

Fighting Continues In Seoul

Forces in South Push Enemy Back

The job that's left to do in liberated Seoul now is the bitter mop-up fighting. Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces on the south are welding shut a steel trap on thousands of other enemy troops.

The First cavalry division and the U. S. Seventh infantry were reported lined up between Suwon and Osan, about 30 miles south of Seoul.

The First cavalry had raced more than 115 miles in five days. Parts of from five to six enemy divisions now in retreat from their campaign against the Pusan beachhead were being herded into southwest Korea.

Fight to the Death

AP Correspondent Don Whitehead writes that "Seoul is not being spared. It is a fight to the death, with the reds defending from houses, ridges and rooftops in a desperate last stand."

"Not in any two wars," he reports, "have I seen anything to equal the battle for Seoul. This fighting through smoke-filled streets is eerie and unreal, with flames leaping from buildings and licking out at the marines as they dash down the debris-filled streets and past buildings crashing to the ground after fires have gutted them."

In Washington, Col. Daniel O. Omer, general counsel of the selective service, said Tuesday that all foreseeable military needs can be taken care of in the present draft age group—19 through 25 years—if some of the restrictions are lifted.

If regulations were changed to permit drafting of 4-F's, childless husbands and veterans of World War II, an armed force of three million can be maintained, he said.

Sen. Kenneth Wherry predicted at a speech at a republican rally in Columbus, O., that if a republican congress is elected, Dean Acheson will lose his post as secretary of state.

Nebraska's other senator, Hugh Butler, said Tuesday that he did not believe Gen. George Marshall was "the indispensable man." Butler opposed Marshall's appointment as secretary of defense because "it has been one of the basic principles of our government ever since it was founded that the military be at all times subordinate to the civilian authority."

Crop Research Tops Field Day Discussion List

The Agronomy department will hold a Field Day, Sept. 30 at the Agronomy farm east of Havelock. Starting at 9:30 a.m. and lasting until 12:00, the program will be finished in plenty of time for anyone to attend the football game, according to Mr. H. H. Wolfe, assistant extension agronomist.

Mr. Wolfe stated that there will be four stops during the morning at which research personnel from the Ag college will discuss the various points of interest.

At the first stop, the Ag Engineers will explain all the known phases of grain drying.

Next, Dr. J. H. Lonnquist will discuss the great strides that have taken place in corn production such as yellow and white hybrids, single and double cross lines, and experimental and Nebraska certified varieties.

Third on the list of stops, Mr. D. G. Hanway will talk on the varying varieties and their areas of adaptation.

Dr. F. L. Duley and Mr. J. C. Russell will be on hand at the last stop to discuss lesser known legumes that show promise and their effects on a following crop of corn. They will also point out a few of the more effective tillage methods.

'Know-How' Show Set for Today

The second of three campus "Know-How" programs is scheduled at 5 p.m. in Love library auditorium today.

It will be on scholarship and will deal with such points as good study habits, removal of drowsy hours, and honorary organizations.

These meetings are sponsored by the AWS board and Mortar Board. They are designed to acquaint new coeds with campus life at the University.

Barbs to Name 'Hello Girl' At Annual Dance Friday

Eleven girls will compete for the title of "Hello Girl" at the annual BABW dance Friday night.

The winner will reign over the dance sponsored by the Barb Activities Board for Women. The annual "get-acquainted" party will be held from 9 to 12 p.m. in the Union ballroom. It is especially for unaffiliated students, but everyone is invited, according to BABW president Dorothy Kurth.

Builders Plan Gains Support

As plans progress for College Days—the three day celebration picturing campus life—support from campus organizations increases.

Kosmet Klub and Tassels are recent organizations offering help to the Builders sponsored project which will be held April 26 to 28. The celebration will be a combination of the University of Colorado's CU days and Iowa State's Veishea, and includes programs and contributions from every phase of University life.

Kosmet Klub will assist in College Days either by giving a series of shows, scheduling their Spring Revue during the celebration or presenting a talent show, announced Leon Pfeiffer, president.

Pfeiffer added, "We certainly realize that it will be a tremendous task, and Builders alone can't do it."

"With the cooperation and support of every campus organization, house, college and faculty member, it certainly should be a success," he said.

"Other campuses have presented celebrations similar to College Days, and the University ought to be able to do the same thing or something similar," he added.

Tassels to Help College Days, which first was discussed nearly 20 years ago on this campus, also has the support of the Tassels, Shirley Allen president of the organization, said that Tassels "certainly will do anything to help."

"It is a good idea," she said. Administration officials, Chancellor R. G. Gustavson, Dean Carl Borgmann and Dean T. J. Thompson, have stamped approval on preliminary plans of College Days.

Dean Thompson will call a meeting the first week in October of all deans of colleges to discuss the project.

Gene Berg, president of Builders, said that letters soon will be sent to all the dean of colleges explaining just what College Days is and what Builders hopes to achieve by holding such an event on the University campus.

Berg also announced that members of the central committee which will head the project will be announced soon. He stressed that if the project is to be successful, it must have cooperation, backing and help of all students, colleges and faculty members.

"It will take several hundred students and faculty members to plan all phases," he said. Each college will be responsible for its own house, displays and program.

will be the presentation of the eighth annual "Hello Girl" during intermission. The winner will be chosen from a list of candidates selected by independent women's groups on campus. The 1949 "Hello Girl", Hattie Mann, will present roses to the winner.

Balloons containing the names of each candidate will be attached to the ceiling. After the "Hello Girl" is announced, the balloons will be released and the boy catching the balloon with the Barb queen's name in it will get one dance with her.

The winner will be elected by the people in attendance at the dance who will vote as they enter.

Walt Goodbrod and his combo will furnish music for the dance. Tickets are being sold in the Union lobby. Students may bring dates, however, students may attend without dates.

The dance originated in 1943, as a service for soldiers stationed at the Lincoln air base. After the soldiers left, the BABW sponsored the dance as an annual event. This year will be the eighth time that the BABW queen has been chosen.

Candidates Announced The following girls will compete for the "Hello Girl" title: Patricia Achen, Love Memorial hall; Ruth Lind, Wilson hall; Lois Larson, Towne club; Annette Stoppkotte, Loomis hall; Delores Irwin, Heppner hall; Martha Smith, Raymond hall; Norma Ann Borgen, Love Memorial hall; Dorothy Cappell, Rosa Bouton hall; Frances Hulac, Adelphi; Annette Luebbers, Howard hall and Frances Roberts, Hesperia and Falladian.

Chaperones for the dance will be Mr. and Mrs. Bob Askey and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Weaver.

Dance Groups To Hold Tryouts

Tryouts for Orchestra and pre-Orchestra will be held Wednesday at 7 p.m. in Grant Memorial hall.

To be eligible to tryout, a candidate must have had one semester of pre-Orchestra training. Helen Martin, instructor in women's physical education, will judge tryouts.

Pre-Orchestra training is open to all interested students who would like to develop dancing poise.

Orchestra meets weekly during the year to plan and practice for the annual Christmas program and spring programs.

Law Review Names Seven Candidates

The Nebraska Law Review has announced the names of seven new student competitors for positions on the editorial board. The students are: John Gradwohl, William E. Morrow, Donald R. Kanzier, Russell R. Strom, William F. Fuhr, Donald H. Kelley, and Robert G. Scoville.

The editorial board of the Review is chosen from the honor students of the upper classes who demonstrate aptitude for legal research and writing. The Nebraska Law Review, published in collaboration with the Nebraska State Bar Association, is a quarterly journal devoted to publication of material of interest to the legal profession.

Dance at Union To Follow Game

Following the Nebraska-Indiana football opener next Saturday, the Union will hold an informal "Hoosier Hop" in the Union ballroom.

There will be dancing from 8:30 to 12 p.m., and the admission is free.

Students in charge include Jan French, hospitality; Margaret McCoy, entertainment; Mel Bates, refreshments; Doug Hanson, seating, and Stu Reynolds, chairman and publicity.

NU Symphony to Present First Concert Nov. 12

The University's first symphony concert will be presented Nov. 12 at 8 p.m. in the Union ballroom.

Marcia Pratt, Union music committee head, said that although definite plans have not been announced, at least one well known concert artist will appear on the program.

Student Council To Convene Today

Year Ago Today: 'Join the Marines'

"Join the Marine Air Reserve—you will get four days' pay a month with only two days of active duty."

Thus reads an article in the Sept. 27, 1949 Daily Nebraskan. The Rag issue came out exactly a year ago.

Thirty-three University students from the Marine Air Reserve received their calls to active duty last week, and have been ordered to report for duty Oct. 16.

The 33 men were members of VMF Squadron 113, stationed at the Lincoln Naval Air Station. The Squadron is the same which was recruiting members last year.

Two marine officers were on duty in the Union lobby during this same week last year to sign up prospective recruits. The two men, Lt. Henry Schlueter and Capt. J. R. Cooper were quoted in the Rag at that time as saying "We anticipate a large number of recruits from the Nebraska campus."

17 Member Group To Choose Officers

Seventeen new students will take their seats as members of the Student Council at its first meeting Wednesday at 4 p.m., Room 315, Union, President Rob Raun, announced.

These students will become members of the second interim council: Larry Christensen, law association; Mary Hubka, Coed Counselors; Rex Messersmith, YMCA; Miriam Willey, YWCA; Peg Mulvaney, WAA; George Wilcox, Candidate Officer's association; Fikri Sekere, Cosmopolitan club; Sharon Fritzer, Associated Women Students; Bill Michelson, Interfraternity council; Ginny Guhin, Mortar Board; Bob Rogers, Innocents; Keith Stevenson, Religious Welfare council; Sid McVicker, Engineering Executive board, and Eldean Breeze, BABW.

Holdover Members The "N" club and Independent Students association have not yet chosen their representatives. Holdover members of the Council are: Rob Raun, president; Bob Parker, vice president; Gene Berg, judiciary chairman; and Betty Green and Shirley Allen. The resignation of Bruce Kennedy, representing publications, will be acted upon at the meeting.

Organization of the council will be the main order of business, Raun said. The secretary, corresponding secretary and treasurer will be elected. Committee chairman will be selected for the following committees: elections, judiciary, student activities, campus improvement and dance band.

Plans for the election of officers for the junior and senior classes will be discussed at the meeting. Raun said that these officers would be elected as soon as possible. A president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer for each class will be chosen.

Migration Plans A committee to make plans for the annual student migration will be chosen. The migration this year will be to the Nebraska-Kansas football game in Lawrence, Kan., Oct. 22.

A committee of holdover members will continue to work with the faculty sub-committee on general organization to make the final draft for the new council constitution. The interim student council last year drafted a constitution, but final details are being discussed with the faculty group. Raun predicted that the new constitution would be in operation by spring.

After the student-faculty committee has worked out final details of the constitution, it will be presented to the Student Council for approval. When passed by the faculty senate, it will be presented to the students for final ratification.

The interim council, now in its second year of operation, is operating under the same constitution that was used prior to 1949, with the major exception of the rules on membership. The council elections of 1949 were invalidated by the faculty committee on student affairs because they felt that the old system was unrepresentative.

The new system, of having major campus organizations send one delegate to form the student council was initiated in September 1949.

Teacher Rating Scale The scholarship committee, Raun said, would continue its work on the teacher rating scale, which was widely discussed by student-faculty committees last year.

Raun said that student representatives would investigate the possibility of Student Council representation on faculty committees.

"We feel that this student representation will promote cooperation and speedy action on proposed legislation which affects our school," he said.

Raun praised the work done on improving the freshman orientation program during the past year, and said that the council will continue to work with the faculty on improving the program more. He cited a booklet put out by faculty representatives which presented information about campus activities and life as one of the steps in improving the program.

Delegates from Nebraska will be sent to the second annual Big Seven student government association meeting in Norman, Okla., in 1951, Raun said. The first meeting was held on the Nebraska campus March 3 and 4, 1950. Representatives of the Big Seven conference student councils met to discuss common problems.

Enrollment Mark Reaches 7,840

Additional registrations to the University were still trickling in Monday and with the enrollment of twenty new students, the registration figures now stand at 7,840.

The majority of persons enrolling at this time are graduate students. Registration figures are expected to be complete by the end of this week.

ROB RAUN—To head 1950-51 Student Council.

War Prices Delay Ag Union Plans

Fund Set At $100,000

Plans for immediate construction of the proposed Ag Union were dropped at the initial meeting of the Ag Union building committee Monday.

However, members of the committee decided that the issue would not be a dead one and plans will continue to be formulated for a building at the first opportunity.

Biggest drawback of starting construction now was due to the rising cost of materials and mounting restrictions being placed on construction work. Present specifications provide for a $100,000 building.

According to Rex Messersmith, chairman of the committee, all possible architectural plans are being investigated and as soon as definite ideas of what is needed are obtained, a student opinion poll will be taken to determine the students' desires for the new building.

Since the $100,000 now available for building would be insufficient to produce the type of structure needed, it may be necessary to draw up two construction plans. One would set forth the ideas for moderate building that could be built with the available funds, and the other would be a building to meet the entire needs of the Ag college students in case private subscriptions can be obtained to the approximate total amount of $200,000.

It was originally planned that the Building committee could incorporate its allotted $100,000 with another phase of the University's building plan. This means that they would be permitted to use a floor of one of the proposed dormitories to be located on the Ag Campus. In this way the $100,000 would be used to alleviate the cost of that dormitory.

Since the opening of the critical situation in Korea, the government has stopped all payment of loans to educational institutions, thus curbing the dormitory building plans.

"Now the only course which we can take is to explore the possible areas on which to locate the new Union and to prepare a campaign for donations in case the Korean situation gets better," stated Messersmith.

Faculty members supervising the project are: Dr. T. H. Gooding, Miss Ruth Jones, and Professor L. B. Snyder.

Ag students composing the committee are: Messersmith, chairman, Clayton Yeutter, Arlen Beam, Roland Cooksley, Ruth Craft, Ruth Fischer, Arnold Nieveer, and Lu Velte.

Cornhusker Tells Picture Schedule

Group pictures for the Cornhusker are now being taken. Scheduled for picture Wednesday were: Kappa Alpha Theta, 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and Sigma Delta Tau, 9:50 p.m. and Sigma Delta Tau, 12 to 5:30 p.m.

Alpha Chi Omega will have their pictures taken on Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:20 p.m. Independents should sign up for pictures in the Cornhusker office in the Union between 2 and 5 p.m. before Friday.

Sales of the Cornhusker have been going along at a rapid pace. Deadline for sales is Nov. 1. Jack Barnhart and Dick Kuska of the Cornhusker staff were in Iowa City, Ia., Saturday and Sunday to see printers on business matters.

Luncheon to Honor Dads

Is your Dad going to come to the University for his day? Saturday, Sept. 30, has been set aside just for him. He can attend the Dad's Day Luncheon and then witness the Nebraska-Indiana football contest.

Dad's Day was revived last year. The tradition will be sponsored by the Innocents Society and the Athletic department.

Dad will be honored at the luncheon in the Union ballroom at 11:30 a.m., before the game. The whole family is invited to be with him. Duane Lake, in charge of arrangements, is planning a table for Nebraska alumnae. Fritz Daly is in charge of the alumnae group.

"Potsy" to Talk Athletic Director "Potsy" Clark and the Dad of one of the varsity players will give short addresses. Herb Reese's Dad will also have a few words for the Fathers.

Number cards for the players' Dads will be given at the luncheon and from there they will go to the game and sit behind their sons on the bench.

houses selling tickets. Adult tickets are $1.50 and a special price of 75 cents is being offered for the children. Children's tickets can be picked up Saturday morning.

Reserved parking is in order for the honored guests to aid with their parking problems. The committee is setting aside a University parking lot just for them. They can leave their cars around the Union and go to the game from there.

PLANNING FOR DAD'S DAY—Duane Lake, Ted Randolph, and Fritz Daly are planning for the revived University tradition. They have arranged a luncheon for the Dads and their families in the Union ballroom. Speakers will be "Potsy" Clark and Herb Reese Sr., who are fathers of two of
