Qualifications Named. Qualifications for May Queen outlined by Mortar Board include: a 5.5 average weighted, senior standing, enrollment for at least 12 hours and active participation in campus organizations.

The remainder of the Ivy Day court includes two seniors, four juniors, two sophomores, two freshmen and two pages. The court members will be suggested by organized houses and chosen by present members of Mortar Board from activity women of each class.

Candidates for Queen will be announced in The Daily Nebraskan March 19 along with the election slate for AWS, BABW and Coed Counselor officers. Election results will remain secret until the Queen appears to open Ivy Day ceremonies.

Prior to last year's election, there are no filings. Junior and senior women nominated seniors from a list of all University women eligible for the honor. The top eight candidates were then voted on for May Queen in a special election.

Last year the Ivy Queen was Jan Nuzman and her maid of honor was Mary Helen Mallory.

MacArthur To Continue Korea Policy

On his return from a flying trip to the Korean front, Gen. Douglas MacArthur said that the U. S. Eighth army will continue its "meat grinder" tactics of killing the Chinese communists in Korea without attempting to seize or hold any particular area.

He restated his basic strategy—to keep the Chinese Red supply lines extended so that they may be hit from the air while U. N. tank and artillery forces grind the Reds at the front.

Spearheads of about 170,000 counter-attacking Reds drove a menacing wedge between the western and central Korean fronts. Red patrols already have pushed within two and one-half miles west of the key road junction of Wonju in the central Korean mountains.

Chinese Communists Fire on British Ship. Chinese communists fired on a British tanker as it approached Hong Kong. The ship was damaged and two British officers were injured.

Dr. Wayne Reed Named to High Post. Dr. Wayne O. Reed has resigned as president of Peru State Teachers college to become United States assistant commissioner of education.

Frankster Rebuked in Legislature. A firecracker explosion in the legislative chamber failed to bring the laughs provoked by a lile incident several years ago.

Mortar Boards Plan Luncheon. The Mortar Boards will hold their annual Founders Day luncheon Saturday, Feb. 17 at 12 noon in Union parlors ABC.

Valentine Party At Ag Tonight. "Hey, look out for my arrow!" Cupid and his arrow will set the theme tonight at the Ag Union box social party.

DP Committee Given Promises of Support. According to Miriam Willey, co-chairman of the displaced persons committee with Romaine Rasmussen, the enthusiasm shown in response to the call for DP "assurances" of aid has given the committee the "go ahead" sign for their project.

Promises Due Now. The call for new "assurances" was issued from Willey and Rasmussen a week ago, March 1 is the deadline for the promises.

Presbyterian student house has promised transportation from New York City to Lincoln for all of the displaced persons that will be University students next school year.

Cotner house has assured $10 per month for one displaced person.

Miss Willey said that "there is no reason to believe that the twelve University scholarships for the displaced persons can't be had."

More room and board assurances are needed to insure complete success of the program.

The co-chairman of the displaced persons committee, which functions under the Religious Welfare council, urged that all the rest of the assurances be turned in by next Tuesday, Feb. 20.

In order to meet the March 1 deadline, anymore assurances must be in by next Tuesday.

The University holds a unique position among the nation's colleges by being one of the few institutions to sponsor such a displaced persons program.

Recent Music Can't Last, Declares Howard Hanson

Composer Assails Artists For Lack of Originality

"New (popular) music cannot be good," said Howard Hanson, Monday evening in his lecture "Development of the Creative Arts" at Love Library auditorium.

Hanson is presently director of the Eastman School of Music in New York. He is also president of the National Music Council, a Pulitzer Prize winner, adviser to the national government, and has served as guest conductor on numerous occasions.

He was introduced by Chancellor R. G. Gustavson. Since it is not original popular music, it excites a memory of some other work which gives it its appeal which lasts usually for not more than ten years, sometimes only a day, according to Hanson.

The test of time is the only reliable standard on which to judge creative arts. Applause meters and poles are no criterion for judging music, he said. Even time is not infallible.

People want and should get faster evaluation of contemporary works. Evaluations are constantly being made, he said, but what is good, scholars are swayed by the craftsmanship of a composition.

A writing may become successful because of its appropriateness at the time it is written. An able conductor may be responsible for the immediate liking of a new piece.

The Boston symphony has furnished a pattern for the history of American music, he said. Since 1881, this organization has sought to play the best of contemporary American writings.

In 1889 they played compositions of MacDowell, the first American composer to gain wide acclaim in Europe.

It Happened At NU . . .

Last Sunday, Feb. 11, the house mothers and presidents of the freshmen girls' dormitory were invited to a tea given by Love Memorial hall.

As the group of eight proceeded to Ag campus dressed in their Sunday best, they couldn't help but wish they were going riding in one of the many convertibles they passed and wishing they, too, were enjoying the early spring weather.

Arriving at Love hall at the designated time, the tea-goers seemed to feel as if they were either too early or late for no one was there.

Looking again at the invitation, the date for the tea was Feb. 18, not the 11th—just a week too soon.

This year the engineers need a new plaque and have decided to sponsor a contest for a new emblem design on the plaque.

A $15 first prize will be awarded to the person designing the emblem to be placed upon the plaque.

Those designing emblems must remember that it will be cast in bronze and that intricate details can not be included in the casting.

3. The name: College of Engineering and Architecture, University of Nebraska, must appear on the emblem.
4. The emblem design must be symbolic of the College of Engineering and Architecture.
5. Each entry must be sketched or drawn with instruments on 8 1/2 by 11 inch paper.

The theme of the conference, "Preparing for Service," was presented through a series of "workshops" led by students and pastors.

Pastor Paul Bierstedt, national adviser of the Lutheran Student association of America, was present to instruct students with methods of building a stronger LSA on their campus.

"Our problem lies with the many thousands of students who are not active in LSA," said Pastor Bierstedt. He outlined five things necessary for an effective program: prayer, study, evangelism, service, and recreation.

The conference was terminated Sunday morning with Holy Communion service at 8:30 and Bible study at 9:30.
