

Jones, Jacobs, Bedker Leading Track Scorers Going Into Big 7

University of Nebraska's sensational sophomore runner, Hobe Jones is the leading scorer on Coach Ed Weir's indoor track team with 39 1/4 points.

He has scored at least 5 points in every dual meet with the exception of the Nebraska-Missouri contest.

His pet race has been the 88 yard run in which he set four new records this year. However he doubled up in both the 880 and the mile run against the University of Oklahoma and set new records in both races.

He has also won points in the 440. Jones prepped at Lincoln High where he was a standout in track. He barely missed breaking Bobby Ginn's state record in the 880.

Ken Jacobs, junior from Minden, is the number two Husker scorer with 34 points. He won most of his points as the leading miler, but he also doubled up in the 880 and two-mile runs to add valuable points to the Nebraska cause.

Indoor Meet
Weir currently preparing his team for the Big Seven indoor meet at Kansas City. His team ended the dual-meet season on the short end of a 54-50 score with the Sooners.

But that meet was very close and wasn't decided until the broad jump had been finished. In defeat his team showed it packed strength in every event except the shot put.

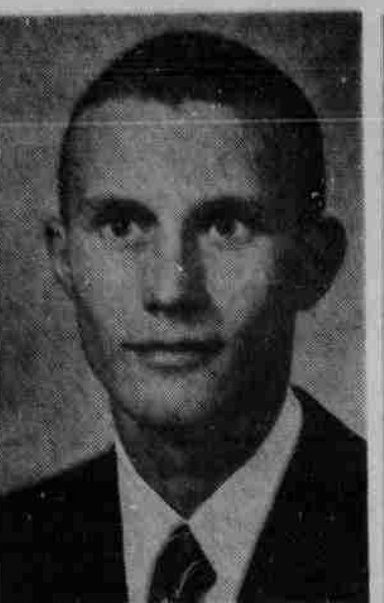

The Huskers have several front-line performers who will be challenging for individual honors at the conference meet.

Cooper
Don Cooper should bring home a blue ribbon in the pole vault. The string bean from York has been smashing records continuously during the season. He has been over 14 feet consistently, and on one occasion he barely missed at 14 feet, 9-inches.

Jones will be in top contention in the 880. The broad jump twins, Glenn Beerline and Irving Thode, have both been keeping pace with the conference leaders. Dan Tolman won both hurdle events against the Sooners and turned in good times. Dick Meissner, ace high jumper, missed out on first place against Oklahoma, but he nevertheless is a threat for the Huskers.

GLENN BEERLINE... Has surpassed 23 feet this year in his third event, the broad jump.

Tough Foes
But the NU cindermen will still have plenty of competition from other conference schools.

Bill McGuire, University of Missouri distance man, will be back to lead the Tiger squad. He has been turning in excellent times this year.

The Kansas State Wildcats offer two of the nation's best jumpers in Herb Hoskins and Virgil Severns. Hoskins specializes in the broad jump while Severns is a high jumper.

Kansas
Herb Semper will lead the University of Kansas attack. He is one of the leading two milers in the conference. Jack Greenwood is also a prominent cog in the Jayhawk attack as a hurdler.

Clair Mayes, Sooner shot putter, rates a strong vote in his event. He has been approaching 50 feet during the entire season. The University of Colorado will send Merwin Hodel in the hurdles. He has been hampered this year by a sore leg but should be in shape for the conference meet.

Spring Halts Hockey Play

Mother Nature has apparently delivered a final coup-de-grace to the University's first intramural ice hockey schedule. The death-blow to the founding campus sport came in the form of early spring thaws and unfavorable weather.

With the regular season near completion, participating teams seemed to be eagerly awaiting the post season playoffs. Strong contenders for the prospective crown were the skaters of Alpha Tau Omega and Phi Delta Theta.

Both teams combined good skating with a power-plus scoring punch, and both have a clean slate of wins to date.

Also challenging for the league title was Delta Tau Delta. The Delta also turned in a record of straight wins and finished at the head of their division.

The standings at the thaw:

Husker Gymnasts Journey West for All-College Meet

By Marshall Kushner
Nebraska's gymnastic team is preparing itself for its top tournament of the year. This Friday the Cornhuskers depart for Denver where they will compete in the All-College Invitational Meet sponsored by the Denver university.

Coach Geier indicated that teams representing Nebraska university, Colorado university, Colorado A and M, Colorado State college, Denver university, and Montana university are expected to compete in the tournament. Several other teams have showed considerable interest in the tournament, but no official word has been received about them accepting the bids.

After this meet the Huskers will take an eastern jaunt to compete against Iowa university in a dual meet on March 16th at Iowa City. They will then travel to Chicago for a dual meet with the Illinois Naval Pier Branch on March 17th.

Most Meaningful
"This meet has always been the most meaningful to the team and the boys are primed to 'shoot the works'." The tournament is also one of the most lavish that the Husker gymnasts will compete in. Trophies and medals are awarded to individual and team victors.

NU Gridders Begin Workouts March 5

Spring football practice gets under way at the University of Nebraska, Monday, March 5.

Although 18 lettermen are returning Coach Bill Glassford and his aids face the task of building a new offensive line, from tackle to tackle.

All of the starting line, with the exception of the ends, were graduated.

Coach Glassford and his staff will work with a group of newcomers for the first two weeks. The entire squad of 83 will be brought together for the final four weeks of the drill.

The spring drills will close April 14 with a game between the Varsity and the Alumni. This contest will highlight an All Sports Day which also will feature a track meet with the University of Kansas and a baseball game between the Cornhuskers and Buena Vista College.

A general call for other football candidates will be issued by Coach Glassford. These players also will report on March 5 and will be under the supervision of Coach Ike Hanscom.

The spring roster lists the players invited to report for the drills. All class designations are based on the player's status next fall. The lads listed as sophomores will not attain that academic standing until the end of this semester.

AROUND THE LOOP...

Three-Legged Race Should Be Event

By Shirley Murphy
K-State track coach, Ward Haylett, who is plagued by lack of indoor practice facilities for his trackmen, has come up with a new wrinkle in conditioning exercises. On cold or wet days, the K-State trackmen are forced into the stadium locker room for their workouts. A new muscle developer worked out by Haylett, is the three-legged race patterned after the perennial county fair race. Two trackmen stand together, tie two legs together, and then hobble to the end of the locker room and back.

Haylett says if it wasn't for his squad being able to use the new fieldhouse next winter he would try to get the three-legged race introduced as a conference indoor event.

"We might win that," he quipped.

"You've no idea how we wanted those extra three-tenths of a second," said Jack McGuire, ISC swim coach.

He was referring to the 3:28.7 minute time turned in by the Cyclone relay in the 440-yard free style. That was the second fastest time any college team has had for the event in a 20-yard pool. However it lacked three-tenths of a second to better the record set by Michigan State at Iowa last year.

The Cyclones closed their 1951 dual meet season with a record of nine wins and a single loss. This record is the top for all time at Iowa State.

Ernie Barrett gained all-American honors when he was included at a guard spot on the Sporting News' team. Barrett is the first K-State rifleman to break the 200 mark. He ran his season string to 201 after the Oklahoma game.

Port Robertson, Sooner wrestling coach, will have three title holders back when his squad defends its Big Seven Championship. Three Oklahoma sophomores took home individual honors last year.

Cage Teams To Provide Own Officials

Beginning with contests slated for Thursday, March 1, all competing teams in intramural basketball are responsible for their own officials.

The I-M department announced today that all teams playing contests on this Thursday and thereafter are responsible for obtaining the referees for their own contests.

The department is doing this primarily to avoid the argument some of the teams may give if they think their contests were not officiated adequately.

To facilitate this, however, the I-M department is putting their entire staff of referees available for duty. The two competing teams must agree on the two officials and then contact those two men and see that they are ready to work at least five minutes before the game is scheduled to begin.

Any two men may officiate the contests that have been okayed by the two competing teams.

The names, addresses and phone numbers of the present staff of I-M referees are posted on the bulletin board in the Physical Education building.

Will Be Paid
All officials will be paid by the I-M department for all games which they work the same as is now being done. The only obligation that is thrown to the competitors is that they must agree on the officials and contact them.

The department will continue to arrange for officials for the games of Wednesday, Feb. 28.
