Huskers, Jays In Twin Contests

Nebraska's Huskers and the Jayhawks of Kansas university will battle each other on two different Nebraska fields this Saturday. The two schools will vie for track and field honors against each other in the Memorial Stadium indoor track and a basketball victory in their meeting in the NU Coliseum.

Both contests are scheduled for after supper Saturday, but the times have been staggered so as to permit fans to see both. The track meet will begin at 6:30 p. m., a half hour earlier that usual, and the basketball game will begin at 8 p. m., a half hour later than usual.

One Apiece

Early indications are that both schools will walk off with one victory apiece. The visiting Kansans, however, sport the best chance of grabbing both honors.

Mid-week favorites in the two meetings are the Huskers in track and the Jays in basketball. While the KU win in the Coliseum seems practically sewed up, the Husker victory may be a hard-fought one.

With big Clyde Lovellette sparking the Jay cagers from his center position, the visitors are top heavy favorites to down Nebraska for the third time this year, Giant Lovellette was the Husker downfall in both their meetings in the Big Seven preseason tourney at Kansas City in December and in the opening Scarlet conference contest in Lawrence in early January.
