

UN Army Marches To Border

Commie Fighters Down US B-29s

UN forces resumed their march toward the Manchurian border in a sudden move Tuesday. They were reported to be only 25 to 30 miles from the border at some points. At the northern end of the line, South Korean troops were thrown out of a town which they had previously captured.

American and South Korean troops moved to the southern tip of the Chosin reservoir through snow and bitter cold. The reservoir is the source of Korean and some Manchurian power and electricity.

American Mustangs destroyed 33 out of 45 enemy trucks traveling in a convoy. Soviet jet fighter planes badly damaged two American B-29's in a battle over the Korean-Manchurian border Tuesday. The pilots were able to make emergency landings on Korean airfields.

Draft Call
The war department announced that its draft call for January would be 40,000 men, of which 380 will be from Nebraska. This will bring to 256,000 the total number of draft calls issued thus far. All drafts will be taken into the army, since the navy and air force have not requested men as yet.

The Army said that more men will not be called because of a lack of facilities in present training camps.

In Venezuela, Gen. Rafael Urbina, leader of a revolutionary group which Monday engineered the shooting of the country's acting president, was killed himself as he tried to escape from government custody.

Philadelphia police and pickets around the Bell Telephone company struggled for 45 minutes Tuesday in an effort to permit 100 girls to go to work through a narrow lane. Eleven of the strikers were arrested for inciting a riot.

Company-Union Fight
Nationally, the C.I.O. communications workers and the Bell Telephone company bitterly exchanged charges in the union's attempt to picket the struck plants.

In Michigan, Democratic Governor G. Mennen Williams apparently won re-election by 1,200 votes out of 2,000,000 cast. Errors in tabulations had delayed the final count. However, his Republican opponent, Harry Kelly, may demand a recount of the entire vote.

In Omaha, Harold Caldwell, attorney general-elect of Nebraska, has indicated he will file suit if the state canvassing board fails to issue him a certificate of election. He was chosen for a short term, until January, 1951.

AUF to Sign Students Today At Mass Meet

A mass meeting for all AUF workers and those who are interested in AUF is scheduled today at 5 p.m., Room 316, Union.

The AUF board will present an explanation of the purposes of the organization and will sign up workers with either the solicitation committee or the divisions board.

Movies explaining the various projects of AUF will be shown at this time. The fund is the only charity organization on campus and thus eliminates more than one contribution on the part of the student.

Jo Lisher, director, has stated that students should remember that "AUF represents very worthy groups and contributors' money will make up for five or six donations they might otherwise make."

This organization contributes to only the most worthy causes number 27 in all, she said. Among these are the Community Chest, World Student Service Fund and the Crusade for Freedom.

AUF was organized in 1924 for the purpose of combining all campus charity drives to protect the student from excessive drives throughout the year.

According to Miss Lisher, student relief looms large as a means of promoting understanding among nations.

World Affairs . . . NUCWA Members to Hear Former Mediator for UN

A former United Nations observer in the Palestine dispute, Edward V. Finn, will speak to NUCWA members at a mass meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 17, in Room 108, Burnett hall.

Finn worked directly under mediator Ralph Bunche during the 1948 uprising in Palestine. He represented the United States as a military observer. At present, he is commanding officer of the marine detachment at the Lincoln Naval Air station.

He will tell NUCWA members of his experiences in Palestine when the mediators tried to bring about a peace settlement between the Jews and Arabs.

Also on the docket at the Nebraska University Council for World Affairs meeting is a short business program.

Military Observer
The United Nations commission was instrumental in negotiating the peace during the Palestine trouble. Finn served as a military observer from September, 1948 until February, 1949. He worked with other military experts from such nations as England, Australia and France.

When truces were negotiated, the military observers made sure that the truces were respected by both sides.

One of the jobs which Finn's division of the commission accomplished was the truce to discontinue fighting near the Holy Sepulcher. In addition, the division investigated violations such as shooting down neutral planes.

Members of the division had to work at all times with military leaders of both the Israeli and Arab armies.

Reasons for War
Finn's duties included trying to find the reasons for the war and to find possible means of bringing about peace.

During World War II, Commander Finn was a fighter coordinator and pilot. He participated in the Iwo Jima and Okinawa campaigns.

He holds the distinguished flying cross, the air medal and four campaign ribbons.

Thursday's mass meeting is the first official meeting of the NUCWA membership since the group planned and executed UN Week October 17 to 24.

Marilyn Coupe, mass meeting chairman for NUCWA, urges all members, especially those new to the organization, to attend.

Dr. S. J. House, NUCWA faculty adviser and political science professor, will introduce Commander Finn.

Representatives of 12 high schools gathered to outline plans to help "more fully realize the blessings of American democracy and understand the forces of totalitarianism which seek to destroy it."

Dr. Royce Knapp of the University told the school administrators and teachers that the 12 schools selected would serve this year as a "demonstration project" for a much broader program to follow.

Carnegie Grant
The Nebraska experiment, sponsored by the University, is part of a national citizenship education program conceived by President Dwight Eisenhower of Columbia University. The Nebraska program this year is being paid for with a $21,400 grant from the Carnegie foundation. The entire program is being directed by Dr. Knapp.

The high schools represented in the "pilot program" are: Sutton, York, Blue Hill, Franklin, Columbus, Hebron, Wilber, Albion, Loomis, Sumner, Hampton, and Lincoln Northeast.

DP's Need Aid
Switzerland: Grants for tuition, room and board, and books are needed by DP refugee students.

Athens: The establishment of a rest center is needed near Athens where students suffering from physical and psychological effects of the war and the post-war period, can come for a period of rest to recover their strength before continuing their study. Assistance for the care of students who are in need of food and nourishment is also needed.

AUF asks students to realize that all of the countries need aid equally. The board feels that it is better to contribute to a small project rather than send the money collected to a general WSSF fund.

House Votes To Decide AUF Project

All organized houses are asked to designate which country they want their AUF contributions to aid. Letters, asking for the house's opinions, were sent out yesterday.

Since almost half of the University's contribution is distributed through the World Student Service fund, a relief agency for the foreign student, the All-University Fund is asking the student of the houses to select the project they would like to benefit.

The following are the five possible recipients to receive AUF aid:

Greece: There are many tubercular patients among the students in Greece. Because of lack of money to combat the disease, aggravated by the war, it is spreading. The major project of World Student Relief this year has been the building of a pavilion for tubercular students. In the last academic year, the health service of the University of Athens reported 1,100 clinical cases of TB. At present, there is no provision for the students in the sanatoria of the country.

Textbooks Lacking
Indonesia: Students there are borrowing essential textbooks on a three week loan basis of fifty cents a book.

"About clothes, food and other material we don't care, since we are living in a tropical climate, but our students need help in the form of books and instruments," Dr. Santoso of the Republican University of Jakarta writes.

Pakistan: A very large student population in many cases are without shelter, without clothes, without books, and without money. Refugee students in Karachi are sleeping in the streets. Land has been secured for a hostel but the money is lacking for construction of the building.

Three schools for 1,200 children were being run, often out of doors. Pupils and teachers sit on the ground with no furniture and almost no educational material.
