

Rag Poll Reveals Jukebox Favored

By Art Epstein

What type of automatic coin box for records do you want in your Union Crib? Armed with this question of concern to the students that visit the Crib, your roving reporter set out to find the opinion of the students that were in the Crib on Wednesday afternoon, and Thursday morning and afternoon.

The students that I questioned had the choice of voicing their ideas of keeping the solotone that are in the crib at the present time, or of converting back to the days when there was a juke box in the Union. The responses that I obtained were many, but the variations were few.

Juke Box Advantage

Those who favored the return of the juke box felt that with this type of machine the music that they wanted to hear could be heard. They further stated that if a juke box of the one hundred record selection type would be installed greater music could be enjoyed. This they argued by the fact that the solotone contained only eight different records. The idea that the players might have to wait five or six minutes to hear the record that they paid for did not annoy a single voter that wanted the return of the juke box. Neither did the fact that the player of the juke box had to leave his booth to play the wax of his choice bother the rooters of the juke box.

The students who defended the solotone felt that, if nothing else, the type of coin box which is in the crib at the present time had a radio. Of course, the idea that one would have to leave his booth to play records appeared highly to those that would retain the solotone. The idea that one could hear his choice record as soon as he dropped his coin into the solotone was regarded as a tremendous advantage over the juke box. However, top on the list of those that want to retain the solotone was the fact that the player had to listen only to the records that he wanted to hear, and not the choice of all of the students that plunged nickels into a juke box.

4 to 1 Ratio

Of the 160 students polled, 120 were in favor of the juke box, while 40 were in favor of the solotone. This is an average of 4-1 in favor of replacing the solotone with a juke box. Considering the fact that if a poll of the entire student body would show the same results, the margin would be 6,320 students in favor of the juke box, and only 1,580 students in favor of the solotone.

Reinhardt Speaks On Crime Activity

Dr. James Reinhardt of the University sociology department told members of the Knife and Fork club at a luncheon Thursday that types of crime prevalent in a community follow to a certain extent, accepted activities and values of society.

Dr. Reinhardt explained that to some degree, juvenile gangs can operate because the community in which the gangs are formed permit and tolerate conditions which make possible their operation.

He told the group that one senator recently conducted a six hour filibuster in congress to permit slot machines to be moved into his state.

This is an example, he said, of political support to a device that could be considered as furthering crime.

Rising Prices Hit Campuses As Coffee Cost Moves Up

Students at the University aren't the only ones being hit by rising prices. Colleges from New York to California have noticed the effects of inflation, too.

According to The Daily Californian, at Berkeley, their Union is adhering to the traditional "nickel cup of coffee." However, in order to accomplish this feat, they have been forced to "up" the ante elsewhere. The price rise becomes evident when one looks at the pint of milk, formerly 13 cents, now two coppers higher.

Cafeteria expenses there have gone up also. As a result the price of meat dishes has risen an average of five cents, while milk by the half pint is nine cents.

Syracuse Complains

The Daily Orange of Syracuse, New York, reports inflationary repercussions also. In a letter to the editor one belligerent "coffee drinker" complained: "Today I had my first coffee and doughnut in the club and the cashier asked for 15 cents. I asked, 'Did doughnuts go up to 10 cents?' as I never figured that coffee (the nickel cup of mud) would ever go up to 10 cents at the University—but also—it has."

And in the P. S. there was this comment: "I can see board going from $11 to $12—but not coffee from 5 to 10 cents." An editor's note at the foot of the article remarked that the former Java consumer had enclosed a clipping from one of the municipal papers in which the Associated Coffee Distributors claim coffee costs just two cents a cup.

Thinking more seriously on the problem of rising prices, the Iowa State Daily at Ames has recently voiced its opinion in the form of an editorial. They attacked inflation from the hoarding angle. The article claims that in an attempt to stabilize farm prices, the nation's hoarding "would seem to skyrocket prices for everyone else—from the individual housewife to the armed forces—who has to pay for food."

Harsh Treatment

It continues: "While it may be very admirable to keep farm prices up, it seems a little harsh to make everyone else pay for it in higher food prices. No matter whom they name this whole hoarding scheme after, and no matter what beautiful theories can be devised to support such schemes, it seems to us that the whole set-up can lead to trouble."

The problem of skyrocketing prices affects not only the housewife, but the average college student as well. However, here at home and at school one can only sit—and wait for time to provide the solution to the dilemma.

New Bulletin On Atom Bomb Attack Given

Sheriff Myles Holloway, who is director of Lancaster county's civil defense program, Wednesday issued the second in a series of educational bulletins. It suggests the following measures be taken in case of an atomic air burst:

1. Obey authorities and refrain from becoming hysterical. Even if radiological defense advisors are not present, common sense will help you protect yourself.
2. If an early warning of an attack is given, move to designated shelters or disperse as directed by the individual in charge. Your help will be needed after an explosion occurs, so listen carefully to your leader's instructions. Remember that fire fighters, rescue squads, stretcher bearers, wrecking crews and others will be needed to help minimize casualties and damage.
3. If there has been an early warning, but only an alert that indicates an immediate attack is expected, try to take cover.
4. If adequate shelter is not available, you still may take precautions against injury from flying debris in the air. Get away from frame buildings and trees. Lie down preferably in a low place, or behind a wall. Try to protect your eyes from the flash by covering them with your arms.
5. Help other injured people by giving them first aid. Many lives will be saved by proper training in first aid and rescue work.

NU Income Tax Course Scheduled

A three-day short course for people who help farmers with their income tax problems is to be offered at the Ag college Nov. 16 through 18. This is the second year that the course has been offered.

Agricultural Economist J. J. Chase said there will be facilities for 100 people to take the course.

Here are some of the topics the course will cover: Basic principles of federal income taxes, 1950 changes in tax use of forms, working out a farm tax problem, social security and farm labor and present economic and business trends.

"Aren't men funny? That man over there smiled at me, and I winked at him. But since you sat down he's completely deadpan."

"Probably because he's my husband."

The Little Touches

Ed. Note: The following is the second in a series of "Sunday Writings" by Raymond E. Manchester, Dean of Men, Kent State University, Kent, O.

Sometimes they are questions such as "How about a loan of five until payday?" Sometimes they are final delicate brush marks on an oil portrait. Sometimes they are the changing of words or sentences in a play. Sometimes they are pokes and pats in garden soil. Sometimes they are the last acts of a barber when working on a customor. Sometimes they are the powder puff techniques of a lady before a mirror.

Yes, and often they are the small acts that are the determining factor in a man's relationship with others. We all know how sensitive we are to the little things which provide the basis for impressions and opinions. A soiled shirt may completely black out pages of credentials. A crude act may abruptly stop a social climber. A careless sentence may ruin a political campaign. A biased opinion may upset a sale. A questionable story may destroy an excellent speech. A thoughtless act may be the cause of an unsent invitation.

Culture is the sum total of little things, little touches that are indicators of attitudes, habits, thoughts and desires. One cannot present a claim for culture through charts, outlines, statistics and character references. By his acts one reveals himself and provides the material for judgment.

Build well your inner self castle and through the little touches, your name will be placed high upon the scroll.

The special projects committee, directed by Miss Jones will keep the members informed on international affairs and sponsor any special activities which the organization will have.

The publicity committee, under Rosengquist, will publicize the work of NUCWA and act as liaison with the student body.

Harold Peterson, president, said that the big project for the present would be the observance of United Nations week, Oct. 17-24. Joan Jones and Marilyn Coupe will serve as chairmen for the week's activities. Plans for the week include convocations, speakers in organized houses, displays and the annual friendship dinner.

Friendship Dinner

The dinner, sponsored jointly by NUCWA, the religious welfare council and Cosmopolitan club, is held to acquaint American students with the foreign students on campus.

The foreign students will provide the decorations for the dinner. Some of the dishes served will be prepared by these students. This dinner will climax the week's activities.

An internationally known speaker will be presented on UN week as a convocation speaker. This year's speaker has not yet been announced.

Students may still sign up for work on the committee planning UN week.

Other officers of the council are Jo Buller, secretary and Miriam Willey, secretary. The office was divided this year because of the great amount of work involved.

Prof. Sumner House of the political science department and Dr. Frank Sorenson, are the group's sponsors.

Artificial Cattle Breeding Doesn't Affect Calf Sex

The sex of calves born in a dairy herd through artificial insemination is about the same as when natural breeding is used, according to studies made at the University.

The sex ratio was 51.48 percent males to 48.52 percent females for 2,428 calves. At the University of Illinois a study showed the sex ratio from artificial insemination was 100 females to 105.89 males.

Two lunatics were playing a little game. "What do I have here?" asked one with his hands cupped.

"Three navy patrol bombers," was the answer.

The first one looked carefully into his hands. "Nope," he said.

"The Empire State Building?"

"No."

"The Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra?"

The first one looked into his hands again, then said slyly, "Who's conducting?"
