Don't Leave, Bill, Three Top Big Seven Huskers Need You Kanne State S Students Insist Handball Play

BY KIMON KARABATSOS Is head football Coach William J. "Bill" Glassford going to resign his position at the University? That's the question which has the whole student body practically up in arms.

The "tip" which came out during the K-State-Nebraska basketball game Monday night had Glassford going to Pittsburgh, replacing Walt Milligan who re-signed earlier this month because he had been offered only a one-year contract.

Glassford had his contract re-newed for only one-year last December. He is to be paid $10,000; and at the time of renewal, he said that he was very happy that the Board renewed his stay at the University. UN Officials Quiet whether Glassford has contacted Pitt officials as yet, but there is no question he will meet with them." Clark didn't know that Glassford was already in Chicago and expressed a great deal of surprise when told.

When approached during the evertime tussel, Glassford refused to comment. University officials also declined to offer

There is no official word that Glassford's trip to the "Windy City" has anything to do with the Pitt job, but looking at the past events, you can almost say that the conference is with Pitt officials.

During his "good-will" tours throughout the state, Glassford indicated that when he plans for indicated that when he plans for a higher coaching position it will be one of two schools. It will be the first meet of the season for the Gophers and the first contest held in the new Minnesota field house. The Hus-kers won last year 62-42 at Lincoln and the powerful Gophers, last year's Big Ten indoor champs, are reportedly awaiting the chance to even the score.

Coach Ed Weir will announce his 22-man traveling squad later in the week and is counting heavily on the return to varsity competition of Harry Meginnis. Meginnis, place winner in the 60 yard dash and quarter-mile in last years conference, took second against the Gophers in the 60 last year.

Weir was especially pleased with the showing of Nebraska high jumpers and shot putters in the season's opener against Love.
