Music Union Stops Student Jam Session

Several Nebraska students, who got together for a jam session last Friday evening, have drawn fire from a local musicians union.

The students, congregating in one of the Union's parlors, had planned to play a little atmosphere music in conjunction with the Union open-house Mardi Gras celebration, a dance for which the Union had employed a local union authorized band.

At this point, a call from the musicians' local put a damper on the proceedings, warning the students not to play.

Lake Questioned
Duane Lake, managing director of the Union, stated that he had received many questions concerning last Friday's incident. "We weren't exploiting anyone," he declared. "The students were playing for their own enjoyment, as part of the committee system, in their own club, for which they had paid fees to join. We had hired the union band for the evening's dancing," he continued emphatically, "and there was no dancing going on at the student session."
Mr. Lake referred to a similar incident last year in which fines were imposed on several students. "We think it's pretty small on the part of the musicians' union, and so do the students," Mr. Lake concluded.

Canasta Fans Barely Recall Familiar 'Fourth for Bridge'

BY BARBARA McELWAIN
What has happened on the University campus? Seldom do we hear the familiar "fourth for bridge".

The once popular card game seems to be losing its popularity. Is it that the students are too busy studying, dreaming about spring picnics, or wondering who the next queen will be?

The answer can be found in the struggle between bridge and canasta in which the newly introduced game is far in front. Quite surprisingly, canasta has taken over much of the leisure time of the University student.

"A fourth for bridge" has been replaced by "a second, third, or fourth for canasta". A coed will come in on a Friday night excited over a game of canasta she and her date had with another couple; canasta decks adorn the tops of card tables in the various houses; and, in keeping with the rest of the campus, the Union features canasta for relaxation during the finals.

Just what is the attraction of this new card game? A few say that it is merely new and its popularity will be short. Others say that because it offers so

Government Jobs
Open in Science
Applications are being accepted for engineering, chemist, physicist and metallurgist positions in the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics laboratories in Virginia, California and Ohio. The positions pay $3,100 a year, and the work is primarily in research.

To qualify, applicants must have had appropriate college education in the field for which they apply. A written examination must also be passed. Students who expect to complete the required course by June 30, 1950, are asked to apply. Detailed information and application forms may be obtained from post offices, Civil Service regional offices, or by writing to the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.; or to the Executive Secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, NACA, Langley Field, Va. Applications should be sent to the Executive Secretary at Langley Field. The students who file into college classes are "intelligent, ambitious, well-informed, well-mannered, hard-working and democratic" in the eyes of the American public. The public's ideas on college students and higher education were the basis of a recent poll by Fortune magazine. The results of the survey showed that the public evidently believes that college students do something besides spending their afternoons at Don's and hashing over the topic of communism. Fortune's interviewers found that only 5 per cent believe students are "hard drinking," and only 9 per cent believe they are "radical." Interviewees also thought stu-

OFFERS TROPHIES—Claude Retherford, who last season set an all-time Nebraska basketball scoring record with 311 points in 26 games, decided future Cornhusker team members needed more incentive. To provide this, Retherford is offering two travelling trophies. These will go to the high scorer and the most valuable player each season. The players will vote on the most valuable player award.

36 Parts Open in Next University Theatre Play

Tryouts for the new University Theatre production, "Once in a Lifetime," will begin Feb. 14. Any student having completed at least 24 hours during the two previous semesters and currently enrolled at the University are eligible for the trials.

"Once in a Lifetime," is the latest stage hit by Kaufman and Hart, playwrights, well known for their former story, "The Man Who Came to Dinner." The production, to be given March 27, 28 and 29, is a satire of Hollywood when sound movies were first coming out. It has been acclaimed one of the best hilarious comedies to hit the stage.

Large Cast
There is an exceedingly large cast with 36 parts to be filled. Many of these are small character parts but have a great significance to the story. This is one of the few plays being produced having numerous parts for women.

Five sets with two of these being used twice will be used during the play. The sets will be stylized for quick movement and to carry out the satire of the play.

Costumes and makeup are designed to carry out the theme of Hollywood portrayals. Unusual light and sound effects are to be used for a greater effectiveness.

Theater to Build Sets
William Ellis, stage manager, said the show will get away from the old practice of going out and borrowing. Instead, all the major parts will be built by the Theater.

The design and origin will be different than was used on Broadway.

Max Whitaker, director, said the schedule for tryouts will be: Feb. 14, 7 to 9 p. m. Room 306 in the Temple, Feb. 15 and 16, 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 in Room 306. Rehearsals are to begin Feb. 23 following the present production of the "Glass Menagerie."

1950 Farmers Fair Plans Announced by Ag Board

Reveals 'A Greater '50' As Theme of Annual Event

"A Greater '50" will be the theme song of the 1950 Farmers Fair to be held April 28 and 29. This was the announcement made today by Don Knebel, manager of the fair. Plans are being made early this year for the annual event in order to avoid last minute rush and to insure a well planned affair, he said.

Now before the 12 Farmers Fair board members and faculty members is the question of having an open house. In previous year open houses in all departments opened on Saturday of the fair. Last year they stayed open all day except during the rodeo. Displays were judged and plaques were awarded for outstanding exhibits in both the men's and women's divisions.

Due to lack of student participation and resulting responsibility on faculty, the success of having open house is being questioned. The fact that educational opportunities such as Farm and Home Week are sufficient to take care of the open house question has been presented. It also has been suggested to the board that Farmers Fair should be a "fun" affair, not educational.

While the question of open houses remains tabled, plans are well formulated for the other events. Farmers Fair activities this year will include a rodeo, Cotton and Denim week followed by the Cotton and Denim dance, Whisker King contest and the Goddess of Agriculture presentation, a parade through the city campus and downtown Lincoln, a midway and a barbecue.

Cotton and Denim
Cotton and Denim week will officially mark the opening of Farmers Fair activities. Ag students traditionally wear cotton dresses and denims the week preceding the Fair. On Friday night, April 28, the Cotton and Denim dance will be held in the Ag Union. Rural frocks and jeans will be the keynote of informality.

Ag royalty in the form of a Whisker King and the Goddess of Agriculture will be presented at the dance. The Whisker King is chosen on the basis of the best beard growth he can produce between the opening of the contest and the Fair.

Floats from Ag clubs and organizations will make up a major part of the Farmers Fair parade Saturday morning. In the afternoon, the third annual post-war rodeo will take over the limelight. Last year's rodeo was the first to be held in the permanent arena constructed last spring.

Saturday evening, Ag students, faculty and alumni will participate in the beef barbecue. Last year's barbecue and square dance attracted over 700 persons.

Committeemen
Committee chairmen appointed by Knebel to be in charge of the various activities are: dance, Sue Bjorklund; rodeo, Don Beaver; Jack Wilson; barbecue, Alice Boswell; Dale Flowerday; parade and midway, Burnell Swanson; open house, Charles Athey; Norma Long; publicity, Jean Fenster; Louise McMill; women's program, Mary Hoffmeister; Faculty chairmen are Mr. J. V. Dunsly, Dr. Josephine Brooks, Mr. Howard Wiegers, Dr. Livingston and Mr. Don Hanway.

Farmers Fair was first held in 1915. In that year admission was charged and a fence kept out the public. Later this plan was abandoned to permit the citizenry to have free access to the campus. A commercial carnival was also engaged for several years. This idea was also dropped later, in view of the fact that the fair should be a student project.

Promotes Spirit
Farmers Fair is presented to promote spirit on Ag campus, to help students to learn to work together, to bring the two campuses together, to promote Ag campus throughout the state and to display to the public what Ag college has been doing.

Counselors Hold
Book Review
The second annual book review will be held by the Coed Counselors at 7 p. m. tonight in Ellen Smith Hall. Mrs. Helen Snyder, Guidance and Counselor director of Residence Hall for Women will give the review. It will cover two books by Alex Switzers, bit in Morrill hall. One-fifth of Fortune's interviewees thought the purpose of college is to enable a person to lead a full life and to give him a broader view of life. This belief was expressed chiefly by college graduates. Only nine per cent of those interviewed thought the chief purpose of college for their daughters is preparation for marriage and homemaking. No one thought it was the college's duty to give such education to their sons. But over half of those questioned favored classes on sex education and "how to be a good parent."

Courses
Investigating what colleges should teach, Fortune found that 44 per cent would ban discussion of communism or accept it grudgingly. Nevertheless, 50 per cent were opposed to censorship by state legislatures, and 61 per cent were against any attempt by wealthy donors to exert influence about what courses were being offered.

Boys and girls should attend college together, the majority said. Sixty per cent wanted co-education for their daughters and 58 per cent for their sons.

By a two to one margin the interviewees favored colleges permitting the fraternity system. Federal scholarships were found to have strong support. However, 84 per cent thought the student should work for part of his expenses.

AUF Board Reorganizes; Filings Open Advisory Group To Pick Officers

The reorganization of the All University Fund was announced today by the AUF advisory board.

Filings for the revamped charity group will begin Feb. 22 and 23, according to advisory board chairman Mary Helen Mallory.

Under the new set-up, AUF will function as a year-round organization on campus, with its work culminating annually in a week-long collection in the fall.

Under the reorganization plan, the charity group will consist of an advisory board, director, divisions board and solicitations board.

Advisory Board Members
The advisory board will be composed of the previous year's officers and the director, who will all be seniors. The divisions board will consist of the head solicitor, ag college solicitor, publicity chairman, assistant publicity chairman, secretary, treasurer, clerical head, special events chairman and speakers bureau head, who will all be juniors.

The solicitations board will be made up of sophomore or above chairmen of the following: sororities, fraternities, organizations, organized houses, unorganized students, faculty, denominations, honoraries and booths. They will work under the direction of the head solicitor.

AUF officers will be chosen from filings and personal interviews. Any student with at least one year of experience in AUF may file an application and sign up for an interview. Officers will be selected on the basis of their interest in AUF and their qualifications to fulfill the particular position for which they have applied.

Filings Due Feb. 23.
Filing dates are Wednesday, Feb. 22 and Thursday, Feb. 23, from 10 to 12 a. m. and from 1 to 5 p. m. in a booth in the Union. The interviews will be ten minutes long, beginning with applications for director and divisions board members Saturday, Feb. 25, from 9 to 12 a. m. and from 1 to 5 p. m. Interviews for solicitations board will be held Saturday, March 4.

The advisory board and director will be in charge of the filings and will conduct the interviews. Besides Miss Mallory, the advisory board is composed of Neil Atkinson, June Horley and Fritz Simpson, and until recently, Laverna Acker. Ted Gunderson is the present AUF director.

All University Fund conducts the only charity drives on campus. It is the only authorized organization to make such a collection, and conducts only one drive each year. Proceeds of the drive are given to local, state and national organizations approved by the advisory board.
