Gerhart Seconded

The person who seconded Gerhart's nomination said, "When Bud stepped into the job of business manager . . . the office just vacated was a complete mess—there was no system of bookkeeping and no records . . . I feel that when one looks at Bud's scholastic record, his very valuable work in many student activities, and his contribution to the entire fraternity system through his leadership of his own fraternity no one can disagree that here is a man truly deserving recognition and honor."

Nursing Head To Hold Talks Wednesday

Any woman student having questions about the nursing profession may obtain a personal interview tomorrow with Miss Irma Kyle, Director of the University's School of Nursing—if arrangements are made today.

Appointments with Miss Kyle are being scheduled from 9 a. m. to 12 a. m. and from 1 to 4 p. m. Wednesday. Young women desiring an interview should contact Miss Mary Augustine, Assistant Dean of Women, at Ellen Smith Hall.

These interviews are being arranged to aid those women students who have decided to study nursing and also those who have not yet chosen a particular field of study.

Miss Kyle will address a group meeting at 5 p. m. Wednesday in Love Memorial Library. At that time she will outline the opportunities nursing offers as a profession and as training for future homemakers and give details of the University's educational program. The meeting is open to all University women students.

Training in nursing is invaluable to women, regardless of what they choose as a vocation, according to Miss Kyle. As a profession nursing nearly guarantees a good-paying job at any time. Graduate nurses are always in demand for teaching, in industry, public health and many varied fields. Salaries are comparable to, if not greater than, other women's professions.
