Letterip

To the Student Body:

I want to express my thanks to those who participated in the card section at the half-time of the football games. Much of the credit for the success and return of the card section to its pre-war quality goes to the Corn Cobs and Tassels for distributing and separating the cards on cold Saturday mornings; to Hugh Cook for long dreary evenings spent stamping the instruction cards; to Don Lenz for his words of wisdom and able counseling; to The Daily Nebraskan for its support; and to the many others, too numerous to mention, who worked for me.

With this kind of cooperation the card section will continue to be one of the high spots at the Cornhusker football games.

Thanks
Jerry Morris

NUCWA Seeks Foreign Students

Foreign student assistance in the model United Nations assembly on campus in March is being enlisted by NUCWA this week.

Letters have been sent by the foreign affairs group to all foreign students on campus. They have been asked to serve as advisers to houses and groups representing their native countries in the model assembly.

After Christmas vacation a meeting will be held by NUCWA of all house representatives and foreign student advisers. At that time, exchange of information on the assembly countries will take place.

A new vice-president was named by NUCWA recently. Harold Peterson, international relations major, replaces Bob Stevens in the post, after Stevens resigned.

Peterson will serve temporarily as vice-president until he is formally approved by NUCWA members in the group's mass meeting. He was appointed by members of the NUCWA executive committee as provided for in the organization's by-laws.

Campus Chatter

By Jean Fenster.

Reporters on duty here Monday afternoon are still in a dither after standing in line to "congratulate" Susie Reed; or maybe it's that big diamond that keeps them in a daze. Fritz Simpson does nothing but smile. Oh, happy days.

The weekend resulted in a number of other engagements, too. Shirley Anderson and Don Steinauer, Donna Grueber and Jim Murphy are all engaged. Pinned are Jim Van Burgh and Pat Gaddis, Barbara Drost and Bob Hinds, Kelly Cuthbertson and Rod Benson, Peggy Reynolds and John McDermott, Sally Holmes and Jack Campbell.

The Kappa Deltas are having their Christmas dinner Wednesday night. Dates attending are Nancy McNally and Bill Koehn, Carol Strong and Christy Lind, Pat Horstman and Ray Stryker.

There were a lot of Christmas parties over the weekend too. The Phi Psi's had a dinner dance at the Lincoln hotel Saturday night. Attending were Bob Sherwood and Gwen Grosshans, Kent Axtell and Mary Hubka, Al Oldfather and Germaine Christensen, Dick Kuska and Marcia Adams.

Terrace hall held its Christmas party Saturday night. Couples present included Bonnie McCoy and Jerry Lawson, Katie Jensen and Bill Wicks, Betty Harris and Jo Anderson.

The Pi Phi's held their annual Christmas ball Saturday night, courtesy of the pledges. Seen at the ball were Nancy Morgan and Bill Misko, Joann Miller and Dave Phipps, Marilyn Brewster and Tom McVay, Ann Stevenson and Frank Leary.

There seems to be an air of mystery at the Beta Sib house. The fellows are still looking forward to seeing Don Kroeger hang his pin.

Dining at the University club Friday night before the Mortar Board Ball were Mary Middleton and Nolan Jones, Marilyn Bamesberger and Ed Tegmeier, Mendell Archerd and Jackie Becker joined the Alpha Phis and their dates at the Italian Village. Also seen at the ball were Bob Seacrest and Nancy Stebbins, Joe Gifford and Jackie Sorenson, Dick Kinsey and Carmen Christoffel. Charlotte Rhoades and Gordon Heebner dined with the Sigma Kappas and their dates at Don's Supper club.

The Little Things . . .

"It's the little things that count" is perhaps one of the most of the quoted proverbs of our day. It's going to take on more meaning in Lincoln in the next three months too. At least that is the hope of the 100-person committee which includes representatives of more than 60 organizations from Lincoln which have formed the Courtesy committee.

An extensive courtesy campaign began last Monday and will continue for the next three months. The University is taking part in the campaign, and could be one of the main lines of attack—or defense perhaps, by setting an example for the rest of the students of the city.

Since University students make up about 9,000 of the city population, it seems logical that this would be a good place to emphasize courtesy. A few of the many things a courtesy questionnaire which was sent out last spring revealed were discourtesy on buses, among car drivers and at sports events. These are all directly related to University life. Added to this list might be more of the "little things"—like crowding into line for basketball tickets, shoving into already overcrowded booths in the Crib, sleeping in class, or worse yet, talking to your neighbor so that the professor is barely audible to those who might want to take notes. Individually, these things sound like very insignificant matters—but added together, they can make for a very unpleasant existence for many people.

The theme of the city-wide campaign is "Courtesy is Everybody's Business." As any University student will tell you, a large part of "everybody" is the University. It's up to 9,000 students to help make the "little things" count.

Books at Ag . . .

Ag students are 100 percent for a new bookstore . . . a store big enough to handle supplies . . . a store which would carry books other than texts used for Ag courses only. Their campus has long needed such a bookstore. If Ag students wish to buy supplies, they must get them on the city campus or downtown. Nor can they get books for "non-Ag" courses at their store.

A poll conducted by the Ag Exec board through various organizations showed that the students were strongly in favor of a new store. Poll or no poll, anyone can see the need exists. The Ag store, operating as a branch of Regents bookstore, is set up in a "cracker box" in which one can scarcely turn around, let alone handle supplies and all desirable texts.

The Ag Exec board has shown the administration how the students stand. What more does it take to make the administration take immediate steps to remedy the situation? Susie Reed
