Gals to Reign at Annual Ball

MB's to Reveal Eight 'Bachelors'

Coeds will "get in the boat"—or baby carriages, ambulances and possibly cars Friday night for the campus' annual "turn-about" dance, the Mortar Board Ball.

From 8:30 to 12 p. m., the women will play the escort, from calling for their dates to providing the corsages.

They will dance with the men of their choice to the music of Jimmy Dorsey and his orchestra. Their votes have determined the eight 1949 Eligible Bachelors who will be presented during the ball.

The second formal of the year, the Mortar Board Ball will be held in the Coliseum. Tickets are $3 a couple, with spectator tickets at 70 cents. They will be sold until 11:30 p. m.

There'll be plenty for spectators to see if the usual "vice versa" atmosphere reigns at the ball. In past years, coeds have had their dates wear corsages of harness, caged rabbits and white mice, pink elephants and kewpie dolls.

Give Paraphernalia

The men give their escorts bulky paraphernalia to carry, such as shaving equipment, hair brushes and shoe shine kits. "Match, please" is the man's comment for the evening as the girl buys the dinner.

KOLN will broadcast Dorsey's music from 9:45 to 10:15 p. m. The saxophonist and his orchestra have recently been in Hollywood for movies, records and nightclub engagements.

Tassels and members of Mortar Board have been selling tickets to the Ball during the past weeks. Monday night, trios of the MBs toured the women's houses on campus as "Three Wise Men" to publicize the event.

120 Delegates To Convene at AICHe Meet

The Nebraska chapter of American Institute of Chemical Engineers is playing host to more than 120 delegates from chapters from eight midwest states at a regional conference Friday and Saturday.

Principal speaker for the conference will be Richard Jay, plant manager of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. of Lincoln. He will address the Saturday morning convocation in Love Library on the topic, "Stop, Think, and Take Action," at 10 a. m. A question and answer period will follow his speech.

Jay has been with the Goodyear Tire Co. since his graduation from Iowa State college in 1939 with the exception of duty in the armed service. The position he now holds qualifies him for the topic he will discuss before the chemical engineering students, says a member of AICHe.

The delegates will also take part in the open forum discussing chapter achievement, along

Council Seeks Campus Opinion On Proposed Student Court

A general outline of the proposed Student Court Constitution is published below in order to get student reaction before final drafts are made and before final approval is given by the Student Council and faculty.

Plans for the proposed Court, which has been under discussion and formation by the Judiciary sub-committee of the Council for the past six weeks, were released for publication at Wednesday's meeting.

So far, the main objection to the Court's constitution, voiced by the Council representatives who have explained the plan to their respective organizations, seems to lie in the jurisdictional authority of the Court.

The objection, however, is the question of the need for such a Court.

The main points of the Constitution, which was set up under the direction of Fred Chael, chairman of the Judiciary sub-committee, and other committee members, are explained below.

Judiciary Authority

Article I of the Constitution provides that the Student Court would have jurisdiction over "all reported violations of accepted discipline." This includes violations occurring either on or off the University campus. Also parking violations would be governed by the Court.

It does not include violations of a serious nature. These would continue to be handled by the University Administration. Nor would the Court have jurisdiction of cheating in classes or scholarship delinquency.

It would also be possible for the Court to give advisory opinions on matters dealing with student affairs.

As can be seen in the above provisions, the Court would only have jurisdiction over a limited number of cases. Ray Simmons, Council representative from the Law Association, points out that "the Court would be weak at first but once it has gained prestige the Constitution could be amended and its powers increased."

Membership

As to provisions to membership, the Student Court would consist of seven judges to be elected by the Student Council "from the membership of the Student Council."

The head of the Court would be known as the President of the Court, and would be elected by the Council from the groups of seven judges. He would preside at all sessions of the Court, and, in general, administer the Court.

One of the other judges would serve as Court Reporter, one as Clerk of the Court and the remaining four as an Investigating committee. They would be appointed by the President and all, including the President, would serve for one school year.

The Constitutional provision for complaints of violations provide that they may be made to

The traditional Ag College Christmas service will be held next Tuesday evening, Dec. 13, at 8 p. m. in the College Activities building auditorium.

This annual Ag college service, which was originally scheduled for Dec. 14 but changed because of the basketball game, will be the only all-Ag college Christmas get-together the students will have this year. Students as well as the faculty are especially invited to this service, according to Neal Baxter of the program committee.

The program will feature the Ag college chorus under the direction of Mrs. Altinas Tullis and Miss Elinor Hansen, organist and accompanist.

The program will include an organ prelude by Miss Hansen and the invocation by Rev. Thomas Barton, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church.

The girls chorus will sing a selection followed by excerpts from "The Messiah" by the whole group.
