

Faculty Group to Decide Fate Of New Council Constitution Limited Time for Approval Makes Spring Vote Unlikely

The interim Student Council set up last fall to revise the election and representation provisions of the Council constitution has completed its task.

Last Wednesday, the Council put a stamp of approval on the revised constitution. It will now go to the Faculty Committee on Student Organizations, which will examine the new document.

Headed by H. P. Davis, the committee plans to hold weekly meetings to examine each section of the constitution word by word. It is reported that students will be called before the committee to give varying views on the revised sections. Faculty members of the committee in addition to Davis are: Miss Mary Mielenz and Dr. Curtis Elliot, Student Council sponsors; H. A. Smith, and Emanuel Wishnow.

Spring Election
In view of the faculty plan, and considering the fact that only two and one half weeks remain in the semester, it seems likely that the new constitution will not be approved in time for an election to be held this spring. Some faculty members have expressed doubt about the constitution being approved in its present form. This, plus the opposition within the present Council to the revised plan, points to the possibility of another interim council, which will probably be chosen in the same manner as the present Council.

Within the Council, there has been disagreement over the inclusion of the representatives of committees. Last week, article 4, section 1 of the revised plan passed by a bare two-thirds majority—the minimum by which an amendment could be passed.

Committee System
The committees would provide for one representative from each of four groups. These groups would serve as coordinating bodies between the different campus organizations. One of the primary objections to the plan has been that it would take away functions of existing committees, and set up an even more complicated system of governing that now exists. For example, the student spirit committee would take over the function of the rally committee; the religious welfare committee the duties of the religious welfare council.

Last fall, when council members met for the first time, they were told that their function was to "evolve a new plan for Council election and representation." Not until Feb. 9, however, did the Council begin consideration of the revision. After two and one-half months of deliberation, the Council came up with a constitution which would provide for:

1. Political parties.
2. Representation through colleges for 17 representatives.
3. Two sophomore members at large.
4. Six holdover members from the old council.
5. Four representatives from committees—student spirit, campus improvements, religious welfare, and orientation and activities. The committees would be made up of campus organizations particularly interested in the specific committees.
6. Election campaigns, to be regulated according to rules set up by the Council.
7. A Hare system of representation.

Differences
The revised constitution differs only slightly from the former constitution. One of the main differences is that in the representation from colleges, there is no guarantee of representation to women. Publicity rules have been broadened in the new plan. As far as political parties are concerned, there is little difference, since the old constitution allowed a party system also.

If an interim council is set up again this year, the method used for choosing the present Council will probably be used again. Under this system, 22 organizations were granted representation on the Council. This, plus the four holdover members, made up the Council. If the plan is used next year, there will probably be more than four holdover members.

Complaints
One of the most constant complaints from some council members has been the "hurry-up" attitude of some other members. As late as April 20, a new plan calling for a two house legislative system was presented. However, objections which met the plan centered around the fact that it would entail starting almost from the beginning on a new plan.

As it now stands, it is up to the faculty committee under Davis to decide the fate of elections this spring. The committee will meet Thursday, May 4, and may decide at that time what will be done concerning the formation of the Council next year.

Student's Picture Wrong in Rag

An inadvertent mistake in Sunday's edition of The Daily Nebraskan was reason for the wrong identification of Joseph Kilschuck, a Ukrainian DP student at the University.

Top Cadets To Receive Six Awards

Six awards will be presented to outstanding ROTC students at the annual regimental review to be held Thursday at 1 p.m. in the field west of the Coliseum.

The parade and review climaxes the annual two-day federal inspection of the University's Army and Air Force ROTC units.

The Pershing award, top honor of the University ROTC, will be presented to an outstanding student in the Cadet corp. Chancellor R. G. Gustavson will make the presentation. The award, given annually, was donated by the late General Pershing.

An outstanding cadet of the air unit will be presented with the U. S. Air Force association award. The commander of the Nebraska air wing of the Air Force association, Lt. Col. Otto H. Wellensick will make the presentation.

The Forty and Eight award, presented by the state department of Forty and Eight, will be given to a selected cadet in the advanced corp who has completed at least six semesters of ROTC at this institution. Leo Beck will make the presentation on behalf of the state commander.

Legion Award
The American Legion Auxiliary award will go to an outstanding basic student. It will be presented by the state Auxiliary President, Mrs. J. E. Conklin.

Two Reserve Officer association awards will be given; one to a second year student in Air Force administration and logistics and the other to a second year basic student in Air Force communications. Both of these awards will be presented by Lt. Col. Richard E. Kosman, president of the Lincoln district unit of the Reserve Officers association.

Pat Berge, honorary commandant, will present the honor company and honor squadron streamers.

A federal inspection trio from 5th Army Headquarters will make the annual inspection of all phases of Nebraska's ROTC program today and tomorrow. Friday the officers will inspect the medical detachment in Omaha. The trio includes: Col. Clarence H. Schabacker, Lt. Col. Ernest H. Bears and Capt. James H. Fletcher.

Russian Movie Will Run 2 Days
The University YMCA will sponsor the Russian-made musical, "Russian Ballerina," Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., in Love Library auditorium.

The film centers around a serious young ballet student who falls in love with an equally serious tenor. Stars of the musical are Maria Redina, Ulanova and Vladimir Kazonovich.

Miss Redina performs her innovations of the traditional Petipa version of "Sleeping Beauty," and Ulanova is pictured in an actual theatre performance of "Swan Lake."

Presented with the feature film will be two short films: a Czechoslovakian film entitled "A Child's Dream" and "Leningrad Music Hall."

Red Cross Unit Presents Show

The State Hospital was the scene of a musical program Monday night sponsored by the Red Cross college unit. Assisted by students of the Christian Student fellowship, the show was presented to a capacity audience.

Mrs. Raymond Benson, leader of the church group, acted as mistress of ceremonies. She was assisted by Miriam Willey, Red Cross board member.

The following students participated in the musical program: Carl Halker, Loyal Lierman, Phil Agee, Keith Stephenson, Lorraine Lagerquist, Dick Fisher, Jeanne Wood, Shirley McClain, Don Hays, Jack Vant, Jessie Murray, Lois Lawrence, Ginger Samuelson, Gwen McCormack and Miriam Willey.

Hospital officials have stated that they greatly appreciate the programs sponsored by the college unit. One of the many phases of RCCU activities, the work at the state institutions is felt by many to be the most interesting.

Open House to Mark 12th Union Birthday

Twelve years of student service will be celebrated at the Union's annual birthday party which is scheduled for Friday, May 5.

Although the Union was born May 4, 1938, when its large front doors were opened for the first time, the celebration will be held Ivy Day, rather than Thursday. The party will convert the lawn into a mock carnival including a putting range, a variety of booths and other concessions similar to that of a real carnival.

Lawn Dance
A dance floor provided on the other side of the lawn will feature dance music by Fizz Powell from 9 to 12 p. m. Situated on another portion of the lawn will be a refreshment table with punch and a large birthday cake. Tables will be placed around the outdoor dance floor.

Special entertainment in addition to movies, will be given at intermission periods.

Union History
Beginning in 1930 with an initial drive when Ray Ramsay, then alumni secretary, and Oscar Norling, editor of The Daily Nebraskan, pushed original ideas for a Union, a campaign developed into a dynamic action.

Members of the Alumni council, Innocents society, and the Student Council took up the fight. After a great deal of opposition and difficulties resulting from several legal barriers, petitions were circulated among students to determine whether they would be willing to pay a small fee to defray the cost of maintenance.

The Alumni council revealed that University graduates would furnish the building with necessary equipment—through donations of $75,000.

Construction began soon after Feb. 14, 1936, after plans were submitted by two former Cornhusker graduates, architects Elvory Davis, '06, and Walter E. Wilson, '14.

Later construction progress was interrupted several times. However after a few dormant spells, the building was completed and the open house followed—celebrating a final triumph.

Total cost of the building was $400,000, 45 percent of which was met through a PWA grant and the remaining 55 percent to be paid over a period of 15 years.

Phalanx Officers For '50-'51 Told
The Nebraska chapter of Phalanx, military society, held their election of officers Wednesday, April 26.

New officers elected were: Bob Rogers, Commander; Dave Dudley, Lt. Commander; and Ted Heerman, Adjutant.

On Friday and Saturday of last week the Nebraska chapter was host to the National Phalanx convention here in Lincoln. Thirty delegates from throughout the country attended the meetings and a luncheon Saturday noon that climaxed the convention.

Dick Beatty, former Lt. Commander, was in charge of the arrangements.

The new officers will be installed at the next meeting, Wednesday, May 3.

Ag Spring Election To Begin Today

Gold to Talk At Ag Honor Convocation

Sophomore to Get Alpha Zeta Medal

Ag students will hear a speech by Nathan Gold, Lincoln business man, at the Ag college convocation Wednesday morning at 11:20 a. m.

Gold will address the students on "Opportunities in Nebraska," in the Ag College Activities building.

All 11:20 a. m. Ag campus classes will be dismissed.

(Courtesy The Lincoln Journal)
NATHAN GOLD—He will be the main speaker at the Ag honors convocation today at 11:20 a. m.

The convocation, which is held annually, will honor six outstanding senior judging teams which have taken part in interstate competition this year. It will be sponsored by Tri-K, agronomy honorary.

Alpha Zeta Award
Along with the presentation of awards, the sophomore student who had the highest scholarship during the 1948-49 term will be awarded the Alpha Zeta medal. Alpha Zeta is an Ag honorary for men based entirely on high scholarship. It is equivalent to Phi Beta Kappa of Arts and Science college.

C. W. Smith, senior faculty advisor, will present the medal. The six judging teams which will be honored are: Crops judging, livestock judging, meats judging, dairy judging, dairy products judging and wool judging.

Team Members
Members of the teams are: Livestock judging team: Norm Holmberg, Stan Lambert, Art Strumpler, Don Gard, Gervase Franke, Wilbur Pauley, Bob Egert, Merle Stalder and Don Popken.

Meats judging teams: Loren Schmidt, Merwyn French and Grant Cornelius.

Dairy judging team: Charles Flowerday, Bob Epp and William Steinkrueger.

Dairy products judging team: Warren Newell, Jim Yoder and Dean Whitmore.

Wool judging team: Don Gard, Gervase Franke and Stan Lambert.

ISA to Recruit In Registration

A membership drive during registration week will be a new feature of the Independent Students association's program.

A booth will be open at the Army throuth the week of May 8-12 to sell the new activity cards to independent students. These tickets, selling for $1, will admit their holders, free of charge, to all ISA functions next year.

Cards will not be on sale until next Monday.

Slate Includes Positions On Three Separate Boards

Spring elections will take place today on Ag campus. Voting will be from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. in the Ag Union.

Positions to be filled are on Ag Exec Board, Farmers Fair board and Coll-Agri-Fun board.

All students registered on Ag college are eligible to vote. Ag Exec board members urge them to exercise this privilege.

The Ag elections will be conducted by the Ag Exec board since the constitution for the Student Council has not yet been put into action. The only election rules that will apply are:

To be eligible for any office, candidates must have a cumulative 4.5 average, have completed 12 credit hours in the previous semester, and be carrying 12 hours during the current semester.

Ag Exec Board
Positions open on Ag Exec Board are one man and one woman from each of the freshmen, sophomore and junior classes.

Women freshmen representatives to Ag Exec board are Marilyn Barnesberger, Julia Bell, Betty Lou Fletcher, Joyce Helen Kuehl, Ramona Louis Laun, Jeanne Vierk, Patricia Anne Wainscott, and Artie Rose Westcott. Of this group, only women vote for one.

The sophomore woman representative to Ag Exec board must be picked from the following candidates:

Alice Anderson, Jacqueline Backer, Carol Lee Cherry, Carol E. Harris, and Evelyn M. Young. Again, only women vote.

Freshman man delegate to Ag Exec board will be either Bernard E. Johnson or Richard Young. Voting is for only one.

The sophomore man delegate to Ag Exec board will be either Elmer Glenn Nelson or Eugene Edwin Robinson. Vote for one.

When voting for junior representatives, vote for one man and one woman. All students will vote for two of the following:

Ruth V. Fischer, Margaret Ann Kuhl, Wanda Fae Pearson, Robert Lee Raun and E. Burnell Swanson.

Coll-Agri-Fun
Vacancies to be filled on the Coll-Agri-Fun board are two sophomore women and one sophomore man. All students will vote for three:

Jean Carol Hargleroad, Janet Elaine Ross, Joyce Elaine Shaner, Ardis D. Westerhoff, Everett A. Jenne and Jerry J. Johnson.

Farmers' Fair
Positions open on the Farmers' Fair board are three junior women and three junior men. Candidates are:

Donald L. Bever, Earl C. Hultman, Richard F. Shinn, E. Burnell Swanson, Jack F. Wilson, Otto L. Uhrig, Alice Marie Boswell, Ruth Esther Craft, Eileen M. Derieg, Mary Jean Fenster, Barbara Jean Glock, Mary Frances Johnson and Iris Jean Wells.

Results of the election will be printed in Thursday's Daily Nebraskan.

Ag Schedules 'Skylight Ball'

The Ag college Union dance committee will sponsor an open air dance Friday, May 12, according to Gerard Pritchard, dance committee chairman.

The "Skylight Terrace Ball," as it is called, will be held directly in front of the college activities building.

Gerry Mayburn and his orchestra will furnish the music for the event. A limited number of tables will be set up on the lawn in front of the Union.

Tickets for the event will go on sale this week at $1.20 per couple. "If successful as it was last year, the dance will be made an annual spring event on Ag campus," Pritchard said.

Music Recital To Introduce Original Score

Original compositions by a School of Music senior will be featured in the general recital at Social Science auditorium Wednesday at 4 p. m.

The composer is Frank Gorton, whose works for the University Madrigal singers and a sonatina for viola and piano will be presented. The Madrigals will sing "Regina Coeli" and "Salve Regina." Ed Wells will direct the group.

The "Sonatina" is in three movements and will be played by Marilyn Harms, violinist, and Robert Kellinger, pianist.

Thirteen junior students will also participate in the recital. They are Betty Breck, Charles Curtiss, Virginia Taylor, Gloria Sandels, Arle Mae Solfermoser, John Berigan, Theodore Svoboda, Wesley Reist, Vaughn Jaenicke, Bill Wurtz, Colette Donaly, Elburn Cooper and Warren Rasmussen.

Works by Brahms, Williams Hageman, Debussy, Desportes and Mozart are included in the program.

The program: "INTERMEZZO," Op. 76, No. 7, Brahms, Betty Breck; "RONDO CONCERTANTE," Williams, Charles Curtiss; "DO NOT GO, MY LOVE," Hageman, Virginia Taylor; "ENGULFED CATHEDRAL," Debussy, Gloria Sandels; "FRENCH SUITE," Desportes, Arle Mae Solfermoser, John Berigan; "QUARTETTE," Mozart, William Wurtz, Colette Donaly, Elburn Cooper and Warren Rasmussen.

Original compositions by Frank Gorton; "Regina Coeli," "Salve Regina," "Sonatina," University Madrigal Singers, Marilyn Harms and Robert Kellinger.

Open House to Mark 12th Union Birthday

Twelve years of student service will be celebrated at the Union's annual birthday party which is scheduled for Friday, May 5.

Although the Union was born May 4, 1938, when its large front doors were opened for the first time, the celebration will be held Ivy Day, rather than Thursday. The party will convert the lawn into a mock carnival including a putting range, a variety of booths and other concessions similar to that of a real carnival.

Lawn Dance
A dance floor provided on the other side of the lawn will feature dance music by Fizz Powell from 9 to 12 p. m. Situated on another portion of the lawn will be a refreshment table with punch and a large birthday cake. Tables will be placed around the outdoor dance floor.

Special entertainment in addition to movies, will be given at intermission periods.

Union History
Beginning in 1930 with an initial drive when Ray Ramsay, then alumni secretary, and Oscar Norling, editor of The Daily Nebraskan, pushed original ideas for a Union, a campaign developed into a dynamic action.

Members of the Alumni council, Innocents society, and the Student Council took up the fight. After a great deal of opposition and difficulties resulting from several legal barriers, petitions were circulated among students to determine whether they would be willing to pay a small fee to defray the cost of maintenance.

The Alumni council revealed that University graduates would furnish the building with necessary equipment—through donations of $75,000.

Construction began soon after Feb. 14, 1936, after plans were submitted by two former Cornhusker graduates, architects Elvory Davis, '06, and Walter E. Wilson, '14.

Later construction progress was interrupted several times. However after a few dormant spells, the building was completed and the open house followed—celebrating a final triumph.

Total cost of the building was $400,000, 45 percent of which was met through a PWA grant and the remaining 55 percent to be paid over a period of 15 years.

Phalanx Officers For '50-'51 Told
The Nebraska chapter of Phalanx, military society, held their election of officers Wednesday, April 26.

New officers elected were: Bob Rogers, Commander; Dave Dudley, Lt. Commander; and Ted Heerman, Adjutant.

On Friday and Saturday of last week the Nebraska chapter was host to the National Phalanx convention here in Lincoln. Thirty delegates from throughout the country attended the meetings and a luncheon Saturday noon that climaxed the convention.

Dick Beatty, former Lt. Commander, was in charge of the arrangements.

The new officers will be installed at the next meeting, Wednesday, May 3.

ROZ HOWARD—Council President Howard is acting as supervisor of the new Council constitution.

(Courtesy The Lincoln Journal)
DR. RALPH BUNCHE—Top U.S. mediator.

ceived his masters and doctors degrees.

Served With OSS
At present he is acting assistant secretary-general of the United Nations department of Trusteeship. During the war he served with the OSS and after the war for a short time in the state department. He was recently offered the assistant secretaryship of the state department but declined the offer.

Bunche has served as chairman of the political science department at Howard university since 1938, taking a leave of absence from the post in 1941.

His college days were filled with honors. At U.C.L.A., he was sports editor of the college yearbook and won three letters on championship basketball teams. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Dr. Bunche received the Chicago Defender award in 1945 for his work on race relations. He worked in conjunction with Gunnar Myrdal, the Swedish sociologist, on his book "An American he was 12 years of age. During his childhood and college days he lived with his grandmother. Bunche is married and has three children.

A few of his international conferences include the Institute of Pacific Relations, the International Labor conference, Dumbarton Oaks, UNCTO, and the United Nations General Assembly.

Charter Author
He helped draw up part of the UN charter in 1946. He has served as personal secretary for the top men in many United Nations functions. He traveled all over the world in his work in the international field.

Bunche won the Ozias Goodwin Memorial fellowship at Harvard university in 1929-30. Other prizes besides the Chicago Defender award include the Toppan Prize at Harvard in 1934 and the Schornburg Collection Honor Rolls on Race Relations.

Born in Detroit, Mich., August 7, 1904, the 46 year old mediator attended elementary and intermediate schools at Detroit, Albuquerque, N. M., and Los Angeles, Calif.

Colonial Expert
In college he majored in government and international relations. He has taken post-doctoral educational training in anthropology at London School of Economics, Northwestern university, and the University of Capetown, South Africa.

Bunche is an expert on colonial problems in the world today. When studying the situations from 1932 to 1938, he personally visited and studied the problems. Through this study he has gained the reputation as being one of the few experts on comparative colonial policy in the world today.

From 1932 to 1933 he worked in British and French West Africa, French North Africa, London, Paris, and Geneva on a Rosenwald scholarship. From 1936 to 1938 he studied the colonial situations among other places in South Africa, British and Portuguese East Africa, Belgian Congo, Malaya, N.E.I., the Philippines, and Hawaii.

Scientists Will Convene At Wesleyan

Nebraska Wesleyan campus will be swarming with Nebraskan scientists Friday and Saturday for their Nebraska Academy of Sciences meetings.

New developments in the fields of biology, medicine, chemistry, physics, engineering, earth science mathematics, anthropology and history and philosophy of science will be presented to the academy. Each scientist will explain his project to the group.

Eleven University professors, instructors and students will participate in the chemistry, physics and engineering divisions of the meet.

They are H. G. Deming, Oliver C. Collins, J. B. Thompson, V. W. Arnold, T. B. Jefferson, W. F. Weiland, Theodore Jorgenson, D. H. Temme, F. L. Pelton, Charles Haynes and E. Mott Davis.

Weiland's Project
Weiland's project is entitled "Why a Crankcase Oil Should Be Changed Frequently." Weiland says that lubricating oils are subject to temperature and pressure conditions in an engine and tend to break down rapidly to form corrosive acids. These acids disintegrate metal in the bearings and elsewhere in the engine. The presence of water, gasoline and road dust will accelerate this breakdown.

According to Weiland, under ordinary conditions an average of 1,000 miles between oil changes is desirable.

Working on atomic energy and related fields are: Jorgenson, working with isotopes; Temme, who will present an exhibit of neutron counting and radiogold; Pelton, working with radioactivity in photographic plates; and Haynes, who has found applications for tracers.

Weight Saving
Jefferson has as his study, the effects of cooling fins. The mechanical engineering professor has found that a weight saving of as much as 25 percent may be obtained from a fin design of non-conventional shape.

He has worked with heat transfer and rate of flow, and is now working on the determination of an optimum fin shape.

Collins' work is with lines and planes of position whereby an interspatial vessel could be located in the remote reaches beyond our atmosphere. Under Collins' plan, navigators can easily find their positions by using a three dimensional "fix." One method of arranging this fix would be to take bearings on three fixed stars.

Crilly, SAE's Receive Top Speech Ratings

Jan Crilly and Sigma Alpha Epsilon will have possession of the Delta Sigma Rho silver loving cup and the silver gavel for the coming year.

Miss Crilly is the individual winner, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon the house winner.

Second place in individual competition went to Carolyn Bucacek, and Alpha Omicron Pi in house competition. Bill Dugan and Phi Kappa Psi were third place winners.

Twelve Finalists
The winners convinced the five judges of the final round in the annual Delta Sigma Rho extemporaneous speaking contest which took place Tuesday evening. There were 12 finalists in the last round, which followed two preliminary elimination rounds.

The new winners will take the trophies from Don Farber, Jan Crilly and Sigma Alpha Mu who won them last year.

Finalists were Bill Dugan, Harris Carnaby, John Connolly, Janice Crilly, Janice Hannaford, Pat Weidman, Carolyn Bucacek and John Maher.

The top ranking organization will have its name engraved upon the gavel and the winning individual will also have his or her name engraved on the cup.

Thirty-one students originally were entered in the contest. Topics for the rounds were selected from current events.

Sponsoring the contest was the national honorary forensic society, Delta Sigma Rho. Elsie Paustian is the local president, and national secretary of the organization.

Donald Olson, director of University debate, was the director of the contest.