

Estes Conference Delegates Return

Sunday morning, 24 University YM and YW members returned from a weeks stay in Estes Park where they attended the annual conference for the Rocky Mountain District. Two hundred fifty delegates attended from Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, New Mexico and Missouri. Kansas headed the list with 92 members attending.

Huston Smith from Washington University in St. Louis, was the principal speaker and the theme "What is More Powerful Than the Atom," was stressed throughout the conference. This theme is a quotation from a poem entitled "The bomb That Fell On America," by Hagedorn. In the main address Smith compared the human soul to the atom saying that we had exposed the atom by breaking the shell around it; now we should learn to break through the shell that is around the human soul and release the substance that is confined there.

Discussion Groups

Many discussion groups were held and counseling facilities were made available to all students. Some of the discussion group leaders from NU were: Miriam Wiley and Rev. John Lepke, Congregational student pastor on "Personal Freedom and Social Good;" Virgil Ganzel and Ruth Shinn on "Campus Affairs." Mary Sidner had charge of the Worship Planning committee. Sue Allen was chairman of a committee on Effective Citizenship which also sponsored a daily camp radio broadcast with Ruth Sorenson and Charlene Colbert making the commercials, which were of the "Hadacol" variety.

An honor was bestowed on the NU delegation when Sue Allen was elected as the Director of the Rocky Mountain District to attend the National Institute for Christian Counsel; meeting in Indiana in August. She will also attend the United Christian Counsel as a representative of the local Y group.

The last two days of the conference emphasis was shifted to a discussion of the issues to be brought before the National Assembly of student Y members held each year at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. Anyone who is a member of the Y is invited to attend and the policy of student groups is planned for the coming year.

Most Successful

This conference was one of the most successful ones ever held according to Ruth Shinn, Director of the University YWCA. It was the first time in years the weather co-operated to the fullest extent, fair skies reigning every day of the meeting. Every kind of recreational facility was available for those who had extra time and hikes in the mountains were the favorite pastime. The atmosphere of the mountains gave a worshipful surrounding for the morning and evening worship service.

Baby on Back

Interesting sight around camp was Mrs. Lind, a marriage counselor, who carried her baby on her back held there by a strip of cloth bound so the baby was free to move around. This is the method used by the natives of Okinawa; sociologists say this gives the baby a feeling of security that few babies have today.

ESTES DELEGATES—Twenty-four University YM and YWCA members have returned from a week long conference at Estes Park, Colo., where they attended the annual conference for Y members. The delegates shown above attended the camp last year, and many of them returned this year for added study and relaxation. The delegates studied and worked with 250 students from other parts of the Rocky Mountain region on questions and problems which face campus "Y" groups. The theme of the conference this year was "What Is More Powerful Than the Atom?"

$200 Prize Goes To Don Vestal

Donald A. Vestal, Fairbury, is the 1950-51 recipient of the University Herbert Brownell Scholarship in Science Education. Dr. Harold Wise, chairman of the selection committee announced Thursday.

The $200 award is made possible through funds provided by the family and former students of the late Professor Herbert Brownell, for many years a member of the University's Teachers College faculty and nationally recognized for his work in science education.

Vestal attended high school and junior college in Fairbury and received the bachelor's degree in 1947 and the master's degree in 1948 from the university. He now is starting his final year of work for a Doctor of Philosophy degree in secondary education with emphasis on teaching science.

A pilot in the U. S. Air Forces for three years during World war II, Vestal has also taught in the Lincoln public schools.

NU Hosts Prep Commercial Teachers

About 100 Nebraska high school commercial teachers attended the Monday opening session of a week-long conference on business education on the University of Nebraska campus.

Jane Stewart, University of Nebraska Teachers college staff member, is chairman of the meetings.

Louis Leslie, co-author of the Gregg simplified shorthand method, explained his new method to the group. Mrs. Katharine Stewart, former Pasadena Junior college instructor, explained the Thomas natural shorthand technique, which is taught in several Nebraska high schools.

Dr. Leo Black, director of supervision and curriculum in the state department of public schools, stressed the need for more qualified commercial teachers.

In the afternoon Miss Stewart presented a lecture and demonstration on "Modern Rhythms in Typewriting."

On Tuesday the teachers held a panel discussion of Gregg simplified shorthand. Other topics of lecture in the conference will concern basic business, book-keeping instruction, audio-visual aids and a businessman's view of business education.

Instructors Delay Grade Reports

A number of instructors have not turned in course grades for the spring semester, so a final report of grades has been delayed, according to the office of the Registrar.

As soon as all grades for last semester have been turned into the registrar, grade reports will be mailed to students at their summer addresses.

K-State to Name Bathing Beauty

Kansas State college has planned a new way to keep summer school students entertained.

Bathing Beauty coeds are wanted for the all-college swimming party being planned for June 29. The Kansas State Collegian has asked anyone who knows of a girl who might qualify to turn her name into the Dean of Students.

VA Hospital Asks For Blood Donors

The Veteran's Hospital in Lincoln has issued a call for students who would like to give blood to the blood bank.

The hospital pays $15 for 500 cc's of blood. Students who have not been typed may go to the hospital any week day between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. for the typing. After the type has been determined, the donors name will be placed on the hospital list and students will be called as they are needed to replenish the blood bank.

Men and women between the ages of 21 and 50 are asked to sign up for the program. Students between the ages of 18 and 21 must have the written consent of their parents to give blood.

Ping Pong Meet Starts Saturday

The second Union Table Tennis tourney will be held Saturday, June 24, in the Ping Pong room. Harry Eckert will be tournament chairman.

Interested students are urged to register in the Union Activities office prior to the 10 a. m. starting time.

The winner of the elimination play will be awarded 20 cokes in the Union Corn Crib. The winner of the June 10 play was William Kerr. Runner-up was S. Morteza.

Art Prof Resigns After 20 Years

Miss Kady Faulkner, associate professor of art, ended 20 years of service on the Nebraska faculty when she resigned in mid-May. She is known to hundreds of alumni, especially those studying in the art department.

Her resignation became effective at the close of the school term. She will teach at St. Raphael, Kenosha, Wisconsin next fall, according to reports.

Husker Linksman Cops Open Match

Doug Dale, University golfer from Ord, beat Don Hill, also of Ord, in the finals of the championship flight of the 26th annual O'Neill Open golf tournament this week.

In the semifinals Dale beat Dean Christoffersen of Norfolk, 1-up in 20 holes.
