

US Brands Chinese Reds As 'Notorious Aggressors'

Austin Demands Prompt Security Council Action

United States delegate Warren R. Austin told the United Nations security council Monday that the Chinese communists are now in open and notorious aggression in Korea.

The consequences of Chinese actions, he said, are potentially grave. He urged the UN to face these issues squarely.

He asked Wu Hsui-chuan, red China's representative, if he still held that communist troops in Korea were all volunteers. Austin demanded to know how long the Chinese had been planning aggression.

White House press secretary Charles Ross said that the statement was made with the knowledge and approval of President Truman.

Austin asked the Security Council to act on a resolution demanding the withdrawal of red troops from Korea. Although Russia is expected to veto this resolution, the U. S. will push passage of the resolution. The matter may then be carried into the UN general assembly.

The action followed a statement from General MacArthur's headquarters that UN forces in Korea face "an entirely new war." The statement branded the Chinese reds as aggressors and asked for diplomatic action to solve the problem.

COMMUNIST HORDE CONTINUES PUSH

On the fighting front, the communist hordes continued to push ahead, virtually nullifying the recent UN offensive. General MacArthur's headquarters estimated that nearly 200,000 troops were active in the campaign. Red troops were reported to be 13 miles south of the point where the recent allied offensive began.

South Korean army elements were retreating, frantically trying to re-establish a defense line.

In Washington, high defense officials said that they thought a defense line could be established in Korea, just above Pyongyang and Wonsan. They said that the air and naval forces of the United States and superior fire power of the United States would enable a defense to be made.

PEAN LEADERS FEAR WAR RESULT

European leaders were reported to be fearful of the results of the Korean war. They fear a complete collapse in Korea, or a war with China. They are reported to consider the Asian war a "bottomless pit" into which troops will be poured.

These leaders feel that the final showdown with Russia will be in Europe. European defenses are now weak while the leaders debate the measures which should be taken.

CONSTRUCTION PLANNED FOR H BOMB PLANT

The government announced that it would build a huge atomic energy layout for construction of elements of the hydrogen bomb in South Carolina.

The bomb itself will not be made at the site, but materials which will go into such a bomb will be manufactured. The site was selected after inspection of 190 or more sites throughout the country.

The $250,000 project will cover a 250,000 acre site along the Savannah river. About 1,500 families will have to vacate their land to make way for the plant and surrounding grounds and security area. The DuPont de Nemours company of Wilmington, Del., will build and control the plant.

December Art Exhibit Announced

The lecture exhibition for December at the University art galleries will present the work of John Szarkowski, an outstanding artist working in the Midwest.

Mr. Szarkowski was staff photographer at the Walker Art center in Minneapolis for three years and is now an instructor in photography at the University of Minnesota. He was given a one-man show in the art center's Minnesota Gallery in 1948 and has exhibited as well at Madison and Milwaukee, Wis.

Mr. Szarkowski's work was given special mention by the Art Digest in its review of the recent Six States Photography Exhibition held at the Milwaukee Art Institute.

Portraits, action shots, and problems of still composition will comprise most of the December exhibition. Some of these photographs have appeared in "American Photography" and "Flair."

Peter Worth, assistant professor of art at the University, will discuss the exhibition in a gallery talk, at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 2. Mr. Worth, in addition to his activity as a painter and sculptor, is also a photographer, and will describe the formal qualities which distinguish the exhibition as a work of art.

An hour of recorded music will precede the exhibition.

The Weather

Fair tonight and Wednesday. Cooler in the west portion. Temperatures in the 40s Wednesday.

Presentation Of 'Messiah' December 10

Annual Concert Soloists Named

The Messiah, Handel's great oratorio, will be presented by the University School of Fine Arts at 3 o'clock, Sunday, Dec. 10, in the Coliseum. It promises to be one of the biggest musical events of the holiday season.

Production of the famous oratorio by a chorus of 600 voices, the 65-piece University orchestra and four soloists accompanied by piano and organ, will be under the direction of David Foltz. There will be no admission charge.

Soprano solo selections will be sung by Mrs. Anna Hayden Williams, who has presented recitals in Las Vegas, Nevada; Beloit, Wisconsin; Little Rock, Arkansas, and many other places. For two consecutive years, 1947 and 1948, she won second place in the voices of tomorrow contest of the Midwest summer music festival sponsored by the World Herald.

University Singer A University senior, Bonita Blanchard, will sing the alto solos. Miss Blanchard attended the University of South Dakota and Huron college before coming to Nebraska. She sang contralto solos for the presentation of the Messiah in 1948 by Huron college while a student there. Miss Blanchard was also a soloist for the Huron college choir and in the opera, Pirates of Pizance, while at that school. She is a member of the First Plymouth Congregational church choir and is in the University Singers.

Tenor Soloist Tenor soloist for the Messiah will be Robert Martell. Mr. Martell is a graduate student in the University and is majoring in music. He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, honorary education fraternity; Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, professional music fraternity; University Singers, and the Madrigals. Mr. Martell also attended Yankton college, the University of Denver, and Yale.

Lloyd Lotzpeich, a senior in the University majoring in music, will sing the baritone solos for the oratorio. He sang the baritone solos in "Elijah" at the St. Paul Methodist Church last spring. He was also a soloist for the Orchestral spring concert last year. Mr. Lotzpeich is president of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, professional music fraternity and a member of the University Singers.

Traditional carols will be heard from the Ralph Mueller carillon tower before and after the Messiah concert.

Dr. Curtis Elliott, will be back at his role of auctioneer. Last year, he was responsible for selling $430 of items.

A surprise program featuring campus talent will entertain those who attend the auction.

Yearbook Sales To End Friday

Deadline for sales of the University yearbook, The Cornhusker, has been set for Dec. 1. This date is the final time that the books will be sold.

Tassels and Corn Cobs are selling the yearbook which may also be bought in the Cornhusker office in the basement of the Union.

Tassels are selling the books from a booth in the lobby of the Union.

A deadline must be set for the book sales in order that the company contracted for the books can be notified. No books will be sold after Dec. 1.

According to Jack Barnhart, business manager of the Cornhusker, approximately 2500 books have been sold.

Price of the Cornhusker is $5.00 which may be paid to either the Cobs or Tassels.

Corn Pickers, Crib Nearly Obsolete Say Ag Engineers

Farmers attending Farm and Home Days Wednesday at the University were told that the mechanical corn picker and corn crib may become obsolete soon.

The corn picker, they were told, may soon be replaced with a combination picker-sheller. And cobs would be left in the field. The grain would be hauled to a granary directly from the corn plot.

That's what University agricultural engineers say. They've experimented with a picker-sheller they devised themselves. The corn can be harvested early with the new contraption if the farmer has drying facilities in his granary.

The combination machine was on display at the agricultural engineering building.

Drying Experiment The University has been using the picker-sheller in order to experiment with drying. They've found corn can be harvested early when it has a moisture content of about 25 percent. Advantages are getting the corn out early, less loss from shattering and handling the crop in one operation.

Corn drying experiments have been successful, too. Last year in demonstrations in some parts of the state corn was dried to a

Block-Bridge Names Grad 'Outstanding'

Stanley Lambert, 1949 University College of Agriculture graduate from Ewing, was selected Monday as the nation's outstanding Block and Bridge club member at the organization's annual convention in Chicago.

Lambert was selected from representatives from 28 states— from California to Florida. This makes the third year out of the past four that a Nebraskan has won the national honor. Willard Viesek of Ord won the award in 1947 and Ned Raun of Minden was selected in 1948. The club is an honorary organization of agricultural college students and former students.

The Ewing youth now is ranching in his own community after graduating "with high distinction" at the college of agriculture. Majoring in animal husbandry, he received the highest grade average of his class and was on the honor roll during all of the four years he attended.

His education was interrupted in 1943 by serving in the armed forces. Lambert was the recipient of a scholarship each year he attended the University.

Among his other accomplishments: He was manager of the annual Junior Ak-Sar-Ben show in 1950. Was a member of the high team in sheep judging at the International Livestock exposition in 1949 and at the Denver show. Received the chapter merit plaque from members of the Nebraska Block and Bridge club. President of Farm House fraternity. President of Ag YMCA. Soloist in "The Messiah" given at the College of Agriculture in 1949.

Lambert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lambert. The family is living on the home ranch which was homesteaded by the honoree's father in 1883.

Piano Stylings To Highlight Military Ball

Frankie Carle and his orchestra will furnish the music for the first and biggest social event of the year, the Military Ball.

Carle, who has sold more retail records than any other artist during the last two years, will bring his famous band to the Coliseum on Saturday, Dec. 2.

Everyone knows that Frankie Carle is the nation's most popular pianist-leader. But not all know that he has composed such hit tunes as "Sunrise Serenade," "Oh What Is Seemed To Be" and "Rumors Are Flying."

Senior cadet officers are to meet in the armory tonight at 7:30 p.m. to practice the grand march.

Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. senior cadet officers and their ladies are to meet in the Coliseum for the purpose of going through the grand march.

Carle holds a major distinction in that he has been a leading solo artist as well as orchestra leader on Columbia and Victor records.

His playing has been called a "golden touch." The group has been featured at such major music locations as the Hollywood Palladium, Hotel Shamrock and the RKO theater.

Appearing with Carle will be many young musicians. He is featuring, with his orchestra, Terri Stevens, Bobby Clark and Allan Sims.

Tickets for the Ball can be purchased from any advanced military student for $3. Spectator tickets are on sale for 75 cents.

Poems Published For NU Students

The original poems of three University students have been accepted for publication in the Annual Anthology of College Poetry.

The students and their poems are: "How Proud and Haughty" by Robert Zimmerman, "My Heart" by Lois Frederick and "Jewelled Dream" by Alice Jo Smith.

The Anthology is a compilation of the finest poetry written by the college men and women of America. Selections were made by the National Poetry association from thousands of poems submitted by students from every section of the country.

Lincoln Safety Director Praises University Record

Student Accident Rate Under Nation's Average

There's one thing University students can be proud of—that's their safety record. Students have proved by their own safety record that it's not always the kid or young driver who causes the most accidents.

That's what Ray Osborn, director of public welfare and safety in Lincoln, said Tuesday, when he commended University students for their "excellent record of safety during last year."

Basketball Ticket Sales Continue

Basketball ticket sales for faculty, students, and general public will continue into next week.

The faculty tickets will be $4, and student tickets will be $3.

Reserved seats for the general public will be $1.50, and general admission, $1.00.

Students and faculty tickets will include admittance to basketball and all other sports during the rest of the school year. Public tickets will cover basketball games only.

The entire side of the Coliseum and west bleachers will be reserved as a student and faculty section at basketball games.

Foreign Expert To Address Students Today

"Communism's Threat to America and How to Avert It" will be the topic of Dr. Karlis Leyasmeyer's talk today at 4 p.m. in Love Library auditorium.

Dr. Leyasmeyer will give two talks on Thursday. "Irrefutable Facts and Christianity" will be discussed at 12:15 p.m. in room 313 of the Union.

"The Testimony of Invincible Heroes" will be given at 7:30 in room 315 of the Union. This talk will deal with Dr. Leyasmeyer's experiences before the communist's firing squad. After he was arrested by the communists, he was tortured and sentenced to die. He suffered equal hardships at the hands of the Nazis during World War II.

The one time target of Nazis and communists alike was born in Latvia and educated in England where he took advanced courses in Russian, literature, history, Marxism-Leninism and the Soviet, Russian, political, economic and social system. Dr. Leyasmeyer has a reputation as an author, lecturer and editor.

The speaker has spent the last four years in Germany doing relief work and speaking to West German university students. He was editor of "Sauksme," an educational and scientific magazine, and secretary of the DP press which consists of about sixty publications. This capacity gave him ample opportunity to receive extensive information about communist activities.

All students and faculty are invited to attend the meetings at which Dr. Leyasmeyer will speak. He is here as the guest of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

NU Crop Judges Place in Contests

The University crops judging team returned home Sunday after placing third in the International crops judging contest in Chicago and fourth in the National contest in Kansas City, Mo.

Team members were: Norman Swanson, Eugene Heuermann, Don Kerl and John Wilkinson. Wilkinson was fourth high individual in the Kansas City contest and Heuermann copped eighth place.

At Chicago Wilkinson placed fourth, Heuermann sixth, and Swanson 15th out of the 28 contestants.

Athletic Department Plans To Publish 'Star' Yearbook

"Spotlighting the Husker Greats of Yesterday and Today" is the name of a new publication announced by the University athletic department.

The firm of Lindsey, Neville, Karabetsos and Associates has been commissioned by the University athletic department to publish the yearbook.

Tentative plans include making the publication an annual one. The book will be distributed through the Athletic Concessions department and sold only by N club members and freshman numeral winners.

"Spotlighting the Husker Greats of Yesterday and Today" is to be dedicated to the N club members who lost their lives in World War II.

The Husker stars of yesterday as well as those of today will be included in the book.

The cover has a scarlet background faced with spotlights shooting out rays of soft cream color. The two-page middle spread will feature a squad picture of this year's team.

The publication will consist of 100 pages of pictures and sketches with action shots of the current Cornhuskers.

There will be full-length pictures as well as biographies of the present squad. A resume of fifty years of Nebraska football, highlighting the gridiron greats of the past half century, will be included.

Coverage of the coaches and press, radio and TV workers will be part of the publication also. The Nebraska athletic history section will begin with 1900 and cover all activities up to the present time.

Several additional features, still top-secret, round out the publication. The entire proceeds from the sale of the book go to the concessions branch of the University athletic department, which provides part-time employment for Nebraska athletes.

Tentative release of the publication is scheduled for mid-January. Inquiries regarding the magazine should be addressed to L. F. Klein, concession manager of the University athletic department.

Tours, Display At Ag Engineer Open House

The Ag Engineers Will Hold Their Annual Open House at the Ag Engineering Building Thursday at 7 p.m.

All freshmen and sophomore engineers are urged to attend the meeting as it will give them a chance to become better acquainted with the work of the representative engineer of Nebraska's leading industry.

A tour of the various Ag engineering departments (farm machinery, farm structures and equipment, soil and water conservation and tractor testing, a speaker, displays on application of agricultural engineering and refreshments will be on the agenda for the evening.

The agricultural engineering group is planned to prepare the student for engineering work in rural communities, for positions in the manufacture and sale of farm machinery and farm power equipment, for the management of farms where drainage, irrigation, or power farming methods are prevalent, for positions as advisers, counseling engineers, or architects in connection with agricultural development, and for positions as teachers, extension specialists, or research specialists in agricultural engineering with colleges, experiment stations, or government agencies. The increasing use of electricity on farms has opened a new field to graduates of this group.

Anyone needing transportation to the Ag campus should meet in front of the Union at 6:45 p.m.

Lincoln World Affairs Meeting Begins Friday

The second annual Lincoln Conference on World Affairs will be held at Love Memorial library from Dec. 1 to 3.

The theme of this year's conference is "How Can America Best Strengthen Democracy in the World?"

The program for Friday, Dec. 1, will include an address by Dr. Carl C. Bracy, Chancellor of Nebraska Wesleyan University on the topic, "Strengthening Democracy in the World Community. Walter K. Schwinn of the U. S. State Department will speak on "Strengthening U. S. Information Program Abroad."

Schwinn is special assistant to the assistant secretary for public affairs. He served in Poland for the State Department from 1946 to 1949. He is thoroughly informed on the plans and operation of American services overseas.

A discussion will follow two addresses. Discussants will be Martin Luschi, president of Nebraska Wesleyan's international relations club and R. C. Patterson, State Adjutant, American Legion.

A forum period will conclude the evening's program.

The chairman for Friday's program will be Dr. K. O. Broady, director of the Extension Division of the University.

This conference is under the auspices of several Lincoln civic groups and the American Friends Service committee.

University sponsors are: AG YMCA, NUCWA, and YWCA.
