Sig Eps Rated as Top IM Cage Outfit for 2nd Week

Sigma Nu Second; DU B Makes First Appearance

By Bill Mundell. Sigma Phi Epsilon is still the number one IM basketball team in the University according to the second of the weekly ratings.

Sigma Nu continued to ride in the second spot only a whisker behind the leaders. The Sig Nu's are all victorious in three games. A new team entered the third position in the All-U ratings as unbeaten Delta Tau Delta climbed a notch to replace Alpha Tau Omega, who dropped to fourth.

Inter-Varsity is Fifth. A denominational team holds down fifth place as the high-flying Inter-Varsity boys sport a record of five wins and no losses.

A newcomer is riding in tenth spot as the Delta Upsilon "B" team made their first appearance. The DU Bees knocked off the tough Phi Delta Beta, 31-25 to earn the tenth rung.

Farm House climbed a notch to sixth in their 64-23 rout of Delta Upsilon while Phi Delta Theta dropped from sixth to seventh. Both the Lutherans and Sigma Gamma Epsilon gained a place since the first week and currently hold down eighth and ninth.

New Bee Leader.

A new team climbed to the top of the Fraternity B League. Previously unbeaten Phi Delta Theta bowed before the DU's, 25-31 and left the number one spot to their conquerors.

The DU's are unbeaten in three games to climb from third place, the Phi Deltas dropping to fifth even though gaining a forfeit from Tau Kappa Epsilon.

Phi Gamma Delta replaces Alpha Tau Omega as the second place B team through the strength of their 20-15 win over the Taus who dropped to third. Sigma Phi Epsilon climbed to fourth position to round out the top five.

In other Bee games Sigma Nu climbed to seventh spot largely through the help of Joe Beech, who poured in 18 points to lead the Nu's to a 26-24 victory over Beta Sigma Psi.

Warriors Second.

Behind top ranked Independent Sigma Gamma Epsilon rests the unbeaten Warriors who have won three straight independent contests. Alpha Sigma Phi, Phi Rollers, and Chem E remain in third, fourth, and fifth spots.

The Phi Rollers ran their unbeaten streak to three Wednesday night as they rolled over Norris House 23-15. Four men tied for top scoring honors for the winners, Volertsen, Hallock, Heeler, and Christenson all garnered four points. Weise led Norris with five.

Dorm C climbed a peg to eighth with a rousing 52-28 win over the Celtics. Art Hinman and Leland Korte led the Dorm scorers, potting 18 and 16 points respectively.

Other Independent games Wednesday night saw Delta Theta Phi taking a 34-13 victory over Phi Alpha Delta. Bevin Bump meshed 12 points to lead the victors with Richards getting eight. Edstrom led the losing scorers with six.

In a thriller all the way, the P. E. Club edged the Mustangs, 39-38 behind the 14-point barrage of Carl Hermance. Johnson got 12 for the Mustangs, who led at the half, 16-15.

Bill LeRoy's 16 points helped Geology to a 51-32 win over Alpha Kappa Psi. Bob Keller dunked 14 points for the losers.

The Six Footers were handed their third straight loss as Phi Delta Phi rocked them, 54-27. Six Footer Paul Griffith led all scorers, making 15. Tyson of the winners earned 13 counters.

In the battle of the dorms, A handed B their third loss, spanking them 36-23. Both Brandon of A and Carter of B netted 12 points.

Sigma Chi Enters. Sigma Chi made their first appearance in the ratings, this week holding down the eighth position in the Fraternity A League.

The Chi's won their third straight game Tuesday, a 25-14 breeze over Kappa Sigma. Unbeaten Phi Gamma Delta made way for the Sig Chi's by climbing a peg to seventh. The Phi Gams have three victories, the latest a 50-25 rout of Pi Kappa Phi.

Behind the two leaders, Inter-Varsity and Lutherans in the Denom League this week are ranked Newman Club, Presby House, and Cotner House. Only the Newman Club is over the 300 mark with a 3-2 record to date.

Matmen, Swimmers In Action

By Ira Epstein

Coach B. R. Patterson's wrestling squad and Coach Hollie Lepley's swimmers will encounter double trouble this week-end.

The splash team will entertain Colorado A and M of Fort Collins, Friday at 4 p.m. and Colorado State College at Greeley on Saturday at 2 p.m., while the mat-men will journey to Ames to meet Iowa State on Friday evening and to Minneapolis to meet the University of Minnesota Saturday.

Marv Grimm, Nebraska's ace dash man of the swimming team will not be able to compete this week-end and possibly be out for a couple of weeks.

Last Thursday, Grimm fell down when he slipped on some ice in front of the Coliseum and sprained his ankle. He was forced out of the meet with Minnesota last week and Lepley will not be able to use him against the Colorado team.

Grimm's loss will considerably hinder Nebraska's chances for a sweep in the dashes. Leading the tankers will be Jack Campbell in the back stroke and Ted Kanamine in the 50 and 100 yard free-styles. Coach Lepley will also be counting on dependable performances by Ed Craren in diving, Paul Goetz in the 220 free-style, and Bill Greer in the breast stroke.

Tom Harley, Buele Balderston, Jerry Barrett, and George Hill complete the Nebraska squad which will compete this week-end. Coach Lepley will be hampered by the loss of Bill Pomroy, who is crippled with a broken foot.

3,000 Expected

An expected crowd of 3,000 people will be on hand at Iowa State to watch the Big Seven wrestling champions from Nebraska tangle with the Cyclones.

Two big reasons for the expected crowd will be the 175 and 136 pound matches. In the 175 pound division, conference champion Herb Reese will be pitted with Glen Brand, Iowa State's brilliant Olympic champion who won the Big Seven title twice. Reese won the title last year, and both men are rated among the best in the weight class in the country.

Cornhusker's Mickey Sparano, 138 pound champion, will meet rapidly improving Bob Wilson, a sophomore who lost a close decision to Big Ten champion Allan Rice of Minnesota two weeks ago.

In the heavyweight battle, massive Mike DiBiasi will attempt to prove to Herb McDermott why he has won the conference heavyweight title three times.

Two Footballers

DiBiasi will get the spotlight again Saturday as he will demonstrate the fine arts of the sport to football star Leo Nomellini of Minnesota.

The Minnesota team, led by Nomellini and Rice, are unbeaten this year, and they won't be any pushover for the potent Nebraska crew.

Rounding out Patterson's crew will be Louis Caniglia, Harold Gilliland, Bob Russel, Edwin Lane, and Don Rauh.

JIM DE ANGELIS—leaves after one year with the Huskers to rejoin Howie Odell at Washington University. You did a good job here. Good luck at Washington.

DeAngelis Leaves

The resignation yesterday of line-coach Jim DeAngelis, although a blow to many Husker followers, came as no great surprise.

DeAngelis was known to be considering the line-coaching job at the University of Washington and although he received only a slight salary increase, he apparently felt the position at the Seattle school offered more chance for advancement in the coaching field.

Reached for comment late yesterday, DeAngelis said, "I consider the job at Washington University a position where I can do more good. Bill and I are both in agreement that I can reach the top a bit faster with the coaching experience at Washington."

"Potsy" Clark, Nebraska athletic director, expressed the sentiments of the athletic staff about the loss of DeAngelis. "Jim did a fine job here at Nebraska," Clark said, "and we wish him the best of luck in his new position at Washington."

At Washington, DeAngelis is expected to devote most of his time to coaching the centers and line-backers while serving as general assistant head coach to Howie Odell. Both Odell and backfield coach Reg Root served on the coaching staff at Yale while DeAngelis was head freshman coach there.

Lafayette Revises Probation Rules

Probation at Lafayette College in Easton, Pennsylvania no longer makes a student ineligible for non-academic affairs and activities.

A new regulation makes probation discretionary on the part of the Scholastic Standing Committee. This body maintains that any student is eligible for activities who is carrying a full schedule and is making "satisfactory progress toward graduation."

Good Blasts 'Two-Minute,' Says Change to Be Made

Bill's Reply Heralded By Chamber

Bill Glassford, the guy who many people feared might go away from Huskerland to Pittsburgh, will be "welcomed back" Wednesday noon at a public affairs luncheon to be staged in his honor at the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce.

"This luncheon is open to anybody and everybody, as long as the tickets last, because we feel all Lincoln is happy over Bill's decision to remain as the Cornhusker head football coach," said Ray Ramsey, who this year succeeds Earl Cline as Chairman of the chamber's public affairs committee.

Tickets $1.00. Tickets will be $1.00 each and are not available at the Chamber of Commerce offices, 11th and P streets. Mail reservations with check attached will be accepted.

Ramsay said the luncheon program will be informal and "one of jubilation." President T. A. Sick of the Chamber will supply the formal remarks and Coach Glassford will be asked to respond.

"This is the Lincoln Chamber's way of expressing its happiness that Bill Glassford will remain at the Cornhusker helm next year and, we hope, for many years to come," Chairman Ramsey said.

The public affairs committee, which has done much to revitalize Nebraska football, has been reappointed. Richard Chapin will be secretary of the 13-man committee.

Youths Arrive for Rural Institute

Over 100 Nebraska youths will arrive on campus Friday for a two day session of the State Rural Youth Midwinter institute.

The session will be employed as a conference and training period for local officers.

Husker Upset Not Helped by Two Minute Rule—Good

By Kimon Karabatsos. (Sports Editor, Daily Nebraskan.)

"The two minute rule must be changed," said Basketball Coach Harry Good when interviewed following Nebraska's upset victory of Kansas State last Monday.

Good added that he did not believe that the two-minute rule had anything to do with the Husker victory. "The two week layoff gave the boys the winning edge," Good quickly added.

"A team will lose its fire in playing too many games in too short of time," Good replied when asked why the layoff was beneficial.

Good continued, "This basketball game is getting more unpredictable every year. A team with the will to win will have their share of victories when the season is over."

"My boys had the heart and I knew they would come through." They did come through, through with one of the season's most spectacular upsets by edging highly favored Kansas State 65-63 in an overtime thriller.

Expect Change. "I expect a change to be made in the two-minute rule this year," answered Good. Good indicated that the change would probably come during the National Basketball Coaches Association meeting March 27-28-29.

Good is a member of the important rules committee and said, "Some change is needed and I will back it. Last year under the three-minute rule, the team behind had the advantage, because officials are hesitant to call fouls, resulting in a rough game."

Advantage to Leaders. "The two-minute rule gives the advantage to the team ahead. If a team has been able to keep ahead for the first 38 minutes, they deserve to win, usually. Two minutes is just 1-20 of an official game."

The National Rules committee already has the ball rolling to change the much debated rule. The committee has sent out a questionnaire to all coaches associated with the National Basketball coaches' association.

The "two-minute" problem is heading the agenda at the meeting. When asked about his game with Missouri Monday night in the Coliseum Good said, "Missouri, with their seemingly poor showing to date in regular scheduled games, are just as likely as not to beat any other member in the conference. Not only at home but also in competition away."

"They have very definitely showed their potential in the Big Seven pre-season tourney at Kansas City last December," said Good. Missouri won the tourney by beating Oklahoma in the finals.

Good, showing his concern over the Monday night engagement, said, "In any one night they are capable of winning against any team in the conference."

"The game has become more mental than it has ever been," Good said while reminiscing. "When Indiana played Iowa in the last game of the season in 1945, Iowa had won 29 consecutive home games, incidentally, that was my last year at Indiana. My star forward had injured his ankle in the previous game and I knew that I wouldn't be able to count on him too much."

"Just as we were leaving the dressing room for the court, one of the boys said, 'Coach, we're going out there and win this one for you!'"

"They did, too, upsetting favored Iowa 54-51. The boys showed through determination and heart, their desire to win and definitely proved that throughout the game."
