

Prepsters to Visit Fine Arts School

Nearly 600 high school students will be visitors on the Nebraska campus this week end as the University Fine Arts Festival gets underway.

Starting Friday, the School of Fine Arts will be host to the prep students from schools all over the state. The festival will continue through Saturday.

The event, which is an annual affair, will be open for students of art, music and speech. Written and oral criticisms will be offered by University staff members.

Main purpose of the festival are to stimulate and promote fine arts work in the high schools and to provide an opportunity for those persons attending to see what is being done in other schools.

Art Exhibition. During both days, the department of art will set up a display of the creative art work done by the high school students. A tour of the art galleries and studios will be conducted. All participants will have the opportunity of University faculty members' criticisms and suggestions for further development.

Entries will include drawings, paintings, designs, sculptures, crafts, photographs, and advertising design and lettering.

On the second day of the festival, the department of music will hold auditions for vocal and instrumental solos. No ensembles will be heard this year.

No ratings or awards will be given, but suggestions for improvement, both written and oral, will be given. Each student will be assigned to a University staff member who will hear him perform individually. Each performer will be allowed about 20 minutes. His actual performance will last about six minutes.

Speech Events. During the two days, the speech department will host all attending speech, debate and dramatics prepsters. The program outline includes dramatic reading, humorous reading, poetry reading, interpretative oratory, original oratory, extemporaneous speaking, radio news-casting, discussion and debate.

Speech staff members will serve as critics for all individual reading and speaking events. University varsity debaters will serve as critics for debate and discussion. After each event, the participants will receive constructive criticisms and suggestions from the critic.

It is emphasized by the fine arts staff members that the event is not a state contest but a festival with critic evaluations designed to promote a higher quality of speech, debate, and dramatics in Nebraska public schools.

NU Chapter to Observe National YWCA Week

National YWCA week will be observed on the University campus April 24 to 30 with a series of programs and special events. Climax of the week will come when YW members from this campus attend the district YW conference at Midland college, April 28 to 30.

"A better World Begins with You," will be the theme of the week long observance. While the national government is at present taking a census to count people, it was pointed out by YW leaders, the YW program aims at making people count.

Advisory Luncheon. The Ag and city YW cabinets will open the week's activities with a special luncheon for the advisory board in Ellen Smith hall on Monday. Special guests at the luncheon will be Fern Babcock and Annamma Thomas. Miss Babcock, who is program coordinator for the national student council of the YWCA will also aid cabinet members in writing reports of the local YW organization to be used on a national level. She will be the speaker at an Ag YWCA meeting at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

As traveling secretary for the student volunteer movement for Christian missions, Miss Thomas about mission work in India and other areas.

Open to All Members. Registration for the leadership is touring the country to tell training conference will begin at 4 p. m. Friday, and the meeting will close after the communion.

Awards Honor Outstanding NU Cadets

Fourteen University Army and Air Force cadets received awards for outstanding performance at the battalion parade held on campus Thursday afternoon.

The 1950 Minute Man awards of the Sons of the American Revolution were presented to Robert Frank, Leland George, Vestley Bethel, Robert Gilmore, Homer Hobbs, Richard Jackson, James Warner, Donald Hamann, John McElhaney and Marvin Panetz of the Army Corps. Air Force students receiving the awards were Lyle Tiedman, Dick Holze, John Wirsig and Janner Angwert.

Other awards and citations made at the review were: Cadet First Lieutenant Mark Radke received the Richardson rifle trophy, awarded to the cadet making the top rifle score in matches fired during the school year.

The Reserve Officers' association award, given to the five cadets attaining the highest scores in rifle matches during the year, was presented to: Cadet First Lt. Mark Radke, Cadet Sgt. John McElhaney, Cadet Sgt. Richard Jackson, Cadet Capt. Donald Flesher and Cadet Sgt. Alvin Ross.

Fine Arts Banquet To Fete Students

Outstanding students of the University School of Fine Arts will be honored at a banquet Thursday evening, April 27.

Dr. Marcus Bach of the University of Iowa will address the group. Dr. Bach's three best selling books, "They Have Found a Faith," "Report to Protestants" and "The Dream Gate," are documentary enough to be used as textbooks and yet are written in such a style that they are more often read for enjoyment.

In addition to his writing and teaching duties, Dr. Bach is a broadcaster over WSUI, the University of Iowa radio station. Entertainment at the banquet will be provided by the University Madrigal Singers. Tickets for this annual banquet are now on sale at the speech, music and art departmental offices as well as by members of the various departmental honorary fraternities.

UN Mediator To Address Convo May 9

Dr. Ralph Bunche, United Nations mediator in the Palestine dispute, will address a university convocation to be held Monday, May 8, in the coliseum.

He will discuss, "How the United Nations Works for Peace." Dr. Bunche served as mediator in Palestine following the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte in 1948. He succeeded in bringing the Arabs and the Jews into agreement on the question of the formation of the newly formed Israeli government.

He received his A.B. degree with highest honors from U.C. L.A. and his master and doctor degrees from Harvard university. He has served as chairman of the political science department at Howard university since 1928, but has been on leave of absence since 1941.

During the war he served with the O.S.S. and after the war in the state department. He has served in U.S. delegations to many international conferences. He was recently offered the assistant secretaryship of the state department, but declined to accept.

Cottons, Denims Will Dominate Ag College Dress Next Week

Cottons and denims will be the order of garb next week on Ag campus in anticipation of the coming 1950 Farmers Fair, April 28 and 29.

All Ag students are to wear cottons and denims all week in accordance with the Farmers Fair.

Two years ago, students not properly attired were given two minutes to remove watches, bill-folds and the like and were then thrown in a horse tank in front of the Ag union. Secret Fair service men, all reportedly weighing over 180, checked proper garb. Notes reporting saboteurs were passed in classes and then the guilty were punished by the authorities.

No Dunking. However, due to the fact that eight engineering students were dunked in the tank for not wearing the traditional denim during this week, the plan was abandoned last year and again will not be enacted for this year's Fair.

Farmers Fair activities will begin Thursday when the Whisker King contestants will be judged at 5 p. m. in the Ag Union. The bears will be judged on the basis of uniqueness, length and best growth since March 17, when the contest opened. The winner according to

Premeds Plan Omaha Meet

All junior and senior premedical students and all pre-nurses are invited by the Nebraska College of Medicine, to attend Pre-med Day at the College of Medicine, Omaha, April 29.

The program, as outlined by Dr. E. F. Powell, pre-medical advisor, begins at 9 a. m. with registration. At 9:30 a. m. the students will be conducted on tours of the hospital and other buildings on the campus.

At an 11 a. m. convocation the students will be welcomed by the president of the Medical college student council. A discussion of application procedure will take place at this meeting. Two research presentations will be made, the first on "Graphic Recording of Heart Sounds," and the second on "Estimation of Thyroid Activity in Children by Radioactive Iodine." Dr. Powell said that a Geiger counter would probably be used at the second demonstration.

Luncheon for students attending will be served at various fraternity houses. Transportation to Omaha and return must be provided by those who attend. Students who expect to go should add their names to the list on the bulletin board at Room 308 Bessey hall by Monday, April 24.

Rag Future as Big Daily To Rest in Students' Hands

Coeds' Ivy Sing Applications Due

Today is the last day for organized women's groups to enter applications for the Ivy Day Sing. Entries including the name of the director, an alphabetical list of the singers, the name of the song, and the expected help from alumni, must be sent to Pat Seibold, 540 No. 16th St.

The three dollar entrance fee should be sent to Barbara Best at the same address.

If any organized women's group, excepting honoraries, has not received a letter concerning the Sing, Miss Seibold should be contacted immediately.

Ag Campus Hosts Annual Feeders Day

Feeders Day on Ag campus is the sight of several thousand farmers and their wives from over the midwest.

The Feeders' Day program has been termed one of the most popular farm meetings in the midwest. Farmers come to the Ag college to catch up on the latest research in animal nutrition and to view the institution's experimental stock.

Prof. William J. Loeffel, chairman of the University's animal husbandry department, who is in charge of arrangements, said the highlight of the event will be a talk by Dr. R. T. Clark of Denver. Dr. Clark is head of beef cattle research in the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He will speak on "Improving Beef Cattle Through Breeding" at 1:15 p. m., at the Ag Union.

Women's Program. A full day's program for women also is slated. There will be entertainment by organized campus groups. The educational program will feature the use of land in cooking. Prof. Charles Adams of the animal husbandry department and Dr. Josephine Brooks of the home economics department will be the main speakers.

Highlight of the evening program will be a Sam R. McKelvie dinner sponsored by the Block and Bridle club. The Valentine rancher, Nebraska farmer publisher and former state governor will be honored by the club.

The dinner will be held at the Lincoln YMCA at 6:30 p. m. Mr. McKelvie's portrait will be unveiled that evening. It later will be hung in the "Hall of Fame" in the animal husbandry hall at Ag college.

Ag Class Plans Fashion Clinic

A fashion and grooming clinic will be sponsored on Ag campus beginning April 24 through May 5.

The clinic is being conducted by the clothing and textile students in Advance Costume Design 123.

Students in the class will counsel girls who make appointments with them during those two weeks. Besides helping the counsees with specific problems in wardrobe, costuming, grooming and the like, the clinic will help the students sponsoring the clinic to obtain counseling experience.

Courses such as Costume Design 23, fashion merchandising, clothing and art courses have given them the basic technical training. Since many of them may be doing this type of work upon graduation, the clinic is designed to help them train.

The clinic will be held on the third floor of the Home Economics building. Mrs. Mary Hall is instructor of the class holding the clinic.

Students who have expressed an interest in the clinic will be notified this week.

Present Size Enables More Extensive Campus Coverage

While the Union works on an expansion program, The Daily Nebraskan is struggling to maintain its present size.

Unless an all-University poll, April 26, shows that students favor paying an additional 50 cents a semester for their subscription to the paper, The Daily Nebraskan again will be a tabloid next fall.

Subscription to the paper is now 50 cents a semester and is included in the tuition-fee "package" paid by all students. The extra money is necessary to cover production costs, which have more than doubled since the enlargement in February of this year.

Vote in Classes. In their 9 o'clock classes next Wednesday or in polling places students will be given a chance to express their opinion on two issues: a $3 increase in fees for a Union expansion and a new Ag Union and a 50 cent additional fee for the Daily Nebraskan.

Voting will be completely separate on the two matters. That is, even though students do not favor an increase for the Unions, they may agree to pay the additional fee for the "Rag." Or, they may say "no" to the paper's increase and approve the Union expansion.

It goes without saying that The Daily Nebraskan hopes the majority of students will agree to both proposals. University officials stated early in the year that any agitation for Union improvement must come from the students.

Believing that the majority of the men and women who attend this school would favor the plan if they gained a thorough understanding of it, The Daily Nebraskan decided to do its best to give students the facts in the matter.

In special articles The Daily Nebraskan has presented a comparison of the University's Union with those of other schools the same size. In the editorial columns the paper has attempted to convince Cornhuskers that the project is worth the proposed fee hike.

Such coverage of a project still little past the dream stage has been possible only because of the enlarged paper. In the days of a tabloid edition, the use of large pictures of other unions and the many stories explaining them would have been out of the question.

A few figures will show more clearly just why it was possible for the paper to devote so much space to the Union proposal.

In the full size paper nearly 600 column inches—inches of type a column wide—are available, as compared with 310 in a tabloid. Since advertising has remained fairly constant during both semesters, the actual space which can be used for news is at present 470 inches, in comparison with 190 a year ago.

To break the statistics down still further, this is what the additional space has made possible: Approximately 108 inches of sports news each day—at present, rather than 29 a year ago; an average of 116 inches of editorial and column space each issue this year, as compared to 38 last year.

Or to put it another way: In the spring of 1949, The Daily Nebraskan gave full support to the model UNESCO conference, and in the two weeks preceding the affair printed 87 inches of news about it.

Better Coverage. This year in covering the corresponding project—the mock UN assembly—the paper used 406 inches. It should be emphasized, of course, that the enlarged paper rather than editorial policy was chiefly responsible for the additional space which was devoted to the conference.

Also possible in the enlarged edition are special columns on a variety of subjects generally interesting to college students. During this semester these have included "Reel Stuff," "Worth Reading," "On the Avenue" and others.

More space has been devoted to summaries of national news.

Chael Receives AIA Presidency

Fred Chael was elected president of the Nebraska associate branch of the American Institute of Architects at their meeting Tuesday.

Other officers elected at the meeting were: Bob Rasmussen, vice president; Dave Richards, secretary-treasurer; Art Johnson and George Clayton, executive committees; and DeForrest Roggenbach, faculty sponsor.

Hendy Bollman, of the Structural Clay Products Institute of Iowa, spoke and showed Kodachrome slides of construction materials and methods.

Chael is a senior, majoring in architecture. He previously has served as vice president of the A. I. A. and feature editor of Blueprint, engineering magazine. He is a member of the Student Council and Beta Sigma Psi.

'I' Remains

The "I" remains and will remain until Wednesday's poll decides the matter.

One thing is clear, however. Without the estimated $15,000 included in the fee-addition would bring, The Daily Nebraskan cannot continue as a full size paper.

The increased production costs have caused an estimated loss of more than $4,000. This deficit is being met by money earned by the paper in previous years and deposited in the student publication fund.

Ag Varsity Dairy Judge Events Told

Entries Will Vie On April 21, 22

The annual Varsity Dairy club's student judging contest, including dairy products and cattle judging, will be held Friday and Saturday, April 21 and 22, on Ag campus.

Dairy products judging will take place at 5 p. m. Friday in the Dairy Industry building. Cattle judging will begin at 8 a. m. Saturday morning at the Dairy barn. Registration for cattle judging is scheduled for 7:30 a. m. Saturday.

The Dairy club awards ribbons to the top men in both contests. In addition, a variety of prizes is being given the winners by the local Lincoln dairies.

Judge Taste. Milk, butter and ice cream will be judged largely by the "taste test" in the dairy products contest. Other methods are by texture and odor. According to James Yoder, chairman of the committee in charge, the contest will take approximately one hour to complete since reasons will not be given by the contestants.

Breeds to be judged at the cattle judging contest will be Brown Swiss, Jersey, Guernsey and Holstein. The program will be divided into eight classes consisting of cows, bulls and heifers.

Oral reasons will be given on only two of the classes, says Charles Fairley, contest chairman. "Some of the classes will be judged on type alone and others will be judged on type, production and pedigree," he said.

Trophies and prizes awarded by local dairy interests and the Varsity Dairy club are on display in show cases on second floor of the Dairy Industry building.

High men will be eligible to win the new Alpha Zeta award which includes judging in both Block and Bridle and Trunk judging contests. To win, it is imperative that the individual compete in all three judging events.

'Big Sisters' Name Style Show Models

The annual Coed Counselor Spring Style show will be held Tuesday, May 2, rather than April 25 as was previously announced.

The show, a conclusion of the 1950 Charm School sessions, is held annually by the "Big Sister" organization. Included in the show will be new fashions from spring into the summer. The show will be held at Hovland-Swanson department store, and all clothing used in the event will be furnished by that store.

One coed from each organized house on campus will model in the show. The following have been chosen: Katherine Rhodes, Kappa Delta; Marion Brown, Towne club; Jean Burford, Alpha Phi; Beverly Deal, Alpha Omicron Pi; Lois Rodin, Sigma Delta Tau; Jane Lorenson, International House; Loretta Robb, Terrace hall; Bernadine Evans, Howard hall; Donna Burley, Delta Delta Delta; Barbara Kreutz, Loomis hall; Doris Mesner, Love Memorial hall; Dorothy Cappell, Rosa Poulton hall; Leta Rae Chernis, Residence Halls for Women; Heppner hall; Gwen Karin Lyon, Chi Omega; Betsy Lieber, Alpha Xi Delta.

Shella Grainger, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Mardell Lamp, Wilson; Dortha Hunter, Rasmussen hall; Joan Richards, Residence Halls for Women; Raymond hall; Mary Fium, Residence Halls for Women; Louise Metzger, Palladian; Nancy Dixon, Alpha Chi Omega; and Ann Lueder, Delta Gamma.

The following houses have not submitted names of girls: Gamma Phi Beta, Sigma Kappa, Kappa Alpha Theta and Phi Beta Phi.

NEBRASKA NEXT!

Name New Members to Union Board

New Union Board members of both city and ag campus have been announced by Duane Lake, director of the Union.

Bob Mosher, Herb Reese, Marla Pratt, Hugh Follmer, and Bob Russel will be senior board members on city campus. Sara Devoe, Rod Riggs, and Chuck Widmayer will be junior members.

On Ag campus, the new members are Jackie Becker, Carol Harris, and Dick Walsh.

The new members were elected from recommendation lists submitted by committee chairman and board members. The Union board of managers made the appointments.

Mosher, Reese, Miss Pratt, and Follmer are holdover members from last year's board.

Activities of Members. Mosher is president of RCCU, editor of the Student directory, assistant business manager of Corn Shucks and vice president of Delta Upsilon. He was sponsor of the general entertainment committee this past year.

Activities of Reese include N-club, varsity football and wrestling, Student Council, and president of junior class. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi and served as a sponsor of the general entertainment committee of the Union last year.

Miss Pratt was sponsor of the music committee and is a member of Delta Gamma. Follmer was a sponsor of the dance committee and is a member of Beta Theta Pi.

New Members. The new senior board member, Russel, is a member of N-club, wrestling team, junior class council, and Sigma Nu. This past year he served as chairman of the special activities committee which planned the Union open house.

Junior member Sara Devoe was a member of the dance committee and is a member of Delta Gamma.

Rod Riggs served as chairman of the music committee. His other activities include University Singers, and the Daily Nebraskan. He is a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Miss Becker, along with being a member of Home Ec club, is a member of Alpha Phi sorority.

Junior board member Dick Walsh is a new Corn Cob initiate. He also is a Rag columnist and reporter, and a member of Alpha Gamma Rho.

Miss Harris is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

Faculty Advisors. No change was made on the faculty members of the Union Board of Advisors. They are David Foltz, E. F. Schramm, J. C. Burnett, Dr. T. H. Gooding, Dr. Royce Knapp and Miss Marian McGrew. Fritz Daly, Milton Anderson and Mrs. Florence Bates are alumni members. Announcement was also made of an annual Awards meeting to be held Thursday, May 11, at 7:30 p. m. Outstanding workers on the Union Activities committees will receive awards in recognition of their work. The meeting will be held in parlors A, B, and C, in the Union.

Plans were also made for a picnic to be held Tuesday, May 16, at Pioneer park. All workers and Board members are invited.

Nebraskan Omits Home Ec Names

The Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics honorary, initiation story in the Sunday's "Rag" omitted Marcia Adams and Doris Eberhardt from the list of new activists.

Corn Cob Banquet . . .

COB ADVISOR—Rod Lindwall, president of the Corn Cobs, listens as the pep group's faculty advisor, Col. C. J. Frankforter, addresses the Cobs and their new organization honored 18 new members of the club at the annual initiation banquet at the Lincoln hotel Tuesday night.
