

Hot Elections Pep Boys, Girls State

Keeping in life with the torrid Lincoln weather, Boys and Girls Staters refuse to let anything cool off. They conduct their own hot election campaigns.

Boy Staters ended their campaigning with the election of Bill Burke, Omaha, as governor of 1950 Cornhusker Boys State. He is the first Omaha junior ever to receive the post. The defeated governor is Ken Philbrick of Grand Island.

The new governor, with an Irish tenor voice, attributes his victory to hard work on the part of his managers, headed by Tom Toyer, Omaha.

The lad has sung roles in Omaha Central operettas. Party managers slipped him into a surprise spot on the Monday night show and thus got an early jump on the Federalists by introducing their candidate at the big assembly.

Platform

Burke's platform called for a dance with Girls State which has been scheduled for Friday afternoon at the Union ballroom. He also promised to work for "better farm-to-market roads and lower gas taxes."

Philbrick had but one plank in his platform—"better government." "I just plan to go around and shake some hands," he said. Following the announcement of the results he continued: "I guess I didn't shake enough of them."

His manager was Ronald Dade of Lincoln.

Herb Meissner, Omaha, was named chief justice, the No. 2 plum on the Boys' State tree. He defeated Jim Matzke.

4 Victories

John Carr, Omaha, was elected state superintendent. Governor Burke led the Nationalists to victory in four state offices.

Bob Peterson, Fremont, was chosen lieutenant governor; Robert Hill, Odell, state treasurer; and Bert Linn, Kimball, Carl Weber, Kearney, and Johnny Nelson, Gurley, were swept into the railway commission by the Nationalist slide.

Only victorious Federalists were Douglas Jarvis, Omaha, attorney general; and Jerry Barton, Gering, auditor.

Five ties were decided by a toss of a coin.

At the girls' session, the primary elections narrowed the gubernatorial race down to Federalist candidate Joanne Jacobs, Omaha; and Shirley Mudra, also Omaha. The delegates will vote Thursday afternoon for the final selection.

Other Candidates

Other candidates for state offices are: Federalists—lieutenant governor, Elva Mae Thomas; secretary of state, Claudette Neal; state treasurer, Patty Brit; state auditor, Rita Goding; attorney general, Diane Craig; and state railway commissioner, Virginia Mae Jackson, Charlene Severns and Kay Lorraine Curley.

On the Nationalist ticket: lieutenant governor, Annette Copper; secretary of state, Dona Middaugh; state treasurer, Pat Callely; state auditor, Barbara Rhoades; attorney general, Dorothy Sand; and state railway commissioner, Kay Gilsdorf, Annette Mueller and Nadine Osborn.

Newspaper Staff

The Girls' State newspaper staff will be headed by Ann Launer, Grand Island. She will be assisted by Mary Gerbold, associate editor from Columbus.

The two elected editors Wednesday appointed the following staff to assist in the publication of the two issues: managing editor, Pat Bradley, Scottsbluff; feature editor, Janet Holmquist, Oakland; news editor, JoAnne Oetting, Madison; and art editor, Joanne Gross, Omaha.

Mimeographing will be done by Nancy Lee Geggstrom of Waverly. Typists are: Enola Schorman, Delores Hojer and Darlene Hojer.

Summer Workers To Mass

A mass meeting will be held Tuesday, June 13, at 7 p. m. for all workers and board members of the summer special activities group, Anne Barger, chairman of the group, urges all new workers to attend this brief introductory meeting.

A booth has been set up in the lobby of the Union to enlist workers in the group and will be open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Friday.

Miss Barger would like all students with spare time to sign up as "it is a good way to become acquainted with activities at the University." Coed Counselors are especially asked to join.

The purpose of the group is to assist the different campus organizations in all projects. One of the biggest jobs is obtaining student talent for shows sponsored by the Red Cross.

When filing for work in the group, students should list phone number, organizations you belong to, type of work interested in, talents for Red Cross, summer address, home town and amount of free time.

Those interested should either sign up at the booth or call Miss Barger at 3-6072.

Union to Sponsor Sunday Movies

The Union Sunday Night Movie program will be carried into the 1950 Summer Sessions.

First on the list of Union Movies will be an Academy Award winner, "How Green Was My Valley," Sunday, June 11, at 7:30 p. m. in the air-conditioned Union ballroom.

Starring Walter Pidgeon, Maureen O'Hara, Roddy McDowall, and Fitzgerald, the movie tells the story of a coal mining community in Wales.

Coed Wins $300 for Tolerance

Susan Allen, 21-year-old Pierce, Neb., student is the recipient of the University's top award for promoting tolerance and understanding between peoples.

Dr. T. J. Thompson, chairman of the university's committee on general scholarships announced that Miss Allen is the winner of the $300 Henry Monsky scholarship for 1950-51.

The scholarship was created in honor of the late Henry Monsky of Omaha, prominent Nebraska citizen and distinguished Jewish leader of America, by the B'Nai B'Rith Hillel foundations at American universities.

Miss Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Allen of Pierce, came to the University as a Regents scholar in 1947 and in her sophomore and junior year won Regents upperclass scholarships. She is majoring in social work and sociology.

She is president of the University Y.W.C.A., and is an active member of the University Council for World Affairs. Last spring Miss Allen was chairman of the model United Nations conference staged by students. She has also been active in the work of the Religious Welfare council.

The Monsky award is given to the junior class student who has done the most for the promotion of interfaith and intergroup unity on the campus.

Steel Firm Starts New Scholarship

Beginning this fall, some University junior or senior engineering student will receive a substantial financial boost toward his education from a new scholarship made possible by the Lincoln Steel Works, inc., of Lincoln.

Chancellor R. G. Gustavson will be the principal speaker in the first of a series of three all-University workshop clinics June 12 and 13. The theme of the clinic is "Can Science Save Us?"

Dr. Gustavson will give an address entitled "Can Engineering Save Us?" in the auditorium of Love memorial library 7:30 p. m., Monday, June 12.

The schedule for Monday, June 12, is as follows:

9:30 a. m.—Press and radio conference in the faculty lounge of the Union.

12 noon—Luncheon meeting in Room 315, Union. This meeting is open to the University summer session staff and is under the direction of Dr. F. E. Henzlik, dean of teachers college. Dr. Earl Anderson, representative of the U. S. Office of Education, will talk on "Forces Which Destroy the Community."

Discussion Period.

7:30 p. m.—Dr. Gustavson's speech in Love auditorium. Chairman for the meeting is Dean Roy Green of the engineering department.

June 13 program:

11 a. m.—Discussion period in the auditorium of Love library. Chairman for the meeting is Dean Green, chief consultant will be Dr. Gustavson.

Two Days Long

The all-University clinics will be two days in length and will explore critical matters of general interest. Everyone on the campus and other civic leaders are invited to attend all sessions and to participate in the question and answer periods.

Top Authorities

Each clinic features one of the nation's outstanding authorities in his special field of work. The Daily Nebraskan and weekly posters will announce the time and place of each meeting.

The second clinic of the summer session will be held June 26 and 27. Topic for the meeting will be "Is the UN Failing?" and principal speaker will be Dr. Charles Malik, Lebanon delegate to the United Nations.

Dr. Duncan Wall, director of public relations of the World Food and Agricultural organization, will address the third and final clinic July 10 and 11. Theme for this clinic is "Why Feed the Multitudes?"

Craft Shop Offers Hobby Instruction

Want to learn a hobby, keeping cool and having fun while doing it?

The Union Craft Shop will be open this summer for lessons and work on Tuesdays from 4 to 6 p. m. The only cost to students is time and materials. Mrs. Charles Colman will instruct the series of six lessons in general crafts, starting Tuesday, June 13.

Some of the subjects to be included in this series are: Metal tooling, textile painting, leatherwork, figurine painting, and gimp braiding.

So that the Union Activities office can plan ahead, Genevieve Grimm, activities director, is asking students to register either at the Union open house, June 9, or in the Activities Office before June 13. However, the lessons are informal, so students, staff, and faculty are urged to drop in on as many lessons as their schedules allow.

A few improvements have been made in the Craft Shop for this summer. Masonite has been placed on the counters, and the lighting has been accentuated with shades.

Lawlor Named to Head NU Alumni Association

John F. Lawlor of Lincoln has been elected president of the Nebraska Alumni association for the 1950-51 year. He succeeds W. L. Day.
