presented itself, which, I thought, merited further consideration by the entire judiciary committee. Had the entire judiciary committee been able to meet immediately after the election results had been determined, the results would have no doubt been released for publication in Wednesday's paper. However, since the committee did not meet until today, the results were not available for publication until today.
"Going one step further, I as chairman of the judiciary committee wish to commend the entire Council, and especially the elections committee, upon the ef-

Letterip

(Editor's note: Every member of the student body, faculty and administration should read this letter.)

Dear Editor:
We wish to explain our views on the organization of new student government.

We believe that disinterest in politics is destructive to democratic government, whether that disinterest appears in international, local or university politics. We believe that a student who concerns himself with university politics will extend that concern into state, national and international affairs. We believe, on the other hand, that lethargy toward university politics breeds lethargy toward the higher levels of government and by that means tends to destroy democratic government.

We recognize the work of non-university agencies in teaching democratic government, as the establishment by the American Legion of Boys' and Girls' counties, states and nations. We recognize the progress extended toward world understanding by the granting of international exchange scholarships and the holding of world student conferences. We recognize the work done by this university in providing a splendid convocation program and scholarships for displaced persons, all contributing to the students' political training.

But, we recognize too, the failure of this University to stimulate practical politics.

We feel that the University administration strongly desires wholesome politics on this campus. We feel that the plan we propose can form the background for such a political program.

We believe that it is obvious that the University Party has had many faults—we readily admit them.

We believe, however, that the party cannot be criticized merely from the fact it is a party. The party system is the very backbone of democracy everywhere. We believe that those who favor a no-party system are being unrealistic.

We believe also that the Party should not be criticized merely because it represents the Fraternities. Parties are organizations with common interests. We believe that a party representing fraternities is not only natural but desirable.

We believe that the party system should not be condemned on this campus solely because of its encouragement of party-line voting as opposed to voting for the "best" candidates. This criticism can be level at democratic election systems everywhere. We believe that this defect is more than balanced by the pressure it puts on parties to select superior candidates. It would be even more effective on this campus by the training it affords in democracy, a training parallel to the systems employed in forming our state and national governments. Most important of all, a party system stimulates interest in politics, and this campus sorely needs such stimulation.

We believe that the faults of the University Party stem not from the fact that it is a party, but from the fact that there has been no party to oppose it. We believe that the Party's faults will disappear when strong parties are organized against it. We favor the organization of new parties.

- We propose:
1. More elections—besides the present commercial elections which aim at encouraging attendance at the various university dances.
 2. A larger slate of class officers, with duties and prestige for the offices to encourage active campaigning for them.
 3. Organization of political parties, and that they be open parties.
 4. That issues be encouraged on which the various parties can take sides in active campaigning.
 5. Publicity for the elections, that the parties be given free space in the Daily Nebraskan to present their candidates and views; that there be more freedom in carrying on parades and using posters; and that there be mass meetings.
 6. Allowing parties and candidates to campaign and not merely to state the name of the candidates and their activities.
 7. Election of members of the student council as representatives of the various colleges, as in the old constitution with, however, one important change: We favor election on a proportional representation system, allowing a party to have representatives in proportion to the number of votes cast by that party in the particular college. We believe that this will stimulate the formation of new parties.
 8. Election of additional class officers to be held in two or three months, at which time officers for the freshman and sophomore classes would be elected, and perhaps vice presidents, secretaries and treasurers for all the classes. The delay in holding this election would allow the organization of a new election system, and give time to other student groups to complete the formation of new parties.

- We oppose:
1. The present Student Council selection system, which does not represent the students of the University, and which does not allow elections and campaigning.
 2. Any attempt to fix representation by allotting any group, whether it be a fraternity, sorority or unaffiliated, a fixed ratio on a Student Council. We oppose any such plan as being directly contrary to a free democratic election system, and as discouraging active participation in the elections.

We hope the University will accept this letter with the sincerity with which it is written. We hope our proposals are acceptable to the University administration, the students, and the Student Council. We hope that the views of other groups whether for or against our views, will be expressed.

Sincerely,
THE UNIVERSITY PARTY.

ficient and judicious manner in which the election was held. This commendation comes not only from myself, but from our faculty advisers as well. This speaks well for our group. Respectfully submitted, Fred Chael, chairman, judiciary committee."
