It Happened at NU . . .

An Ag college student, upon reading a recent "Rag" editorial which stated that many instructors do not bore themselves by reading every report they require the student to turn in, had this to say:

"Last semester I tested my economics instructor. I listed several points under one of the several boring headlines in an Ec 11 notebook. Then as one of the points went into the meat of it, I wrote in, 'Are you still with me?' He read it all right. His answer was, 'I'm with you but I'm not happy about it; Oh sure, I passed the course.'"

Fine Arts School To Present Recital

The University School of Fine Arts will present a recital Sunday, Feb. 11 in the Union ballroom.

The following will participate: Donald Lentz, flutist; Emanuel Wisnow, violinist; Mary Jane Waggoner, pianist; and Earnest Harrison, accompanist.

Sponsor of the recital is the Union music committee with Marcia Pratt as supervisor and Robert LaShelle as chairman.

Dr. Hanson, a native of Wahoo, attended the University's School of Music. In 1935 he received an honorary Doctor of Music degree from the University.

Director of Eastman School
He has been Director of the Eastman School since 1924. He is a past president of four of the nation's major music organizations. Dr. Hanson is well known as a composer. His Symphony No. 4 won the 1944 Pulitzer prize. He has conducted nearly all of the world's most famous symphonies.

The Montgomery Lectureship was made possible by a gift to the University in 1940 from the estate of Ora Clair Montgomery, formerly of Dodge county, a Nebraska graduate and later a resident of New York City. His will left to the University two Dodge county farms, the income from which was to perpetuate the memory of his father, James Henry Montgomery of Fremont.

The lectureship is intended to bring to the campus authorities who would discuss topics of current interest to the faculty, students and public.

Montgomery Recipients
The first man to receive the Montgomery Lectureship was Carl Friedrich, political scientist of Harvard university, who was at the University in 1947.

Owen Lattimore, Johns Hopkins' historian, was the second to receive the honor in 1948.

A Harvard anthropologist, Clyde Kluckhohn, was the third recipient and last year Walter Stace, philosopher at Princeton university, spoke.

NU Receives Two Research Grants-in-Aid
The University's animal husbandry department has been selected by Swift & company for research studies on two problems of livestock feeding.

Dr. R. C. Newton, vice president of Swift & company in charge of research, and Prof. William J. Loeffel, chairman of the University's animal husbandry department, announced the grant Wednesday.

First grant of $8,000 is for a two-year study under the direction of Dr. John Matsushima. The research is designed to find the best way to use bonemeal and limestone in cattle and sheep rations. Dr. Matsushima will determine how the fineness of the two feed ingredients affects the animals' digestion.

The second grant-in-aid of $5,000 will be used to study protein and amino acid needs of swine. There will be particular emphasis on the needs of breeding sows and gilts.

The latter project will be directed by Dr. Merle J. Brinegar. It will extend over five years.

What were the sights that greeted an American newcomer in Korea in 1946? On page four of today's Daily Nebraskan, George Wilcox, University junior, describes the Korea of yesterday—before it became a battleground for the world's nations. Present Plan Consolidates Many Events

Farmer's Fair, 'E Week' Held During Celebrations

College Days underwent three major developments since the opening of second semester. Actions include:

The crystallizing of cooperation among the Farmers Fair board, Engineer's Week and the College Days board. The drawing of a tentative schedule of events for College Days.

The approval by the Administrative council of the tentative schedule.

Cooperation among the three boards enabled drafting of the tentative schedule featuring Farmers Fair, Engineers Week and the new phases of College Days which will make an initial appearance April 26 to 28.

Berg Reports

According to a report given by Gene Berg, College Days chairman, after talking to Chancellor R. G. Gustavson, the Administrative council gave consent to the first schedule submitted at its meeting last week. Chancellor Gustavson submitted the schedule given to him by Berg, Nancy Porter and Susie Reed, board members. Approval by this group, composed of various deans and other administrative officials, provided an official nod for plans to continue.

College Days, which will be held April 26 to 28, will first feature Farmers Fair and Engineers Week which have been held in previous years. In addition to these two major portions of the program will be the participation of other colleges and departments and organizations in order to provide an overall picture of University life.
