

Sea-Air Attacks Near Red Border

The battleship Missouri and allied warships set the port of Chongjin afire yesterday with a thunderous bombardment and naval air strikes. The sea-air attacks were not many miles from the communist China and Soviet Siberia borders.

There were indications that the heavy shelling was continuing. Chongjin, an iron and steel center of 190,000 people is 43 miles from the Manchurian frontier and 49 miles southeast of Soviet Siberia.

Carrier plans rocketed and strafed Chongjin in a fiery two-day prelude to the warship bombardment. In addition to the Missouri, the U.S. heavy cruiser Helena, and unidentified British, Canadian and Australian vessels took part. After an hour of shelling, parts of the city were seen blazing.

Bombardment
AP correspondent, Gene Herick reported that the bombardment was like the one that softened the west coast for the amphibious landings at Inchon in mid-September.

A landing at Chongjin could start another United Nations spearhead rolling across the peninsula to seal off the reds from Soviet supplies.

Far south-west of Chongjin, allied ground troops pushed steadily ahead on three fronts toward Pyongyang. Tank-led columns above the 38th parallel were moving toward the red capital from the south, southwest and east.

On the fighting fronts, the reds were tasting the bitter medicine that they forced on the United Nations forces early in the war.

Strike Extended
Far ahead of the 135 mile front, stretching slant-wise across the peninsula north of the parallel, allied planes extended their strikes in red Korea close to the Manchurian and Siberian borders.

In Los Angeles the American Legion voted to "demand" that President Truman reconstitute the state department, but it side-stepped naming Secretary of State Dean Acheson, or suggesting his removal.

Legion Report
The latter had been urged by the legion's retiring executive committee, but was not incorporated in a report by the foreign affairs committee which condemned the state department's failure to deal adequately with the grim and bloody advance of communism throughout the world.

The report also urged sponsoring of a resolution by the American delegate to the United Nations to the effect that "further aggression in any part of the world by Soviet Russia will meet the full force of retaliation by the United Nations police authority, including, if necessary, the release of atomic weapons on Soviet Russia."

Ag Union Holds Open House at 8 p.m. Tonight

The Ag Union will hold its annual Open House tonight starting at 8:00 p. m. All students and faculty are welcome.

Displays, dancing and bingo will be the main attractions of the evening, according to Miss Hollis Eggers, Ag Union activities director.

Most of the organizations on Ag campus have been contacted to put up a display or to give a demonstration of their functions. The following organizations plan to have displays: Ag Exec board, Ag Economic club, Ag Religious Council, Ag YM-YW, Alpha Zeta, Block and Bridge, Phi Upsilon Omicron, Tri-K club, University 4-H club, Varsity Dairy, and the student chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America.

Riley Smith and his orchestra will furnish the music for the dancing which will last from 8 to 12 p. m. There will be no admission charge for any part of the Open House.

The Cornhusker Countryman, Ag college's monthly magazine, plans to display the steps which the magazine goes through before it is printed. The various phases include the stories, pictures, cartoons, and the way they look from the time they are drawn up until they are a part of the magazine. Editor Eleanor Erickson stated that this display promises to be very educational and may clear up some of the doubts experienced by those who subscribe.

Singers to Meet With Prep Choirs

University Singers will meet with two high school choirs Friday. They will give a rehearsal with the Scottsbluff and Teachers high school choirs at 11 a. m. in the Union ballroom.

Dr. Arthur Westbrook conducts the singers and Morris Hayes, a graduate of the University, directs the Scottsbluff choir. The Scottsbluff band will play during the half-time at the Scottsbluff-Lincoln high football game Friday night.

Committee to Enlist Aid Of Campus Organizations

College Days general committee members Thursday afternoon made plans to contact all campus organizations to enlist their support and help for the celebration.

Jayne Wade and Marilyn Coupe were named as chairmen in charge of high school visitors.

According to the chairmen, a committee will be organized which will work through Dean Henzlick, Teachers college and the School Masters club. An effort will be made during the state teachers' convention to inform the instructors about College Days.

To Send Letters
Sometime in February, point out Miss Wade and Miss Coupe, all high schools will be sent letters inviting students to the three-day celebration April 26 to 28.

The following persons were appointed by Nancy Porter, personnel chairman, to visit organizations and explain the purpose and setup of College Days:

AWS, Ann Barger; AUF, Bill Dugan; Coed counselors, Jan Lindquist; Panhellenic, Phyllis Haley; Red Cross, Bill Dugan; Ag and City Unions, Ann Barger; The Daily Nebraskan, Jerry Warren and Joan Krueger; YW, Phyllis Haley; Corn Shucks, Bill Dugan; Farmers' Fair Board, Don Beaver; YM, Jan Lindquist; Cosmopolitan club, Susan Reed; N-Club, Herb Reese; WAA, Poochie Rediger; and Candidate Officers association, George Wilcox.

An effort will be made soon to contact different campus honoraries to explain College Days.

Colleges To Assist
In addition to the Farmers' Fair and Engineers Week which will be a part of College Days, several other colleges and departments have agreed to participate in the celebration.

Other colleges, reports Miss Reed, are still conferring with faculty members. Letters telling the purpose of College Days and outlining a general program will be mailed soon to all campus organizations, organized houses and colleges by Phyllis Haley, College Days secretary.

Beaver Speaks
Don Beaver, chairman of the Farmers Fair, told the committee of plans Ag college is making. Included in the Fair will be the annual Rodeo, special events and open houses.

Students who signed up to work on College Days committees at the activities mart will be called for a mass meeting soon, said Miss Porter. At that time they will be assigned special committees or duties.

A tentative schedule of events is being drawn up by Bill Dugan, assistant chairman. Chairman of the College Days committee is Gene Berg, president of Builders, the organization sponsoring the celebration.

Committee members will meet Monday to consider special events during the three days.

Senate Approval
College Days, which was approved by the University faculty senate in 1932, will be a three-day celebration in the spring similar to Iowa State's Veishea and the University of Colorado's CU Days.

Emphasis, points out Berg, is placed on educational aspects of college, but the public also has an opportunity to see other phases of campus life.

Colleges and departments have been urged by the committee to plan open houses for the celebration, special displays and exhibits which will portray the work of their particular study.

'Big Sisters' Plan Frosh 'Cues' Meets

The first "Campus Cues" program of this year will be held Tuesday, Oct. 17, at 7 p. m., in Ellen Smith hall.

All Coed Counselors and freshman girls will discuss "How To Dress for Occasions."

In previous years, the Coed Counselors have held "Charm School and Book Review" sessions for the freshmen women.

However, this year a new program is being adopted which will include revised sessions that will include more topics of interest to the freshmen.

Swanson Chairman
Tish Swanson, chairman of Campus Cues, said that musical reviews, football reviews, and a session concerning the Nebraska Art association exhibit will be a part of this year's program.

These reviews will be held every Tuesday night during the school year at 7 p. m. Last year all meetings were held in Ellen Smith hall, but this year plans are being made to hold the sessions in places appropriate to the evening's topic.

For instance, if a book review is being given, the meeting will be held in the Union book room; if the program includes musical numbers, the girls will meet in the Union music room.

All May Attend
The program has been set up especially for freshman girls but upperclassmen are invited to attend. Any freshman that has not been contacted by her "Big Sister" is urged to attend, anyway.

Miss Swanson is assisted by Nancy DeBord and Ann Lueder, who is representing the Student Union.

Dance instruction is being held at the Union this year. Following the Campus Cues meetings the Coed Counselors will be hostesses at these dances.

100 Ag Dancers Receive Lessons

Approximately 100 Ag college students attended the dancing lessons held at the Ag Union Wednesday night.

Coinciding with the University's ratio of one woman to three men, there was an overwhelming majority of men at the lessons. Only about 35 girls attended, leaving a large stag line of men who could only watch the proceedings.

Miss Jeanne Vierke, chairman of the dance committee emphasized that more women would be needed at the lessons to be held again next Wednesday evening at 7:00 p. m. She pointed out that this was an excellent opportunity for a person to meet some new friends as well as to learn how to dance.

Basic steps are now being taught but as time goes on the other dances such as the rumba, waltz, etc. will be presented to those interested.

Kosmet Klub workers remember to turn in your Crusade For Freedom scrolls Saturday from 12-12:30 p. m. in the Kosmet Klub room in the Union.

Electrical Engineers Begin Campaign to Build Workshop

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers is starting a campaign to build an engineer's workshop.

The money raised from the AIEE picnic-square dance to be held Friday night will be used to buy equipment for this workshop.

Space has been allotted in Ferguson hall for the workshop. The group now needs to obtain equipment for the project to go in the room.

The picnic is the first in a series of events to raise money. The engineers plan to make the picnic an annual event, according to chairman Vince Cunningham.

Equipment
The workshop will include equipment for students who want to work on personal projects, experiments or Engineers Week projects.

As they are able to collect money, the group will start to purchase some of the smaller, basic equipment such as hammers, screwdrivers and drills. Later, the group will be able to get power tools such as jig saws, drill presses and buzz saws. Eventually they hope to be able to get electronic testing equipment.

They hope to be able to get the first equipment about Nov. 1. Although the project is sponsored by the Electrical Engineers society, the shop will be open to any engineer. Dean Roy Green

Filings Open Today For Class Officers

Faculty Okays Election Plans

Filings for Junior and Senior class officers are open as of today. Anyone interested is urged to file with Dean Hallgrens office in the Administration building before Oct. 20.

The elections of last spring were invalidated by the Student Council for several reasons.

The elections had not been publicized two weeks preceding the actual voting. The election committee of the Student Council had not approved the elections, and the faculty committee on student affairs was not satisfied with the election procedure.

Election Date
Therefore the filings and elections are being held at this time. Tentative elections date is set for Thursday, Oct. 26.

Voting may be done from 8 to 5 on either the Ag or City campuses. There will be booths in the Unions of both campuses.

Bob Parker, Student Council vice president, who is in charge of the elections has emphasized the filling and voting procedure to be followed.

Only juniors and seniors may vote for their class officers. There will be two Student Council members at each polling place.

There are to be four officers for each class. These officers will choose the class council and sponsor the class proms. These are the main duties of the officers.

There must be a minimum of two candidates for each office. If this isn't fulfilled elections will be dropped.

Student Interest
Also, if there is not enough interest shown in the elections and filings, the procedure will be called off.

These plans have been discussed, moved, and approved by the Student Council. Election committee from the Council includes: Bob Parker, chairman; Bill Michelson, Peggy Mulvaney, and Rex Messersmith.

In order to file for junior or senior class officer eligibility requirements must be fulfilled. These refer to individual college requirements, hour requirements and University scholastic standing.

Old Clothing 'Vogue' Outfit At Bums' Ball

Old clothes will predominate Friday at the annual 'Bums' ball sponsored by the Independent Students association.

Prizes will be awarded for the best "bum" and "bummess" costumes. No one dressed in orthodox dress will be admitted. As the dancers enter the room, they will pass under a ladder, which is part of the superstition theme commemorating Friday the 13th. Decorations will follow the same theme.

Bucky Lewis and his orchestra will play for the annual dance which will be held from 8:30 to 12 p. m.

All holders of ISA activity cards will be admitted free. Tickets will be sold at the door to those who do not have cards.

Any student may attend the dance. There will be a number of hostesses present to take care of any stags present. The dance is not for dates only.

$1,000 Music Fund Established

A gift of $1,000 to the University Foundation to help music students obtain a University education was announced Friday by Perry W. Branch, Foundation Director-Secretary.

The gift is from Mr. and Mrs. Don Hill who created the fund as a memorial to their daughter, Ruth Hill.

One scholarship of $200 will be given each year to an upperclass student in the University's Department of Music. The recipient will be selected by a music faculty committee.

"We deeply appreciate this fine gift from Mr. and Mrs. Hill," Dr. Arthur Westbrook, Director of the School of Fine Arts, said. "This is the first scholarship established locally to help music students. It will help us fill a great need for scholarships for outstanding young men and women who seek careers in music but who are unable to pay the fees of these courses which are necessarily higher than those in most other University departments."

Unofficial Husker Rally Scheduled at Boulder

Students going to Boulder for the Colorado game—keep on the look-out for an impromptu Cornhusker rally tonight.

The rally, if it is held, will not be officially sponsored by the rally committee. However, a Nebraska pep band will be present and rumors are that the rally will be held.

Freedom Drive Scroll Signing Ends Saturday

Tomorrow is the last chance University students will have to sign their names to the Freedom Scrolls.

The five day drive, which was opened Monday by Gov. Val Peterson, will end Saturday and the scrolls will be flown to Berlin.

Commenting on the Crusade for Freedom, Bob Raun, Student Council president, said that students should certainly take advantage of this opportunity to support "a very worthy cause."

"By signing the Freedom Scroll and contributing to the Radio Free Europe fund through the AUF," the president said, "we can prove that the student body really is concerned about the welfare of the millions imprisoned behind the iron curtain."

Goal 5,000
Student Council is the organization sponsoring the campus campaign which has a 5,000 goal. By the middle of the week signatures had reached the halfway mark, reported Jerry Matzke, chairman of the general committee and vice president of NUCWA, the coordinating agency.

The University's contribution to the drive will come from AUF funds, Jo Lisher, director, announced this week. About 10 cents per pledge will be donated to Crusade for Freedom.

The campus crusade has been directed by a committee composed of Matzke, Raun, Miss Lisher, Bruce Kennedy, Leon Pfeiffer, Harold Peterson and Dean Borgmann.

When reaching Berlin, the scrolls will be used in the dedication ceremonies of a freedom bell on United Nations Day. This bell will ring daily after dedication on Oct. 24.

Kosmet Klub workers have been in charge of soliciting signatures on the scrolls. A tentative goal of 150 names per worker was set at the beginning of the drive.

Chairmen to Call Builder Workers

All students who signed up at the activities mart to work on Builders committees will be notified before next Wednesday.

This was announced by Poochie Rediger, mass meetings, parties and conventions chairman.

Work on the committee projects will begin immediately, she said, and workers will meet with their committee chairman to find out what work they may do.

The four men will discuss "UN and the Application of Knowledge." They will discuss the advancement of knowledge in the world and the problems involved in using the knowledge which we have gained.

Question Period
A question and answer period will follow the roundtable discussion. The seminar will last approximately 40 minutes and the remainder of the time will be used for audience participation.

The program is open to the public. Both faculty members and University students are urged by Harold Peterson, president of NUCWA, to attend.

The roundtable discussion will open seven days of UN Week activities. Wednesday, the Cosmopolitan club will hold an open meeting at which they will have a debate. Thursday an All-University convocation will be held.

Other Activities
Other activities include a coffee hour to be held Sunday, Oct. 22, and exhibits in Love Library. An annual NUCWA project, UN Week will be celebrated in nations all over the world. In the United States, over 70 national organizations will participate.

UN Day, an international holiday this year by decree of the United Nations organization, will be held Tuesday, Oct. 24. The carillon bells will ring Tuesday morning at 11 a. m. to commemorate the coming into effect of the UN Charter in 1945.

Committees to work on the projects for the week have been selected from NUCWA members. Co-chairmen Joan Jones and Marilyn Coupe are coordinating the work of these committees.

Better Watch Your Step! Today's Friday the 13th

Have you looked at the calendar lately? You'd better check up on that right away. Because Friday the 13th is the date today and is also the day of days.

That doesn't bother you? Well, fine! It's the superstitious people that should be worried today. Today brings up a lot of events that might be influenced by that Friday 13th date line.

Six weeks tests, trips to Boulder, big plans for parties at night, and committee meetings, will be events that might be fouled-up by Friday the 13th.

However, there are several theories put forth as to the best way to get through the day without loss of your soul, money, or reputation to the evil spirits.

How about staying in bed all day? Forget to tell your roommate what time to awaken you. Or better yet, hide the alarm clock before going to bed. Those who are really superstitious might even lock their doors and pile a few chairs in front of them.

Of course, the prospect of missing a few quizzes, lectures, or labs might induce the bravest souls to hop out of bed and venture out on Friday the 13th.

Stay In Bed
If you are one of the few who are going to be gaitant and live through the day out of bed, you might be on the lookout for the evil spirits of the 13th.

Whenever you cross the street look twice and hurry. Make sure that you see that typical campus driver rushing his rattle-trap down the pavement. He may be avoiding Friday the 13th, also. When you run up to the third floor of a class building or dorm, take it easy. People have been known to drop dead after exerting themselves on Friday the 13th.

Another precaution: be very discriminating in your choice of food. Your best friend, who is superstitious, might be trying to change your attitude towards the 13th by poisoning what you eat. Those things do happen, you know.

Check Credentials
When anyone offers you a ride home or to class, check their credentials first. They might be intending to drive into a stone wall to prove to you that Friday the 13th is actually dangerous.

If you have survived the day without any mishaps, don't relax! That seems to be the big mistake of all people on the 13th. You might come back to the dorm, house, or wherever you live and have a sigh of relief that the day is over.

Nasty Jokes
Brother, that's when you had better look out! Some little spirit with a twisted sense of humor might have put crackers in your bed, half-sheeted it, sawed off one of the legs, or even soaked your clothes and tied them in knots.

We're not trying to frighten you. It's just that when you are least suspecting anything unusual on the 13th, it happens.

A few rare individuals do get through this day without anything really serious happening to them.

You might be one of them. So cheer up, drink a cup of black coffee to wake up, and face this day like any other day in the year.
