

Y W Rendezvous . . .

THREE RING CIRCUS—Ellen Smith hall was turned into an indoor three ring circus Friday. It was the setting for the YW rendezvous. The "Circus" was held for the purpose of acquainting Y members with the various commission groups and committees they may work in second semester. The groups are scheduled to meet once a week throughout the semester.

Builders To Meet Prepsters

Builders soon will put into effect a new plan for attracting students to the University. The plan will involve the formation of 20 districts within the state, each headed by a district chairman.

Under the district chairmen will be several leaders and workers in the larger towns and cities of each district. Alumni and students on vacation will be asked to call on outstanding high school students to try to interest them in coming to the University.

Suggested by "Potsy"
The new method of contacting students was suggested by Athletic Director George "Potsy" Clark, who found that the plan worked very well in contacting athletes.

The new plan will implement several other Builders activities which aim to attract students to the University campus.

These builders projects include their work at the annual Nebraska High School Press association, band day and pep conventions.

In addition, Builders publishes each summer a special edition of The Daily Nebraskan. Issues of the paper are sent to each prospective student.

First Glance, another Builders publication, is sent directly to Nebraska high schools to help acquaint students at these schools with the University campus and its activities.

Pre-College Orientation. Builders workers will contact outstanding students from Nebraska high schools. Through these contacts, the organization hopes to orient prospective students and answer questions which they may have on any phase of University life.

Civic organizations will be contacted. Groups such as Chamber of Commerce, Rotary clubs, Lions club, and Masonic lodges will aid Builders in their work by supplying them with names of outstanding high school students in their respective communities.

AWS to Name TNC Finalists Feb. 6, Coed Acts Feb. 7, 8

Coed Follies skits and curtain act tryouts will be held Feb. 7 and 8 at each competing house.

The annual Coed Follies show is an all girl production sponsored by the AWS board. The production includes skits and curtain acts by the various organized houses, a style show given by the final candidates in the Typical Nebraska Coed contest and is climaxed by the presentation of the Typical Nebraska Coed.

Candidates for TNC will wear date dresses at the first tryout, Feb. 6, and will be interviewed by the AWS board and faculty judges. From these candidates, 20 girls will be chosen for finalists.

The finalists will wear school clothes and will be individually judged by AWS board members and faculty judges at the final tryout, Feb. 13.

Chairmen for the skit and curtain acts of the competing houses for Coed Follies are:

TC Students To Hear Talk
Dr. Frank E. Sorenson will speak to the prospective teachers at a meeting Feb. 6 at 4 p.m. in Morrill hall auditorium.

This meeting is a follow-up of the meeting held in December and should be attended by all who plan to teach during the 1951-'52 school year.

Dr. Sorenson will explain three factors at the teachers' meeting. These include the need of trained and qualified teachers, improvement of salary and rendering of service to the community and nation. He will stress the importance of filling credentials while still known at the University. The procedure of completing registration in the teacher placement division will be more fully clarified at this time, too.

The elementary and secondary schools are in demand of teachers. This factor insures the prospective teacher of a position and a better salary. According to Dr. Sorenson, salaries are improving, too. Teaching, in the present world situation, he said, is a patriotic service which shouldn't be overlooked.

These factors, filing and registration procedure, are the main purpose of Sorenson's discussion. He is the chairman of the department of educational services.

Cropmen Discuss Alfalfa Standards
The Nebraska Crop Improvement association, board of directors held an all day meeting Tuesday at the University Ag college following their annual Crop Improvement Day Monday.

On the agenda was the discussion of alfalfa certification standards and approved seed processing.

Two members of the board of directors were re-elected for another term at a meeting of the organization Monday. They are D. R. Lubbers, of Waterloo, and Hubert Dyke, of Parks.

It Happened at NU

One hears often of the absent-minded professor, but seldom of the absent-minded student.

Recently a student walked into an overcrowded classroom, sat down and began to read his relative physics industriously while the instructor was going through the preclass formalities.

The class began. The instructor had given the next meeting's assignment and was well into his lecture. Suddenly the physics enthusiast jumped up and started for the door, muttering something about getting into the wrong classroom.

The professor, unruffled by the incident flippantly remarked, "I've heard of absent-minded professors, but never an absent-minded student. Maybe that fellow is preparing to be one of those intellectual people."

Orientation Week Plans Announced

BOB RAUN

Union Group To Try New Point System

A new scale for the evaluation of committee members and chairmen was put into effect by the Budget, Evaluation and Orientation committee on Union activities at a meeting Thursday night.

Under the new plan all members and chairmen of committees will be evaluated each month when they change committees. These ratings which will be determined on a four-point basis, will be used to pick chairmen and leaders for committees.

The old three-point scale of evaluation had no average rating. Hence the new method, using two for average and four and zero as high and low.

Committee members will be evaluated by chairmen and sponsors on their ability, leadership, originality and interest. Sponsors will rate chairmen on the basis of a form questionnaire filled out by committee members.

The Budget, Evaluation and Orientation committee will supervise these reports and prepare an overall rating of the activities pool.

The Evaluation committee plans to devise a system for rating programs at its next meeting.

Program to Aid Fall Freshmen

A joint committee of faculty and students Friday reported progress on planning aimed at revamping and strengthening the University's fall opening program.

The general planning, under the direction of the Junior Division's board of counselors, is being geared to:

1. Provide a clear-cut, expanded and official Freshman orientation week.
2. Probably provide an official Cornhusker handbook designed to inform students of University traditions, organizations, activities and customs.

Rural Youth Hear Speech By ISC Prof

Nebraska's rural youth members were advised last week to face squarely a "desperate world situation" and prepare for adjustments.

This was the message delivered to 100 Nebraska Rural Youth organization officers attending their annual Mid-Winter institute at the University's college of agriculture. It was given by Wallace Ogg, associate professor of economics and sociology at Iowa State college.

He said young men going into the armed services should look upon their service as an opportunity. "Military service," he asserted, "can make you a stronger person or it can make you rot morally—it depends upon your attitude. If that is the situation facing you, you might as well make the best of it."

For the young women, who had planned to marry before the world situation interfered, Ogg had this message:

"This delay can bring opportunities for you. You might look upon it as two or three additional years to become a better homemaker. You might look upon it as an opportunity to think more objectively about the man you have chosen as your future husband."

Young people, Ogg said, need to develop a deep, personal, Christian faith in order to combat the forces of moral disintegration brought about by the emergency. He advised them to ponder the basis ideas of democracy in order to be convinced what we are fighting for.

Russell Merrigan, treasurer of the organization, spoke on "Serving Your Community." Rev. Howard Christensen of Dannebrog was moderator for the discussion that followed Merrigan's talk.

Help Fresh Adjust

Back of the whole plan, Dr. Hitchcock explained, is the desire to help new students adjust quickly to University life and provide more time for faculty-student advisory sessions.

"There is a sort of Cornhusker family spirit already present on our campuses," Dr. Hitchcock said. "We hope to develop it into a real force for the benefit of both faculty and students."

Present thinking is that the official freshman convocation, at which attendance of new students would be required, would be followed in quick succession by:

1. A Cornhusker Night, where new students would be given a chance to learn University song-yells, meet student leaders, and would be told something of Cornhusker tradition.
2. A church open house, conducted on a denominational basis.
3. An activities night, where new students would be told about, and given an opportunity to make contact with student organizations and activities in which they are interested.
4. The Chancellor's Reception where new students would have an opportunity to meet the Chancellor and other faculty members. Under consideration is a Freshman Hop to follow the reception.

Impetus for the planning came from the Junior Division which, under the University's administrative system, has the responsibility for programming the orientation of new students.

Since much of the orientation planning involves items in which various students group and upperclassmen have expressed an interest, it was decided to perfect the proposed revamping of the freshman orientation with the help of Raun and other student representatives.

Church Open House

Members of the general committee which met late Thursday afternoon at the Union include: Student Council, Raun, Miriam Willey, and Ginny Gubin; Mortar Board, Nancy Porter; Builders, Anne Barger and Gene Berg; senior class, Bob Parker; Inter-Fraternity council, Bill Michelson; Panhellenic, Shirley Coy; Coed Counselors, Marilyn Campfield and Mary Hubka; AWS, Marilyn Mooney; Ag. Executive board, Jerry J. Johnson; Union, Charles Widmar.

Administration and faculty representatives: Dr. Hitchcock, Dr. George W. Rosenlof, Dean Marjorie Johnston, Dean Roy M. Green, Dr. Dorstta Schloppoff, Prof. J. P. Colbert, Dr. Ephraim Hixson, Frank M. Hallgren, Dr. Bernard Fuhr, and Mrs. Genevieve Grimm.

FEPC Names Ruth Sorenson To Committee

Ruth Sorenson, a University junior, has recently been appointed a member of the public relations committee by the executive committee of the Fair Employment practice.

This was announced by Dr. Leroy T. Laase president of the organization. The FEPC is a state-wide organization with the purpose of securing the introduction of a legislative bill which will guarantee equal working opportunities that will not discriminate between race, color, religion, national origin or ancestry.

A bill such as FEPC is already a law in 10 states and is being considered in 14 others.

The public relations committee, which is one of the working committees set up by the executive committee, is to send material throughout the state to gain support of the FEPC bill. As a member of the public relations committee, Miss Sorenson's responsibility is, "Promoting support for fair employment practice legislation among student and faculty members on all college campuses throughout the state."

Doctor Laase stated that Miss Sorenson is well qualified for her appointment as she is strongly interested in civil rights and fair employment, is acquainted with the leaders on all Nebraska college campuses and has the potential qualities to successfully carry out her specific duties.

Mademoiselle Announces Story Contest

Mademoiselle magazine is announcing their college fiction contest which offers $1000 in prizes.

Those eligible for the contest are women undergraduate students. Stories which have appeared in undergraduate college publications are acceptable but only if they have not been published elsewhere.

In the past fourteen different colleges have produced an equal number of contest winners, ranging from freshmen to seniors.

The short stories are to be from 3000 to 5000 words. They should be typewritten, double-spaced, one side of the paper only, accompanied by contestant's clearly marked name, home address, college address and college year.

Entries must be postmarked by midnight April 15, 1951. Submit the entries to College Fiction Contest, Mademoiselle, 122 East 43 Street, New York 17, New York.

Interviewing Hopefuls . . .

BUILDER INTERVIEWS—The Builder board spent Saturday interviewing all students wishing to obtain a position in this active campus organization. Freshman Phyllis Leuden is one of the forty students to put in her application. Board members questioning her are (l. to r.): Jan Lindquist, Helen Vitke, Leon Pfeiffer, Marilyn Coupe, Gene Berg and Nancy Porter. Those applying for positions will be selected by the interest and work they have done in Builders and by their plans for the organization's improvement.

Sixteen Groups to Present Penny Carnival Booths

Penny Carnival booth participants were announced today by co-chairmen of the show Peggy Mulvaney and Donna Grueber. Sixteen booths will fill the Union ballroom Saturday, Feb. 10, for the annual Coed Counselor show.

Organizations entering booths, persons in charge and theme of entries are as follows:

Alumni Dinner Tickets on Sale

University alumni who plan to attend the Lincoln Alumni Club's Chapter Day dinner Thursday evening, Feb. 8, should make reservations by Tuesday, according to C. W. D. Kinsey, president of the Lincoln club.

Reservations may be made by calling the University of Nebraska Alumni Office, Kinsey said.

Dwight Griswold, newly-elected member of the University's Board of Regents, three times governor of Nebraska and former director of the U. S. Aid Mission to Greece, will talk on world affairs.

Chancellor R. G. Gustavson will report on the University and Head Football Coach Bill Glassford will speak briefly.

Caesar, Cleopatra Tryouts Tonight

Additional tryouts for George Bernard Shaw's Caesar and Cleopatra will take place tonight at 7 p.m. in Room 201 of the Temple.

"There are still open several good parts for both men and women," declared Dallas Williams, assistant professor of speech and dramatic art. He emphasized that any University student may try out for the parts.

NU Profs to Speak At Commencements

Two University professors will be the guest speakers at the Scottsbluff high school and junior college commencements. Supt. Charles H. Davis announced that the services would be held on May 24.

Dr. William Hall, psychology instructor, will speak at the high school ceremony and Dr. Walter Beggs of the administration and psychology departments will speak at the junior college commencement.

The Weather

WILLIAM HALL—An associate professor of education psychology will address the marriage relations course tonight in the faculty lounge of the Union from 3 to 5 p.m. His subject will be "Choosing A Mate." The YMCA, YWCA and the Union are sponsoring this series of talks for all students.
