

Reds Call Homecoming Big Five Meeting Demand Council Police Forces

A formal proposal for a Big Five conference on international peace and security was issued by Russia Wednesday with the demand that the United Nations set up a permanent international police force under the security council.

This was Russia's answer to an American proposal to give the veto-less general assembly an international army to be used against aggressors whenever the security council is paralyzed in an emergency by a veto.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky submitted both resolutions before the general assembly's main political committee.

Lukewarm response was received from informal spokesmen for the British and American delegations. However, Wednesday, Canadian External Affairs minister Lester B. Pearson told the committee that Canada would welcome the proposal for a Big Five meeting if it means "effective and genuine consultation."

War Not Over

And in news concerning the far east, a military spokesman said Wednesday the Korean war is "far from over and there is much fighting ahead."

"Don't be lulled by victories into a false sense of optimism," the spokesman told reporters at a morning Pentagon press briefing. "There's a big job ahead."

He pointed out that communist North Korea is larger than South Korea and it is far more mountainous and far more rugged the farther north the United Nations forces move.

He also said there are no indications there will be mass surrenders of North Korean armies.

Meeting Resistance

He pointed out that the U. S. First cavalry division is meeting strong resistance and moving up a narrow valley which makes attack most difficult.

In connection with the Korean problem, President Truman left Wednesday on the first leg of his flight to the far Pacific for his first face-to-face conference with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The president's plane, the Independence, was scheduled to take off from Washington national airport at 3 p. m. accompanied by his top military and diplomatic advisers.

Informed sources said that Wake Island will be the site of the meeting.

On the other side of the world, the first American army reinforcements for Europe's defense were arriving on the continent, U. S. commander in Europe said Wednesday.

Warned Soviets

Lt. Gen. Manton S. Eddy, the commander, said the troops were destined for Berlin and warned that any attack on Berlin by the soviets would mean war.

While news increased on the international scene heads of 15 railroad unions with a million members decided Wednesday to ask for an increase of 25-cents-an hour on wages.

The unions concerned are made up of non-operating workers, that is, rail employees, not directly concerned with actually operating trains.

George E. Leighty, president of the order of railroad telegraphers and chairman of a joint committee of the 15 unions made the announcement.

Builders Plan Campus Tours For Prepsters

Any high school student visiting the University will have a chance to go on a tour of the campus under the direction of Builders workers.

The Builders campus tour committee with Marilyn Coupe as chairman, has expanded its program this year and included a public relations department.

Ken Keller is in charge of the department which will provide training for workers on the committee who will take students on tours. Information about how to conduct tours will be offered and tips on University history which might be of interest to the visitors, will be given.

According to Miss Coupe more than 500 high school students from Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas were taken on tours last year by Builders workers.

Popular Buildings
The most popular buildings on campus, Miss Coupe says, are the military and Naval Science building, the Coliseum and the Stadium. Students also are eager to see the Capillon Tower and learn some of the facts about it.

The Union is another highlight of most students' tours. The Morrill hall is always included in the tours.

In addition to conducting tours, the committee last year published a souvenir booklet which was given to the students taking tours.

The tours committee also works in cooperation with special Builders projects such as the fall press convention and the pep convention in the spring.

Homecoming Decoration Rules Told

Rules for the 1950 Homecoming displays and floats have been announced by John Mills, chairman of the homecoming decorations committee.

Organized houses on the campus are eligible to enter the contest for the homecoming game, which will be the Nebraska-Missouri game on Nov. 4.

The rules are as follows:
A sketch of the proposed house decoration must be submitted by noon, Saturday, Oct. 21. This is to eliminate duplication of decorations. If two groups have the same theme but a different presentation, both may go ahead. In case of similarity, the first one submitted will be approved.

A fee of five dollars must be submitted for every group with a membership of 20 or more by noon, Saturday, Oct. 21. Decorations must be completed by 6 p. m. Friday, Nov. 3 if the group is to be considered by the judges.

Fifty Dollars Limit
Expenses for the decorating must not exceed fifty dollars. An itemized expense account must be submitted by 6 p. m., Nov. 3.

Any professional help is prohibited. The sketch, fee and expense account should be submitted to John Mills, 635 No. 16th st.

Floating trophies will be awarded to the winning floats in the homecoming floats, Jayne Wade, Tassels in charge, announced.

Miss Wade announced the following rules:
The deadline for entries will be Oct. 21.

Any organization on campus is eligible to enter, with the exception of sororities, because of a ruling by the Panhellenic Council.

No Entry Fee
There will be no entry fee. A sketch or outline of the display must be included with the letter of application. Any duplications will have to be eliminated. Groups will be notified if there is any change.

Prizes will be awarded to the two best floats only. All entries should be sent to Jayne Wade, 1619 "R" st. The exact route of the homecoming parade has not yet been determined, Miss Wade said. She hopes to be able to have the band march in full uniform for the event.

Display Winners
The homecoming displays are sponsored by the Innocents society. The parade is sponsored by Tassels and Corn Cobs. Dick Walsh is the Corn Cob representative.

Sigma Nu won first place honors in last year's homecoming display, men's division, while Gamma Phi Beta won the women's competition.

Zeta Beta Tau and Sigma Chi took second and third places respectively in the men's competition. Theta Xi and Farm House received honorable mention.

Sigma Delta Tau and Delta Delta Delta took second and third places for the women. Kappa Kappa Gamma and Kappa Alpha Theta received honorable mention.

42 Entrants
Approximately 42 houses entered the float competition last year. Phi Gamma Delta and Inter-Varsity Christian fellowship won first prizes in the men's and women's competition respectively.

Trophies will be awarded to all winners in the decoration contest. Second and third place winners will also receive traveling trophies.

14 Sororities To Take Part In 'Workshop'

Panhellenic workshop will get off to a flying start Sunday Oct. 22, when fourteen campus sororities will observe Church Sunday. The activities will continue through Wednesday with special speakers, a banquet, round table discussions and exchange dinners and luncheons.

According to Sibyl Mark, chairman of the annual workshop, the activities will be designed to acquaint sororities with one another and promote interest in intergroup relations.

Thompson Speaks
Monday's schedule includes a talk by Dr. T. J. Thompson, Dean of Student Affairs. Dr. Thompson will discuss the relation of women's fraternities to the University, its faculty and its students. Topic of his address will be "Are Women's Fraternities on the Winning Side?"

The event is scheduled for Ellen Smith hall at 5 p. m. All University women are invited to attend.

Monday night, the Panhellenic alumni advisors of the various sororities have been invited to their respective houses to discuss Panhellenic activities and responsibilities.

Public Relations
"Good Public Relations for Women's Fraternities" will be the theme of the annual Panhellenic banquet Tuesday night in the Union ballroom. Ticket price is $1.50. The speaker of the evening will be announced later this week.

Dr. Janet Palmer, consulting psychiatrist for the Lincoln Public School system and acting director of the division of mental health of the State Health department will be the speaker at Ellen Smith hall on Wednesday at 5 p. m. She will discuss "Getting Along with Others."

Training Classes
Training classes for presidents, scholarship chairmen, pledge trainers, activities chairmen, standards committees and social chairmen will be on the agenda for Wednesday night. These classes will be in the form of panel discussions and will be held at various houses. Common problems and new ideas will be the feature of the panel groups.

Throughout the week exchange dinners and luncheons will be held at different houses.

Chairman of the week is Sibyl Mark. Committee chairmen include: banquet, Mary Ann Grundman; program, Sharon Fritzler; decorations, Lois Fredrick; tickets, Carol Cherney.

Singers to Meet With Prep Choirs
The University Singers will collaborate with the Scottsbluff and Teacher's college high school choirs in an open rehearsal, Friday at 11 a. m., in the Union ballroom.

Scottsbluff's band will be exhibited along with 190 voice choir. The band is directed by Vernon Forbes, former director of Lincoln Northeast high school orchestra.

Dr. Arthur Westbrook conducts the Singers and Morrie Hays, a University graduate, directs the Scottsbluff choir.

Scottsbluff's music groups will perform during half-time of the Scottsbluff-Lincoln high football game Friday night.

All students and faculty are invited to attend the informal rehearsal Friday.

Ag Union to Offer Dancing Lessons
Free dancing lessons will start Wednesday at the Ag Union at 7:30 p. m., according to Jeanne Viereck, chairman of the dance committee.

Dancing instructors will be on hand to teach basic steps. The more complicated steps will be taught later.

Miss Viereck also wished to remind Ag students about the hour dances held every Wednesday at 4:30 p. m. in the Ag Union.

Activities Open To Frosh Coeds

Campus organizations gained many new members yesterday at the Activities Mart held in the Union ballroom.

All freshmen women were urged to join the group in which they were interested. Workers from each organization that was represented were in the booths to explain its purpose and to explain the type of work that would be done by the group throughout the year.

Sixteen groups were represented. They are:
All University Fund: the only charitable organization. Workers solicit funds to be contributed to World Student Service fund, foreign universities, and other charitable causes.

YWCA: activities are centered in many commission groups. These varied commissions include world relatedness, comparative religious and camp counseling. They also publish the "N" book.

Women's Athletic Association: comprised of various clubs sponsored by the women's physical education department.

NUCWA: Nebraska University Committee on World Affairs works to better international understanding among students and faculty.

Red Cross volunteer groups which sponsors the junior Red Cross and makes weekly visits to the Veteran's hospital and Orthopedic hospital.

Independent Student's Association: unaffiliated student's group. A new feature of the group this year is an activity card which entitles the owner to attend all ISA functions.

Cosmopolitan club: an international club organized to better relationship between American and foreign students. Sponsors the annual Cosmopolitan convocation.

Coed Counselors: Counsel freshmen women and have weekly meetings and discussion groups that are of interest to new students on the campus. Sponsor the annual banquet for all the Counselors and their "little sisters."

Associated Women Students: makes all the rules governing women students such as closing hours, scholarship rules, etc. Sponsor Coed Follies, Ivy Day sing, Campus Know How and "No You" booklet.

University Builders: sponsor open convocations, Calendar sales, publish the Student Directory, publish First Glance and Scarlet and Cream.

Barb Activities Board for Women: organizations for unaffiliated women. Sponsor Adelphi, Hesperia and annual "Hello Girl" dances.

Union Activities Board: govern all Union activities and functions.

Cornhuskers: publish the campus humor magazine.

Cornhusker: publish the college annual.

Pigskin Party Planned by Union
The Union will sponsor another Pigskin party Saturday.

The party will last from 2 p. m. until the game is over. Eldon Schafer will be on hand to diagram and explain the plays with colored chalk. Hostesses will sell popcorn and apples.

Thom Snyder, chairman, said there was a big crowd at the last Pigskin party and urged students to spend the afternoon listening to the game at the Union.

Others on the editorial staff are: Frederick L. Christensen, associate editor; Thomas M. Frantz, Boyd Carter, John G. Neuhardt, Emily Schonsberger and Robert P. Crawford, advisory editors.

The business office is headed by Earle B. Wilson.

Organized Houses 'Open'
Members of the general committee announced Wednesday that the Residence Halls for Women and all organized houses are open to all Kosmet Klub workers. Previously workers had been assigned special houses.

Special effort, point out Matzke and Leon Pfeiffer, president of Kosmet Klub, will be made to contact students on Ag campus, in the law college, religious houses, ISA and men's dorms and co-op houses.

Organizations will also be

Pub Committee Filings End Friday

Filings for the Committee on Student Publications will close, Friday, Oct. 13.

The Student Council will select one person from the sophomore, junior and senior classes to serve on the committee. This group selects the staff members for The Daily Nebraskan, Cornhusker and Cornshucks, as well as approves the contracts for the three publications.

To be eligible, the student must meet the hour requirements of his class and University scholastic standards. Present members of the publications staffs are ineligible unless they resign from their present positions.

Each applicant should state his name, college, year in school and brief summary of his reasons for applying. This should include previous experience with publications.

All letters should be addressed to the Student Council, which will interview all applicants at a later date.

NUCWA Readies UN Plans

Plans are progressing for UN Week, Oct. 17 to 24, according to Joan Jones and Marilyn Coupe, co-chairmen of the NUCWA sponsored event.

An informal coffee hour will be held in the Union lounge on Sunday, Oct. 22 from 5 to 6 p. m. The lounge will be decorated with United Nations flags. Hosts and hostesses will serve coffee and brownies to those attending.

According to Stan Jones, chairman of the committee planning the coffee hour, all University students are invited to participate. "Students will have a chance to mingle socially, and get together informally to discuss the activities of the week," Jones added.

Organized Houses Invited
Invitations have been extended to all organized houses on campus, urging them to attend the coffee hour and give it support. The Union is cooperating with NUCWA in making arrangements.

Hosts and hostesses for the hour will be John Bauer, Adele Crane, Bob Hallock, Dorothy Kurth, Joann Miller, Sue Neuenwander, Jeanette Neville, Rusty Parmenter, Patsy Patterson, Don Peterson and Kathleen Wilson.

Convocation
Other activities of the week include a University convocation, exhibits and a faculty round table. The International Friendship dinner, previously scheduled for UN Week, has been postponed until a later date. The dinner will be sponsored jointly by NUCWA, Cosmopolitan club, and the Religious Welfare Council. Pon Chinn heads the committee in charge of the event.

The exhibit committee will plan the exhibits to be held in Love library during next week. Chairman of the committee is Susie Tewell, who will be assisted by Barbara Cohen, Mary Henke, Charlotte Vets and Paul Weick.

Round Table Discussion
The faculty round table discussion, or seminar will be held at 4 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 17 in Love library auditorium. Several members of the University faculty will meet to talk over "UN and the Application of Knowledge." The professors and instructors participating in the discussion will be selected equally from the physical and social sciences departments.

Miss Coupe will direct the activities of the public relations committee. The committee will handle publicity work, including posters and advertising.

Council Assigns Students, Faculty Basketball Seats

Entire East Side of Coliseum Reserved Until Game Time

The Student Council campus improvements committee last night reported that the entire east side of the Coliseum and the west bleachers would be reserved as a student and faculty section at basketball games.

The committee emphasized that this arrangement would be adequate for student and faculty seating. The purpose of the plan is to provide better seating for students and to develop more spirit at basketball games. The committee met with Athletic Director Patsy Clark early this week to discuss the possibilities of the arrangement.

Through the cooperation of the athletic department, the student-faculty seating block was set up. Under the new system the student-faculty section will be reserved until a definite period before game time. This period will probably be five or ten minutes. In the event that the student-faculty section is not completely filled the students will be asked to move toward the center and the remainder of the east side will be opened to the general public.

New Representatives
Two new representatives were introduced to the Council. They are Bob Yarwood, representing N-club, and Shirley Borcherding, representing the Independent Student Association.

Romaine Rasmussen, chairman of the displaced persons committee of the Religious Welfare Council, appeared before the Council to give a report of the project. He emphasized the lack of response from students toward the work. He reported that ten students were brought to Nebraska last year under scholarships provided by the University.

Various campus religious groups cooperated in providing partial maintenance for the displaced persons. Books were provided by the Nebraska Book store and other firms provided clothing, haircuts and laundry service. Continuation of the plan will depend largely on the ability of the University to provide additional scholarships.

Displaced Persons
Ginny Guhin emphasized the fact that the majority of students are not aware of the displaced persons project. She stated that many people would be willing to give assistance if they were aware of the needs of the students.

Gene Berg expressed hope that the project would be carried on. "There is still a great need to bring displaced persons to the United States. I hope the program can be enlarged," he said.

"The faculty approved the migration plan on Monday," stated Bob Rogers, head of the Council migration committee. Migrations plans call for a rally at Kansas and planned activity on the train. Tickets will be sold in a booth in the Union several days previous to the game.

Plans were also made for the selections of student representatives to the Committee on Student Publications. Interviews of the applicants will be held next Wednesday during Council meeting. The editors of the three campus publications, The Daily Nebraskan, Cornhusker and Cornshucks will be invited to speak to the Council before the interviews begin. They will have an opportunity to state their opinions regarding necessary qualifications for membership on the committee.

Speech Meet To Feature Debaters
University debaters Jack Solomon and Charles Rossow will meet two University of Mississippi students Saturday in an exhibition debate before delegates attending the Nebraska high school speech and social studies conference.

The two University debaters will meet E. C. Ward and Jay Hedgpeeth from Mississippi on a proposal concerning rejection of the welfare state, national high school debate topic. The debate will be at 3 p. m., Saturday in the Love Library auditorium.

Two Appear at KU
In addition to the exhibition debate on the University campus, two other members of the debate squad, Doris Carlson and Joan Krueger, will speak at the University of Kansas at Lawrence Saturday in a public exhibition debate before a similar conference for Kansas high school debaters.

Carlson and Krueger will uphold the affirmative side of the national high school question. Donald Olson, debate director, also will speak at the conference.

About 250 Nebraska high school students are expected to attend the institute on the University campus which is under the direction of Bruce Kendall, associate debate director.

Speech Sponsors
Sponsored by the speech department in cooperation with the NNSA and the State Department of Public Instruction, the conference is held to give students opportunity to discuss the welfare state and reasons for accepting or rejecting it.

Prof. Curtis M. Elliott, department of economics, and Joseph S. Sewall, manager of the Social Security field office in Lincoln, will discuss and analyze the topic.

The director of speech at Grand Island high school, Jane Kinnie, will speak on "How to Participate in Discussion."

Two Discussion Sessions
Two sessions of informal discussion will be held to give students an opportunity to consider the following questions: "What problems threaten the security of the United States citizens?" and "How should the federal government deal with these problems?"

Presiding at the one day program will be Prof. Clarence Flick of the speech department.

About 250 high school students representing 40 high schools were present last year for the conference.

Builders workers, under the direction of Pochie Rediger, will assist with registration during the conference.

Cosmopolitan Club Plans Party Saturday
All University students may attend the initiation party of the Cosmopolitan club Saturday night.

The time is 8:30 p. m. in Parlors XYZ, Union. Dancing is the scheduled activity. Purpose of the evening is to give campus newcomers a chance to get acquainted with the University's club of foreign and American students.

2500 Students Put Signatures On Scroll In 'Freedom' Campaign

Nearly 2,500 students had signed their names to the Freedom Scroll by Wednesday afternoon.

This was reported by Jerry Matzke, chairman of the grand committee for the campus Crusade for Freedom. Nearly all Kosmet Klub workers, who are gathering the signatures, have reached their tentative goal of 150 signatures per person.

The workers now will canvass other campus localities and concentrate on getting signatures in places in which they have not been covered extensively, says Matzke.

Organized Houses 'Open'
Members of the general committee announced Wednesday that the Residence Halls for Women and all organized houses are open to all Kosmet Klub workers. Previously workers had been assigned special houses.

Special effort, point out Matzke and Leon Pfeiffer, president of Kosmet Klub, will be made to contact students on Ag campus, in the law college, religious houses, ISA and men's dorms and co-op houses.

Organizations will also be visited by workers to get signatures of any student who may have been missed. The Crib and Campanile will also have workers stationed there.

Booths Set Up
A table will be set up in Social Science building. Workers will be stationed at the booth in the Union.

Other members of the grand committee which have supervised the campaign are: Bob Ruan, president of Student Council which is sponsoring the drive; Bruce Kennedy, editor of The Daily Nebraskan; Jo Lisher, AUF; Dean Carl Borgmann, administration; and Harold Peterson, president of NUCWA, the organization acting as a coordinating agency. Matzke is vice-president of NUCWA.

Response to the drive has been generally favorable says Matzke. "As a whole I am very encouraged by the student reaction," he said.

Signing of the Freedom Scrolls is a part of the nation-wide Crusade for Freedom to help promote radio broadcasts to countries behind the iron curtain.

The University drive will end Saturday and scrolls will be flown to Berlin where they will be included in dedication ceremonies of a freedom bell. This bell will ring daily after its dedication on United Nations Day Oct. 24.

Gen. Lucius Clay, chairman of the national committee, has predicted that "behind the iron curtain liberty-seeking men and women will use the symbol of bell as the "V" symbol was used against Nazi tyranny. He calls it "a rallying symbol for all those working for freedom."

Fighting Big Lie
The Crusade was called a method of fighting "the big lie with the big truth" by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who launched the campaign on Labor Day. He said that it is a program which President Truman and others call "an essential step in getting the case for freedom heard by the world's magnitude."

Gov. Val Peterson, in opening the drive on the University campus, hoped it would "stimulate in the minds of all signers a picture of Americanism and Christianity."

Matzke

The University's donation to the Crusade for Freedom will come from the AUF, according to Miss Lisher. About 10 cents per pledge will be given to the fund, she said.

Rendezvous To Open YW Frosh Work

Freshman women may start work right away in the YWCA by attending the YWCA rendezvous this afternoon. The rendezvous, which officially opens the freshman program, will be held at Ellen Smith hall Thursday from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m.

Students will meet freshman leaders and cabinet members at the event. Freshman women may have signed up for YW work at the AWS activities mart, but in order to join a commission group, they must attend the rendezvous.

Liz Moodie is chairman of the rendezvous. Refreshments will be served under the direction of Anne Jane Hall.

Commission groups for freshmen will be under the leadership of the following: Barbara Young, Jane Jackson, Dorothy Gartrell, Sue Porter, Sally Kjelson, Carol DeWitt, Elaine Kagawa and Beth Logan. Sue Pryor and Shirley Randall are in charge of the entire freshman program.

In the various groups, freshmen will become acquainted with the campus YW and different phases of campus life. What is the Y, why did you join, what do you expect to get out of the Y, are some of the questions to be discussed in the first discussion groups. All groups are designed to give more initiative in forming opinions, planning various projects that may be done by the group, and to give better understanding of the YWCA purpose and organization.
