

Golden Gophers Next Cornhusker Opponent

It was back out into the cold for Bill Glassford and his charges Monday afternoon as the Husker practice session was lived-up by near freezing weather.

The first string varsity had the day off as far as contact work was concerned, however. Working out in sweat togs, they centered their emphasis on learning plays, both offensive and defensive.

The second string varsity men were back at hard contact work with the freshmen furnishing strong opposition.

This Saturday the Huskers face mighty Minnesota. Although the Golden Gophers were beaten by Washington University, 28-13, in the opener for the Minnesotans, they always are tough on Nebraska. The Huskers have won only four games while the Gophers have collected 25 victories.

And the fact that the game will be played in Minneapolis makes the task even tougher as far as Nebraska is concerned. The Huskers haven't defeated Minnesota on their home field since 1902, a mighty long drought.

Ten Straight

Even though Nebraska has lost the last ten straight to the Gophers, the prospects are brightening.

Washington's victory was the first over the Northlanders since the beginning of the 14 game series and the Gophers might be ripe for another setback. The Washington victory proved that the mighty Minnesota forward wall can be dented and that is what the Huskers will have to do to win.

Before last Saturday's surprisingly good showing against Indiana, over 1,500 spectator tickets to the Minnesota game had been purchased in Lincoln and now it is a safe bet that over two thousand of the faithful will trail the Huskers northward.

Iowa State currently enjoys a brief rule at the top of the conference standings with one victory in as many starts. They are expected to share the lead spot with Kansas after this week's activity. They Jayhawkers are heavily favored to romp over Colorado.

Working in the line on the first offensive platoon Monday for the Huskers were Frank Simon, Charley Toogood, Art Bauer, Walt Spellman, Joe McGill, Veri Scott, Don Strashem, Wayne Handshy, and Dick Regier.

Backfield

Also emphasized in Monday's drill besides passing and running plays, were punting and kicking-off.

Reynolds and Clark were handling the punting chores while Toogood was trying his hand at place-kicking.

KERMIT KLEFSAAS—Gopher halfback is expected to see plenty of action against the Huskers. He was an all-stater at Minnesota in 1949.

Yanks Favored 2-1 Over Phils

The New York Yankees will enter the world series 2-1 favorites over the National League Philadelphia Phillies.

The 1950 pennant was the first the Phillies were able to stow away in 35 years. But at the beginning of their series with the Dodgers it was beginning to look like they might have to wait until next year and try again. The Brooklynites almost had enough steam in the home stretch to take the bacon home.

The odds will be stacked against the Phillies but they are used to this role. The Dodgers were rated the favorite at the beginning of the season but the Phillies held a commanding lead over them up to the last two weeks of play.

The way the races finally ended found the Yankees three games in front of the Detroit Tigers and the Phils two games in front of the Dodgers.

Stan Musial won his fourth National League batting title with a .346 total. Billy Goodman copped the American League title with a lusty .354.

Students to Form First Soil Society

An attempt is being made to form the first student chapter in the country of the Soil Conservation Society of America on Ag campus.

All students interested in forming a chapter should attend a meeting Tuesday at 5 p.m., Room 203, Experimental Station hall, on Ag campus.

Temporary faculty sponsors of the project are Roy Peter Matelski, R. D. Curley and K. K. Young. The Lincoln chapter of the society is also aiding in organization of the chapter.

Reynolds Honored

Bobby Reynolds, Cornhusker standout against Indiana Saturday, was one of the seven griders receiving mention Monday in the Associated Press feature "Saturday's College Football stars."

Men interested in swimming instruction may still receive such instruction, either at 10 a.m. or at 11 a.m. every Tuesday and Thursday at the Coliseum pool. Students interested are urged to attend a class and talk to swimming coach Helie Lepley.

The Coliseum pool is open for the use of men students daily from 2:45 p.m. to 4:45 p.m. and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Tri-K Holds First Meeting of Year

The first Tri-K meeting of the year was held at the horse barn Thursday night Sept. 28, with president Don Bever presiding.

It was announced that Ernest Rousek, of the local chapter, had placed in the upper three in the National Agronomy Essay Contest.

Standing committees for the semester were appointed as follows: Membership, George Pinkerton, Jerry Johnson, and Bob Asmus; program, Ralph Hansen and Roland Reynolds; reporter, Arlan Walthemath; initiation, Norman Swanson, Paul Pumphrey, Don Kerl, Bob Sand, and Eugene Robinson; refreshments, Murray Danielson and Fred Hosterman; newsletter, Don Reeves, and Adrian Kluna.

VA Reveals New Enrollment Rules

G.I. students who have been recalled to service or have re-enlisted, are not subject to enrollment deadlines, says Gen. Gray, head of the V.A.

Veterans who wish to enroll must do so by July 25, 1951, if they were discharged prior to July 25, 1947. Those who were discharged after July 25, 1947, have four years from their discharge date in which to enroll. Thus, if a man was released September 6, 1948, he has until September 6, 1952 to begin or resume his studies. His training must be completed by July 25, 1956, unless he re-enlists or is called to duty.

Jays and Sooners Get First Wins

By Bob Banks
(Assistant Sports Editor)

Football games last Saturday were as unpredictable as Uncle Joe Stalin.

Southern Methodist got past favored Ohio State, Washington tripped the Golden Gophers of Minnesota, Notre Dame got by North Carolina on tieups, Oklahoma A&M upset Texas Christian, and the Tennessee Vols fell to the Mississippi Rebs.

The flavor of Big Seven football followed along the same keel as the national grid scene.

The pleasant surprise to Cornhusker fans was the local tilt which found the Scarlet and Cream holding slightly favored Indiana to a 20-20 tie. The Hoosiers were given the edge over Nebraska by about one touchdown.

Congratulations are extended to Coach Bill Glassford, his staff, and to a crew of tired but determined band of footballers for their fine showing. We're behind them all the way win, lose or draw.

The conference spotlight again shone brightest at Boulder where Dallas Ward's Buffaloes took the full measure of Ralph Graham's Kansas State Wildcats 34-6. But they didn't do it just by making their presence at the game. The score was tied up at the half 6-6.

Coach Ward evidently gave his Upsets Hurt Rag 'Experts'

The Daily Nebraskan football prognosticators fared little better than those on the national scale last week as upset after upset ruined the predictions.

Due to a slip-up, last week's prognostications were not printed in the Nebraskan, but the second of the series will appear in Friday's paper.

The crystal gazers were divided into two groups after Saturday's smoke had cleared. Four of the nine came out with seven correct out of the ten attempted while the other five notched only six successes.

Those in the upper bracket after the first try are Bob Banks, assistant sports editor; Bob manager; Bill Mundell, sports editor; and Jerry Warren, managing editor.

Those in the second flight are Chuck Burmeister, Assistant Business manager; Frank Jacobs, editor of Cornhusker; Jack Cohen, assistant business manager; and Rod Riggs, Daily Nebraskan photographer.

Biggest stickler last week to the nine experts (?) was Washington's victory over Minnesota. All nine missed this one. Pick-of-the-week went to Mundell with his selection of Clemson over Missouri.

Only Jacobs and Reichenbach picked Michigan State to down Michigan.

Faculty Sponsors Party for Aggies

The Annual Ag campus Faculty-Student party will be held Saturday night in the College Activities building starting at 8 p.m.

Given by the Ag faculty for all Ag students, the party will provide an opportunity for the faculty to meet the students as well as for the students to meet their fellow Aggies.

Aaron Schmidt's Combo, featuring the piano playing of Jim Kingsley and the singing of Mary Lou will provide the music for dancing which will start promptly at 8:30.

Refreshments will be served by the faculty in charge of the affair. All Ag college students are urged to attend.

Social Workers To Elect Officers

Election of officers will be held at the meeting Wednesday of the Association of Social Work students.

All members are urged to meet at 1 p.m., Room 319, Burnett hall, according to President Jerry Fraser.

The associations is composed of graduate students in the school of social work.

Present officers besides Fraser are: Leo Wallace, vice president; and Ed Harris, secretary.

boys an electric prod or hot shot during the half time. Anyone not knowing what this is will find it defined as an instrument which coaxes cattle along faster by benefit of an electric shock.

Whatever he used, it certainly was effective for the Buffs came back a completely converted team—this doesn't mean that Billy Graham was in the Colorado dressing room during half time.

Cyclones Lead

The win gives Iowa State a temporary lead in the conference by virtue of their win over Colorado two weeks ago. Colorado is in second place with a .500 record while Kansas State rests in the third berth with one loss on their slate. These are the only conference games played thus far in the young season.

Another game which turned out differently than the crystal ball expected was the Iowa State-Northwestern game. Northwestern was expected to trounce the Cyclones by three or four touchdowns. The Billy Weeks' passing arm was the most potent weapon Iowa State had to offer. The final game tally was 23-13.

The Oklahoma-Boston College grid tilt also had a pleasant ring to Big Seven ears. The Sooners pulled the blanket off a squad which should be plenty rough during the current season.

Kansas

Although not the jet-powered team they were in 1949, Oklahoma still uncorked enough offensive power to completely stymie the Bostonians 28-0.

The Kansas Jayhawks upheld Big Seven prestige by jaunting to Colorado and completely scudding Denver University 46-0. They offered the Rocky Mountain boys a well-rounded offense. The Kansans were a lot sharper in this game than in their last one against Texas Christian. Could be the showing was because of the difference in opponents.

It always takes some bitter pills to make a sick man well and the Big Seven had a bitter pill to swallow in spite of their other good showings. The bitter pill came in the form of a football team from Clemson, South Carolina. The southern boys didn't need any crepe suzettes to make them run wild against Missouri. They made the adding machine tabulate a final 34-0 reading.

And this was an upset. The Missouri Tigers were favored to win by as much as two touchdowns. Missouri simply didn't have any offensive or defensive power.

Well, that completes last Saturday's grid package. We all like to make our predictions of things to come but after what happened on the national grid scene all I can say is, "Drew Pearson, take it away."

IM Free Throw Prelims Begin

The first round of the intramural free throw contest got under way on Monday at the Physical Education building.

This preliminary part of the tournament will last until Friday.

Those wishing to participate in the opening round should obtain a score card and ball from the equipment room in the P. E. building. Two men, each from a different organization, will alternate shooting and scoring. Each participant will complete 50 free throws, and will be placed in flights of 16 men.

The first flight will be composed of the 16 men with the highest score, and all other men will be placed in similar flights of 16 according to their percentage.

Separate flights will be arranged for fraternity, interdenominational, and independents. Winners of each flight will then be placed in an elimination tourney for the All-University Championship.

A team trophy will be given to the organization winning the championship, a medal will go to the individual champion, and the finalists and semi-finalists will receive certificates.

The team championship is determined by points awarded in elimination tournaments. Five points are awarded for those who advance to the second round, 10 points for advancing to the third round, 15 points for advancing to the semi-finals, 20 points for gaining the finals, and the champion receives 25.

From the Sports Desk

By Bill Mundell

Sports Editor, Daily Nebraskan

Congratulations are in store for Bill Glassford, his associates, and the 1950 edition of the Cornhuskers. Saturday's opener with Indiana's Hoosiers has proved to all concerned that the Nebraska football team will do their part in wrecking pre-season prognostications that termed Nebraska to be ground under by supposedly more potent machines.

It was real joy in the hearts of the Husker loyal Saturday to see their gridders come from behind twice and battle favored Indiana to a 20-20 standstill.

It shows that a lot of hard work has been put in by the Nebraska aggregation in pre-season practices and this is to announce to them that we all appreciate their effort. A possible new Cornhusker star could be in the making after Saturday's opener.

Bobby Reynolds, playing his first game in a Nebraska uniform, put on a dazzling display of ball carrying. Bobby accounted for all twenty of Nebraska's points as he scored three touchdowns and place-kicked two extra points. In addition, he amassed a total of over 160 yards rushing—quite a day's work.

Reynolds' twenty markers already boosts him above the top scorer of last year's team. Fran Nagle, with three touchdowns in nine games, led the 1949 Cornhusker scorers with 18.

Bobby's point total also puts him in the lead in the Big-Seven scoring race, although it is not the official conference scoring race, since most of the tallying has been against non-conference foes.

	G	TD	EP	TP
Reynolds (NU)	1	3	2	20
Amberg (KU)	2	3	0	18
Hodel (CU)	2	3	0	18
Creveston (KS)	2	2	0	12
Faubion (KS)	2	2	0	12
Congiardo (IS)	2	2	0	12
Estes (KS)	2	0	8	8

Another encouraging view of Saturday's contest is that the Huskers still have room for plenty of improvement. It showed that the game was a typical opener with fumbles, poor tackling, and fair blocking. But the Cornhuskers still played good enough ball to halt the Big-Ten team's string of conquests.

So for the rest of the season—Good luck, Huskers. We're all behind you.

Tennis Courts Weather Proof, Holding Well—Higginbotham

Six constantly used tennis courts are a major part of the University sports program, according to Ed Higginbotham, tennis coach.

A new type of tennis court has been in use here for one complete school year and two summers. The patented composition is called "Grasstex" and is composed of asphalt, cellulose, asbestos fiber, and green dye. Beneath is a five inch thick layer of rock. Two of the six $3,500 courts have lately been resurfaced with another layer of the mixture.

When questioned about the material, Higginbotham said that this type of court requires a minimum of attention in contrast to the clay courts. They are softer than concrete courts and not so pliable as the asphalt variety.

Cyclones Face Iowa Teachers

There may be North Central football foes who are making the mistake of taking Iowa Teachers lightly this year but Iowa State coaches and players are not making that mistake.

"You can forget any talk about Teachers not having it this year as far as our game is concerned," says Abe Stuber, Cyclone head coach "Buck Starbeck always does a fine job of having his squad 'up' for the Iowa State game. We are expecting as tough a game as we'll get all year."

It certainly isn't any effort to build up a foe when Stuber talks that way about Iowa Teachers. The long record of the series between the two schools will bear out the Stuber is mighty wise in looking seriously upon the perennial North Central champions.

When the series started back in 1899 it took the Cyclones four games to score and win a contest. Meanwhile the Panthers had won the 1900 contest 5-0 and tied the other two, 0-0. In 1902 the score was 52-0 for Iowa State. In 1945 the Cyclones stopped Teachers 45-13. Those are the only times the Tutors could be called breathers.

In 1937 it was necessary for Iowa State to score late to win 14-12 game. In 1946 the Panthers led 18-0 at the half and 18-13 with 50 seconds to go and in possession of the ball. A fumble and a newly connected pass play brought a 20-18 victory.

Although the series stands at nine wins for Iowa State, one for Teachers, and three scoreless ties, Iowa State does not look at the game as a soft spot in the rugged 1950 schedule.

"Those Teachers would just about as soon beat us as win their conference," is the way Cyclone spokesman put it.

Know Your Huskers

A good quarterspot is an absolute necessity if the T-formation is to function smoothly. Nebraska is fortunate in having a better than fair signal caller in Francis Nagle, a product of West Lynn, Massachusetts.

This is Nagle's second fling at varsity ball for the Huskers. He quarterbacked them to a third place tie in the Big Seven in 1949.

Nagle's throwing arm is one of the most potent offensive weapons Coach Glassford has. His tosses are expected to provide plenty of punch again this year.

Nagle led the Husker scorers last year with 18 points. He is a good ball handler and signal caller.

He is a senior in Teachers College and a member of Sigma Nu. Nagle stands 6-1 and weighs 180 pounds.
