

Humanistic Studies Feature Of Aspen, Colo., Institute

BY PHYLLIS LONG.

Last summer a small group of the nation's outstanding citizens, men and women interested in the intellectual and cultural requirements of the world community, volunteered their time, effort and counsel to provide leadership for the international observance of the Goethe Bicentennial.

In selecting a site for the Convocation and Music Festival they tried to avoid an urban sight, so they went to Aspen, Colorado, located in the Roaring Fork Valley of the Rocky Mountains. From forty-four states of the Union, from Canada, the Philippines, Europe, Africa and the East, thousands came to study Goethe.

Humanistic Study.

And now, a year later, built on the success of the Goethe Bicentennial, and upon the increasing realization of the study of man, the Aspen Institute for Humanistic Studies has been formed, to give better opportunity for humanistic study. It is incorporated in the State of Colorado, and has as its first activity the sponsorship of the summer program of Great Books, Great Men, and Great Music, June 26 through September 10. The saarinen-built amphitheatre, used for the first time during the Bicentennial last summer, will again welcome scholars and artists of world fame.

Concerts, lectures and Great Books seminars will be held on an informal basis, and each week there will be two Great Books seminars, lead by authorities as Mortimer J. Adler, Associate Editor, Great Books of the Western World, and Robert M. Hutchens, Chancellor, University of Chicago. Discussions will be conducted by two leaders, with 20 or more active participants. The audience, which will have been invited to read the books under discussion, will ask questions at the close of the regular discussion.

Three Lectures.

Three lectures each week will be offered by scholars of international fame, among them Clarence Faust, Stanford University; Charles Malik, Minister to Washington from Lebanon and Karl Menninger, one of America's leading psychoanalysts.

Musical programs will feature, during the first week, June 26-July 3, the music of Wagner, with the Denver Symphony Orchestra, Saul Caston conducting, and Helen Traubel and Lauritz Melchior as soloists. August 2 and 8, Igor Stravinsky will lead the Denver Symphony in his own composition, Divertimento and The Fire Bird, as well as the Second Symphony of Tchaikowsky. There will be five concerts a week.

Of particular interest is the Independence Week program, July 3-9. In lectures and seminars the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution of the United States and the Federalist Papers will be studied. Clifton Fadiman will read the Declaration of Independence. On July 4, music appropriate to the day will be featured.

Throughout the summer the music of Bach will appear frequently in celebration of the Bach Bicentennial. Included will be a number of the Cantatas, with Fernando Valenti, Harpsechordist.

Rag Circulation Routes Told

Daily Nebraskans are being delivered to all the main classroom buildings this summer, but if you are not receiving your paper you should contact the RAG office.

The papers are being delivered at 7 a. m. on Tuesdays and Fridays. If a main building has been omitted from the circulation route, please contact Chuck Burmeister, Daily Nebraskan business manager, of Norma Chubbuck, summer editor at 2-7631, extension 4226.

Buildings which are receiving the paper are Burnett hall, Andrews hall, Social Science, Teachers College, Administration, Music and Junior Division building, Eilen Smith hall, the Armory, Love Memorial library and the Union.

New EE Building Near Completion

Construction on the new Electrical Engineering building is to be completed August 15, and movement of equipment from the old building will begin as soon as possible after that date, according to the Building and Grounds department.

A few classes will be held there next semester, but all classrooms will not be in use until next January.

Bridge Lessons Open in Union

Bridge lessons are being offered by the Union activities committee each Wednesday from 4 to 6 p. m. in the Game Room on the second floor of the Union.

The lessons are aimed at beginners and reviewing old players. Five more lessons remain for students to learn the game. Lessons will end July 19.

National Educators to Help Nebraska School Teachers

The University will have a number of the nation's outstanding educators committed to serve as resource persons during the present summer sessions.

These persons will consult with the teachers and superintendents of the Nebraska elementary and secondary schools on guidance, administration, text books, science, research, and other subjects pertaining to the school.

Dr. Earl Armstrong, associate director, teacher education, from the U. S. Office of Education was here this past week, June 12 through 15.

Workshops

The superintendent of schools at Omaha will be on the campus June 26 through 30 and will help

Union Originates Match Calendar

Something new in the way of advertising! A calendar of summer events can be found in a new position—on the cover of book matches.

The match covers, red and cream in color, with an impression of the seal of the University of Nebraska on them, are what the book makers call the "perfect 36," oversize just to fit inside the cellophane surrounding a cigarette package.

The summary of Union activities keeps students posted on the list of major events not to be missed in the 1950 Summer Session.

the education workshop seminars and some of the education courses.

July 17 through 21 Dr. M. E. Viles, a specialist on school plant management from the U. S. Office of Education, will confer with the individual superintendents and teachers and be the speaker for the clinic on school buildings held July 20. He will also consult with the University building committee and C. F. Fowler who is the head of the University building and ground staff.

Consultants

Other specialists committed to conferences, clinics, and special assignments are Dr. Ralph Ojemann, director of child welfare research station at the University of Iowa; Dr. Clifford Froelich, guidance specialist from the U. S. Office of Education; Louis Leslie, the co-author of the Gregg Simplified Shorthand text; Dr. Charles Malik, delegate of Lebanon to the United Nations; Dr. Philip G. Johnson, science specialist from the U. S. Office of Education; Dr. R. F. Patterson, Dean of the college of business administration at the University of South Dakota; Dr. Wayne O. Reed, state superintendent of public instruction for the State of Nebraska; Dr. Duncan Wall, director of public relations for the World Food and Agriculture Organization; Dr. Roger Albright, educational director for the Motion Picture Association of America; and Dr. E. T. McSwain, dean of the University College, Northwestern University.

Added to this unique Institute, are the usual opportunities offered to vacationist in the Rocky Mountain area. Fishing in mountain streams and lakes, swimming, riding, tennis and rides on the world's longest chair lift to the Sundeck atop Ajax Mountain.

Attendance may be for the full summer or for any number of weeks. Reservations are made on a weekly basis, including accommodations and series ticket for concerts, lectures and seminars, in prices from $166.65 for the better accommodations. Added information may be had by writing: Aspen Institute, Aspen, Colorado.

20 All-Staters To Visit Omaha

Twenty All-State art students under the direction of Mrs. Dale Ganz will make a trip to Omaha Friday, June 23. They will leave Lincoln in the morning and upon arrival in Omaha a picnic lunch will be spread in one of the parks. Early in the afternoon they will make a tour of Joslyn Memorial and do some sketching.

One of the highlights of their journey will be to attend the "Coffee Bar" television show over WOW-TV at 3:30 p. m. Leon Berg, Lincoln; Sandra Hanenkamp, Hickman; and Bryce Belisle, Lincoln will appear on the show.

Sandra is one of the four winners of the scholarship given by the Nebraska Elementary Art Exhibit held in Lincoln this winter. The three other winners are Jack Lemon, McCook; Mike Gillegan, Nebraska City; and Joan Hunt from Tecumseh.

The All-State art students have their work on exhibit in the Union and in Morrill hall.

Leverton Gives Cairo Lectures

Dr. Ruth Leverton, professor of Human Nutrition at the University, has just completed a series of lectures at Cairo, Egypt, and Istanbul, Turkey.

On leave from the University for the past year, Miss Leverton served on the staff of the Philippine Women's University. She was joined in Manila by Mrs. Lillian Polley of Lincoln.

In recent weeks they have visited Hong Kong, Bangkok, New Delhi, Damascus, Beirut, and Athens. They will visit Rome, Geneva, Paris and London before returning to Lincoln.

In Cairo, Miss Leverton's lectures were arranged by three United Nations groups, Food and Agriculture, the World Health organization and UNESCO. In Istanbul she addressed the medical faculty of the University.

Miss Leverton plans to return to Lincoln the first week in July.

NU Hospital Aids Lancaster County Patients

Lancaster county residents are receiving more than $1,000 worth of care per month at the University hospital in Omaha, a study of the institution's books has revealed.

During the past 10 months, 74 people from this county received care costing more than $12,000 at the University hospital. During the three previous years, a total of 189 Lancaster county residents were cared for at the hospital at a total cost of a little over $69,000.

Since all but a very few of the patients accepted by the hospital are unable to pay anything for the care they receive, their bills are paid from University funds.

It cost the University $555,966 to operate the hospital during the 1948-'49 fiscal year. During that period, patients were received from all but four of Nebraska's 93 counties. The patients were able to return a total of only $25,000 toward the cost of hospital and medical services.

Dr. Harold C. Lueth, dean of the College of Medicine, said the financial burden, made heavier by increasing hospital operating costs has forced the closing of about 25 beds at the 200-bed institution. The shortage of nurses also was a factor in the decision he added.

Only those patients whose cases can be fitted into the College of Medicine's teaching program are accepted by the hospital. When the patients are dismissed, a complete report on the medical treatment they received at the hospital is forwarded to their local physicians for possible use in further treatment.
