Builders Aid Campus, University for Decade

"To build a greater University."

That is the watchword of Nebraska Builders. "To build a greater University."

That has been the basis of the Nebraska Builders' purpose throughout their first decade of service to the University. They observed their 10th anniversary last Sunday.

The nucleus of the organization was formed in 1941. At that time, it was called the Student Foundation. The University of Nebraska Alumni association, the Athletic association and the Student Council promoted the organization to publicize the University and improve school spirit.

Since its founding, Builders has continued to carry out its purpose.

Aid to Veterans.
The first important campus project of the Student Foundation was to establish a War Scholarship Fund. It was to aid veterans in completing their education at the University. They completed their mission when they raised $2,500 for the cause.

The first step toward the stimulation of interest in the University came in 1942. It was in the form of an essay contest for Nebraska high schools. A prize of $25 was awarded for each winning essay.

The Public Relations department, organized in 1943, was designed to arouse still more interest in the University. Each of 93 counties was assigned a reporter whose duty it was to compile important news about University student from the specific area. News items resulting from this project were then sent to county newspapers by the Foundation.

Members Became Lobbyists.
In 1945, the members of the Foundation played lobbyist in the State Capitol. It was to encourage the members of the Legislature to appropriate more money

Debate Readied For Model UN

Current Affairs . . .

UN Delegate to Address University Convocation

Mrs. Edith Sampson, the first Negro woman to represent this country as a delegate to the United Nations, will speak at a University convocation in the Union ballroom at 11 a.m. Friday, March 9.

Mrs. Sampson, who is a prominent lawyer and lecturer, has just returned from a world tour with twenty-five other civic and cultural leaders. During this recent trip, she has had many opportunities to actually see the social conditions in many foreign countries and, as a result, is well informed on our relations with them.

Long interested in social work, Mrs. Sampson at the present time is chairman of the National Council of Negro Women, a member of the United Nations board of Chicago and is also a member of the Chicago and National bar associations. She was appointed by President Truman to this country's UN delegation in August, 1950.

Mrs. Sampson will speak on the topic, "Is the UN Way the American Way?" at the convocation. Events in which she will participate while in Lincoln include a press conference at 10 a.m. Friday, a luncheon that noon and a tour of Lincoln under the guidance of Prof. Frank E. Sorenson, chairman of the University educational service department. She also will meet with a group from the home-making department and the University home economics teachers Friday night.

It Happened At NU . . .

Patrons of the Union Book Nook, sunk deep in their literature, were awakened with a shock Friday noon. From the nearby Crib grill came a sudden blast of what sounded like grand opera.

A trio of waiters were singing, "Toreador-uh, Don't spit on the floor-uh! Toreador . . . Toreador . . ."

Jr. Ak-Sar-Ben Show, Barbecue Tickets on Sale

Tickets are now available for the annual Junior Ak-Sar-Ben livestock show and barbecue, scheduled for Saturday, March 17.

Ducats for the exposition may be purchased from any Block and Bridle club member, as well as at the following places: Gold's service desk; Miller and Paine's service desk; Animal Husbandry hall, information office; and Agricultural hall, finance office.

The barbecue, a new feature this year, will be held Friday, March 16, at 6 p.m. and includes a free square dance in the evening.

The Saturday show will start at 8 p.m. Frank Sibert, barbecue chairman, said the Friday meal features barbecued ham with country fresh salad. He emphasized that interested persons should purchase their barbecue tickets early since only a limited number are available. Barbecue tickets will go off sale Tuesday, March 13.

Ticket sales chairman, Phil Olsen, said ticket prices for the show are 90 cents for general admission, 65 cents for students and 35 cents for children 12 and under. Barbecue tickets are $1 and this price includes admission to the square dance.

Foster to Present Pros, Cons Of McCarran Act to YW

With all of the discussion current on the campus concerning the McCarran act, which involves Communist activities in the United States, the YWCA has planned a pro and con speech on the subject for University women. Professor Henry H. Foster, of

EUGENE ROBINSON

Robinson To Head Ag 4-H's

Eugene Robinson, Ag college junior, has been elected president of the University 4-H club. The organization is made up of former 4-H club members now attending the College of Agriculture.

In addition to his new office, Robinson is a member of Tri-K, Corn Cobs, Red Guidon, Alpha Zeta, member of Ag Exec board, and Farmhouse fraternity. He was chosen as the nation's number one recipient of Sears and Roebuck scholarships last year.

Bob Watson, Ag sophomore, is the vice-president. Other newly elected officers are: Marilyn Barnesberger, secretary; James Pollard, treasurer; Phyllis Zeilinger, program chairman; Joe Edwards, publicity chairman; Jo Ann Skucius and Jo Ann Knotts, song leaders.

Usually about one-half of the entire student enrollment in Ag college are former 4-H club members.

4-H Club Week
Four-H Club Week began Saturday in Nebraska and over the nation. Boys and girls over Nebraska will conduct programs prepare special exhibits and make new resolutions. Their objective is to increase the enrollment of clubs and to give every boy and girl the opportunity to belong to 4-H.

Governor Val Peterson saluted Nebraska 4-Hers over their official 4-H radio program at 11:30 a. m. Saturday. The program was carried by Radio Station KFAB. Also paying tribute to 4-Hers on the same program was Dr. W. V. Lambert, dean of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture.

Med Students' Term Changed To 12 Months

Next semester's university medical students will begin classes June 11, instead of in September.

Because of the national situation, the new school year will be "practically 12 months" according to Eugene F. Powell, pre-medical adviser.

"The deans at the College of Medicine were not generally satisfied with the nine month semesters which enabled medical students to finish school in three years during the last war," reported Dr. Powell.

The school program will be continuous throughout the year except for two weeks vacation during Christmas and the time between commencement and the start of the classes. The school curriculum will continue to be four years.

Dates for the classes entering in 1952 have been changed so that all applications for the class entering in 1952 will have to be completed by May 1. Mr. Powell declared that applicants this year will have to take the medical college admission test on May 12.

Applications for this test must be completed with the Education Testing service, Princeton, N. J., prior to April 28. Applicants may obtain these forms from Mr. Powell in Room 301, Bessey hall.
