

Huskies Stagger I.S.

Nebraska's basketball machine, a badly-beaten and bewildered team for one half of play, began burning with ethyl early in a hectic second period to power its way to a 51-49 upset over a sharp-shooting Iowa State quintet.

The loss was a bitter one for the Cyclones, a team that had defeated the highly-regarded Oklahoma Sooners in its Big Seven opener Saturday night, 48-44.

The unexpected win by the Huskers gives them a 1-1 record in league play. Coach Harry Good's cagers having lost to the Kansas Jayhawks down at Lawrence last Saturday night.

It looked as if the superior height of the Cyclone's Anderson, Wilhelm, and Stange would carry the invaders to an easy victory until the Cornhuskers' Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside for the evening, Bernie Akromis and Jim Buchanan, collaborated in staging a sparking rally for the Huskers that slowly ate up the ten-point half time advantage of the Cyclones, 27-17, and carried the resurging Cornhuskers to victory.

Akromis Stars. Bernie Akromis, the Husker surprise package of the evening, finished with a total of 18 points, fourteen of them coming during the Huskers' second half rally.

Stange Leads Slayers. It was by far the best effort of the year for the scrappy Omaha South grad.

Jim Buchanan turned in his usual outstanding floor game in addition to collecting 15 points, most of them coming on long set shots in the last few minutes of play. Buchanan is still favoring his ankle that was badly sprained ten days ago at the Big Seven conference tournament in Kansas City.

Stange Leads Slayers. The Iowa State scoring punch came in the form of Jim Stange, bespectacled six-foot seven inch junior guard who poured in six baskets and four free throws to lead his team with 16 points. Cy Wilhelm garnered 13 points on six field goals, all of his points and a free throw, coming in the first half.

The game was tied but four times and the lead changed hands but once, showing the terrific uphill battle the Cornhuskers had to stage.

Huskies Behind Most of Way. "The Huskers were behind all the way until Joe Good sunk a free throw with five minutes remaining in the contest. The Cyclones took the ball out of bounds only to have it stolen by Buchanan, Kipper was fouled on a drive-in but failed to make his gift toss.

Gay Anderson put the invaders into the lead again with a sensational lay-up shot with 4:16 left. Buchanan arched a long set shot from 30 feet out that knotted the score at 45-45.

Stange converted two charity tosses when he was fouled by Pierce to once more put the Cyclones into a 47-45 lead. Akromis tied it up with a beautiful fade-away shot from the free-throw circle.

Stange hit a hook shot with 3:30 left to make it 49-47. Nebraska came right back on Joe Good's long two-hander from the left side of the court.

Long, whose only two baskets came at critical times, fouled out with 1:45 left and Nebraska elected to take the ball out of bounds. It looked like Coach Good had instructed his cagers to play a control game until the last seconds of the play, but Kipper dispelled this theory with a game-winning one-hander from 20 feet out with still 1:15 to play. This made the score 51-49.

The two Iowa State guards, Stange and Youngblade, suddenly developed cases of shattered nerves as they twice threw the ball out of bounds. Regaining possession of the ball, the Cyclones tried desperately to get a close shot at the hoop.

Akromis Fouls Out. Bernie Akromis received a big ovation as he fouled out of the game with 57 seconds remaining. Iowa State took the ball out of bounds and Buchanan fouled Stange while attempting to steal the ball. Again the Cyclones elected to play the ball in from the sidelines and this time Kipper stole the ball from Anderson.

On a Nebraska fast break with time running out Buchanan tried a drive-in from the side and missed.

Buchanan missed a drive-in from the side on a Nebraska fast break as time ran out and the I-Staters cleared the boards. Good fouled Cyclone Jack Luhning with two seconds to play and of course the visitors again took the ball out of bounds.

Luhning put up a desperate one-hander as the game ended that came dangerously close to sending the game into an overtime. And so the Huskers were presented with their first Big Seven victory in a year in which Coach Good's cagers were picked by experts to finish deep in the second-division.

PIERCE REBOUNDS. Big Bob Pierce, the Husker scoring ace in most of the previous games, was closely guarded by the Cyclones Stange and Wilhelm and shot but a few times. However, his rebounding, particularly in the second half, was marvelous to watch as he continually outfoiled the opponents.

The game started slowly with Cy Wilhelm making it 2-0, Iowa State on a short set-shot. Pierce sank a free throw at 3:29 to make it 2-1.

From these the Cyclones' Anderson and Wilhelm pulled the visitors into leads of 6-2, 8-4, 10-6, and 10-12. Akromis was the only Husker to hit two buckets in the first half.

The game was momentarily interrupted with 6:16 minutes remaining as the timer discovered the big scoreboard clock was gaining ten seconds every minute it ran. From there on in stop watches were used to keep the time.

AT HALFTIME I.S. LEADS. At the half it was 27-17, with

BERNIE AKROMIS... scoring punch Coach Good needed badly.

JIM BUCHANAN... sparkles in clutch drive for Cornhuskers.

The Cyclones showing no signs of weakening. Akromis got a quick basket for the Huskers on the second-half tip-off. With 16 minutes remaining in the contest it was still 31-22, Iowa State.

Nebraska used the fast break to make two quickies, the first coming when Buchanan hit Pierce on a "Nagle" 30-yard pass play that carried for a score and the other resulting from a perfect strike thrown by Pierce into the waiting arms of Akromis underneath the Iowa State basket. This spurt by the Huskers made the score 36-31, Iowa State.

Thereafter the visitors adapted the Missouri control-style of play. Akromis and Stange exchanged baskets and Long of Iowa State added two points on drive-in shots and the score stood 42-34.

Buchanan sank a long two-handed set shot with 8:38 remaining to narrow the gap 42-36. Jim then added two more points on free throws to make the count 42-38.

Akromis added a set-up on a fast break at 6:21 that pulled the Huskers within two points, 42-40. The Cyclones picked up a charity toss and Akromis drove in for a lay-up on another fast break that made the score 43-42. This set the stage for Good's tying free throw shot.

During half-time ceremonies, the Tom Novak Trophy was presented to Charley Toogood who was voted the outstanding senior of the 1950 Cornhusker football team. This trophy will go each year to the most valuable senior on the team, and was presented last night by Tom Novak himself.

J. Gordon Roberts presented the J. Gordon Roberts trophy to Fran Nagle, and Floyd Olds of the Omaha World-Herald awarded rings to Nagle, Toogood and Bob Reynolds, the Cornhusker members voted to the World-Herald's All Big Seven team.

The highlight of the evening—up to that time—came when the sophomore members of the football squad vied with the seniors in a one-hand-one boxing glove basketball game. The winner was not decided, as no points were scored, but from the sidelines the sophomores appeared to have a very slight edge. Starting for the seniors were Jack Carroll, Art Bauer, Rich Novak, Don Strassheim, and Walt Spellman. The sophomore team was composed of Key Curtis, Bob Reynolds, Carl Braze, Paul Grimm, and Tom Harper. Officiating the game was Hank Cech, complete with dark glasses and seeing-eye dog.

Football's Man Of Year Killed

Football's Man of the Year is Lieut. John Trent, who died a hero's death on the battlefields of Korea.

Selection of Trent as winner of the annual award of the Football Writers Association of America was announced today by Bert McGrane, secretary.

Trent, captain of the 1949 Army team, went to Korea as a second lieutenant following his graduation from the United States Military Academy at West Point last spring.

He died November 15 on a Korean hillside while crawling from foxhole to foxhole to alert his weary men.

The football writers said that Trent carried the spirit of football into battle.

The Man of the Year trophy will be sent to West Point, where it will remain for one year. A Football Writers' association plaque will be given to Trent's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Trent, of Memphis, Tennessee.

Much has been said about the new, efficient and highly successful way the intramural program has been handled in the past three semesters. The person mainly responsible for this change has been one Robert C. Barger, better known around the campus as "Buck."

Buck hails from Greeley, Colo., and is now approaching the doddering old age of 26, and is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity, Robert C. is a P.E. major and the holder of one degree. He is now working for his Masters. Prior to entering the University, Buck was a medic in the paratroopers. Buck suffered severe leg and hip injuries while making his jump, in the Battle of the Bulge, was captured, and spent the remainder of the war as a prisoner of war in a German prison camp. With the coming of V.E. day he was released and shortly after his discharge from the "troopers" he entered the "Cornhusker camp."

Those of the "old guard" remember that Buck has been active in University activities since his enrollment, with most of his energies being centered around Husker sports.

Athletic Trainer. Under "Doc" Dees, Buck was assistant athletic trainer for three years and after Doc's departure he took over and did a yeoman-like job for eight months before transferring over to the P.E. department in November of 1949. He is now working with Charlie Miller, director of the physical education department. Buck holds down the job of supervisor of intramural activities and sports program. During his days as a trainer, Buck has known and worked with such Cornhusker notables as: the never to be forgotten Dick Hutton, Jim "Squat" Myers, All-American Tom Novak, Charley Toogood, Bill "Rocky" Mueller, Don "Boom-Boom" Bloom, Big Jack Pesek, Clete Fisher, and football and track star, Hurryin' Harry Meginnis.

Since his connection with the P.E. Department Buck has managed to coordinate the activities and fraternity play-offs to almost everyone's satisfaction, including the losing teams. This is evidently due to the noticeable lack of foul language, loss of tempers and the display of fistuuffs, both during and after the games, which prior to Buck's time was the vogue.

Modest. Buck modestly shrugs off his success with the intramural program, but did explain that by knowing almost all of the participants (which he does) it makes his role of coordinator and mediator easier to handle.

Besides going to classes and supervising the IN program, Buck is also interested in a muscular rebuilding program, to start the muscular redevelopment of palsy and polio victims. This project will no doubt become a reality when Buck finally is awarded his Ph.D. sometime in the not too distant future.

For those of you who are not acquainted with our personality, namely one Robert C. Barger, he is on call at the P.E. building any time from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Just look for a fellow that stands a little over six feet, is pleasantly plump, brown wavy hair, (receding hair line), and a friendly grin for all. And that's your boy. (However, a word of caution—don't ever let him catch you on the basketball court with your street shoes on—you frosh take heed.)

Seriously though, for doing such a swell job with a tough job, and for the tireless effort and integrity put into his work, students of the University would like to say, "Thanks a lot Buck Barger, for a job well done."

I-M Handball Pairings Are Announced

The pairings for the 1951 Intramural Handball Tournament have been set up and play may begin immediately.

This is the work received from the Intramural Department. It is suggested that all I-M handball entrants check the bulletin board at the P.E. building at once to find out the name of your first opponent.

The tourney this year will be handled in a manner similar to that of the Fall Golf and Fall Tennis meets in which deadline dates are set up for each round of play.

Jan. 30 Deadline

The deadline dates for the playing of handball matches are: First round, Jan. 20th; second round, Feb. 3d; third round, Feb. 10th; fourth, Feb. 19th; and fifth round, Feb. 24th.

Matches are to be played at times when the handball courts in the Coliseum are available. Varsity team athletes may play their matches in the Field House courts.

The winner of a match is responsible for reporting the results of his match. Two out of three games will constitute a match.

Tournament No. 1

Art Bauer, Beta Sig vs. Mike Lawler, Sig Chi.

Don Peterson, ATO vs. Bridge, Phi Gamma.

Charley Smith, SAE vs. Pete Peters, Sig Chi.

Dick Stranbury, Preby vs. Jim Downey, Sig Chi.

"Buck" Barger Tops With NU Students

Fran Returns Home; Was Bowl Standout

A quiet-spoken Irish kid who ranks with the country's greatest quarterbacks, was back in Lincoln Monday, more eager to talk about the thrill of meeting and playing with stars like Kyle Rote than about his own top-notch performances.

That's Fran Nagle, Nebraska's senior quarterback, who threw two touchdown passes in the West's 16-7 win over the East, and whose passing came close to beating the South in Saturday's Senior bowl. He threw one pass for a touchdown that carried 26 yards, and completed 12 of 21 for 137 yards.

Nagle said playing in the Shrine's East-West game was the biggest thrill of his career. "It was great to play in that game and with such outstanding fellows. And we were treated wonderfully."

Southern Methodist's Kyle Rote, ground-gaining star of the Shrine game, impressed Fran most of all the backs he saw. "He's a terrific all-around player, and a fine kid, too. He takes his acclaim well."

Of U.C.L.A.'s Bob Wilkinson, who caught a touchdown pass from Fran to score one of the North's Senior Bowl touchdowns, Nagle says "He's an excellent end. He's 6-2, about 210 pounds, and does the 100 yard dash in 9.9."

And it was mighty good to play with, instead of against, the half dozen Oklahomans who were his teammates Saturday. "They're swell guys and great players," Nagle said.

Fran wouldn't say the officials were wrong in refusing the North another play following a timeout with about 15 seconds left in Saturday's game. "I don't know," he hedges.

The North was on the South's 1-yard line, trailing by a point, and thought it had another play coming.

Nagle reports, "One of our players was injured and we thought we had time out. We didn't see the clock moving, and the official never signaled time was in. We called the play, got up to the line of scrimmage, and the official said that was it."

That decision may have cost each North player $70. Members of the winning team got $220 and the losers $150 each. The North might well have scored, too. "The South was crowding up in the center, and we were going to fake a plunge and pass to the end."

A galaxy of pro scouts saw the games. Fran said he had no offers, but was contacted by phone by a Philadelphia Eagle representative.

As for the Eastern All-Americans possibly being overrated, Fran said no. "They were all good players; the West was just underrated, especially fellows like our own Charley Toogood, John Kadlec of Missouri, and Mike McCormack of Kansas."

To that list could well be added the name of Fran Nagle.

A member of the Miami Boxing Commission today threatened Welterweight Champion Sugar Ray Robinson with suspension for cancelling his January 22 title bout in Miami against Bobby Dykes.

Delta Tau Delta won the team championship this year with a total of 25 points. This was two points better than the Muscle Men's 23. Although the Deltas did not have an individual champion, their team balance was enough to carry them to victory.

Sigma Chi finished third with 20 points. Sigma Nu beat Phi Gamma Delta, last year's champs out of fourth spot by one point, the Nu's garnering 17 points to the Phi's 16.

Ag Men and Beta Sigma Psi finished in a sixth place tie with 9 points each, and they were followed by Men's Dorm and Delta Sigma Phi with 8 apiece.

Only Goeglein, the Husker footballer, is a repeat champion. Dick was also in the heavyweight-217 division last year.

Four of the eight individual winners are now working out with Coach Al Partin's Varsity wrestling squad.
