

UN Trip Topic Of Dr. Sorenson NUCWA Continues Plans For Spring Conference

Dr. Frank Sorenson will speak about his recent trip to the United Nations Thursday at a mass meeting of NUCWA and the spring conference delegates.

Dr. Sorenson, who returned last week after spending two weeks attending the United Nations sessions at Lake Success, N. Y., will give information about the political committee of the U. N. General assembly particularly in regard to admission of new members.

Red Drive Is Feared Imminent

An advance of more than a mile in a blinding Korean snowstorm was made against red forces screening a Chinese build up for all-out counter-offensive by the second division infantrymen.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported that one to 12 fresh enemy divisions—100,000 men—were in China's long-missing Third field army were moving into position behind the central Korean front for what may be an imminent assault.

On the U. S. side of the line are seven American divisions with attached Turkish, Greek, Dutch and French brigades and battalions, two British Commonwealth brigades and five South Korean divisions—at normal strength about 200,000 men.

Russia to Wipe Out Peasantry

Russia's ragged peasantry is now playing guinea pig in a Bolshevik experiment. The experiment is to wipe out the peasantry as such, because it is too dangerous and to convert it into a "rural proletariat." Stalin has decreed that all collective farmers be removed as quickly as possible from their villages and herded into "agricultural cities."

The step will theoretically affect more than 20 million families. It has already destroyed any thought of security which the peasantry had regained after the Germans withdrew from the Ukraine.

California Prof To Give Talk On Genetics

One of the nation's leading botanists, Dr. Herbert L. Mason, will speak on "The Genetic Basis of Taxonomy, Ecology and Biogeography" at 7:30 p. m. in Bessey hall auditorium Wednesday.

Senate Defeats Three Year Service Term

The senate defeated 77 to 14 an attempt to limit to three years the service terms of all volunteers for the armed forces.

Senator Morse (R., Ore.) proposed it as an amendment to the broad universal military training and service bill. He contended the air force, navy and marine had "high-pressured" thousands of young men to enlist for four years "to avoid being drafted into the infantry."

The army asked for 60,000 draftees during May. This number would bring the total inducted by the army since last Sept. 1 to 590,000. The navy, air force and marines have not yet taken men via the draft during the present emergency.

Elgin to Manufacture Ammunition Components

The Elgin National Watch company announced it has been awarded a major contract for manufacture of naval ammunition components at its Lincoln plant.

George W. Franker, head of Elgin's newly-formed ordnance division, said tooling for the job would begin immediately, but that actual production would not get under way until next summer.

Gallery Talks, Panels Will Highlight 61st Art Exhibit

A special series of gallery talks and panel discussions will highlight the 61st annual exhibition of the Nebraska Art association. The exhibition opened March 6 in the University galleries and will run through April 1.

Panel discussions will be presented each Thursday evening at 8 p. m. and the gallery talks each Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p. m.

As a special feature of the gallery talks, Frederick A. Sweet, associate curator of painting and sculpture at the Art Institute of Chicago, and Bartlett Hayes, director of the Addison Gallery of American Art at Andover, Mass., will discuss the 61st annual exhibition with relation to the permanent collections of the University.

March 11—Norman A. Geske, assistant director of the University galleries, "The Varieties of Contemporary Art."

March 13—Mr. Geske, Barbara Ellis Ross, painter; Marvin Robinson, architect, and Peter Worth, assistant professor of art.

March 20—Katherine Nash, instructor in sculpture and design; Mrs. David Dow; Eugene Anderson, professor of history; Gail Butt, instructor of art.

March 27—Mr. Lagging, acting gallery director; James Klee, visiting professor of psychology; Anatol Helman, assistant professor of architecture; Walter Meigs, assistant professor of art.

McCarran Act . . . Foster to Discuss Pros, Cons of Bill

Professor Henry H. Foster, University law instructor, will present the pros and cons of the McCarran act at the YWCA All-membership meeting tonight.

The meeting is one of two to be held this semester. All YWCA members, all University women, student council members and members of the campus student houses are invited to attend the meeting as guests of the YW.

Scout Work Openings Announced

University women interested in Girl Scout work on a professional basis are invited to attend a public meeting Friday, March 9 in faculty lounge of the Union.

Miss Josephine Brayton, advisor on professional recruitment for the Girl Scouts of America, will speak to coeds about professional opportunities.

Senior women are especially invited to attend, but Miss Brayton will also tell undergrads about qualifications for positions.

In addition, the Girl Scout official will be at the University Saturday, March 10, and Monday, March 12, for further interviews with prospective Girl Scout workers.

Qualifications for professional positions in Girl Scout work include the following:

- 1. A baccalaureate degree and the completion of 20 hours of study in social science.
- 2. Twenty days of camping experience as a counselor.
- 3. Two years of group leadership experience does not need to be in the Girl Scout field.

Students who plan to complete these requirements within the next few years are welcomed to an interview with Miss Brayton, although seniors are especially urged to attend.

Local professional positions include executive director, field director, district director, director of a specialized field of council responsibility and traveling executive director.

Girl Scout jobs are usually on a 12-month basis. Working hours are limited to 40 to 44 hours per week, and four weeks vacations with pay are provided for each employee.

It Happened at NU

The doorbell rang. A pledge opened the door. Then the fun began. A pair of female arms reached out and grabbed the unsuspecting pledge. The owner of the arms then kissed him.

The girl, along with one of her friends, entered into the house and proceeded to kiss everyone who happened to be on the main floor. One lad who was dozing in the library nearby missed all the fun. After being kissed, he started swearing—then when fully awake, laughing.

The girls were pledges of a high school sorority of some sort and were carrying out orders connected with their initiation.

Wishnow, Music Instructor, To Conduct Omaha Symphony

"I don't know." Such was the answer of Emanuel Wishnow, head of the string department and associate professor of violin, as to how he was going to manage the conductorship of the Nebraska Symphony orchestra with its coming spring concert and serve as interim conductor of the Omaha Symphony orchestra for the 1951-52 season at the same time.

Prof. Wishnow's appointment to this additional position was announced recently by Mrs. Francis L. Martland, president of the Omaha Symphony. He will succeed Conductor Richard E. Duncan.

Teacher and Conductor Wishnow is recognized in music circles for his soundness as a teacher, player and conductor.

He has been concertmaster of the Lincoln Symphony orchestra since 1936. He has previously appeared as guest conductor of the Omaha Symphony. Wishnow has also done several concerts with Andre Kostelanetz in Paris and Sir Adrian Boult in London.

During the summers of 1949 and 1950, he was a member of the conducting class of Pierre Monteux in Hancock, Maine.

Gratified at being chosen to lead the Omaha Symphony, Wishnow said, "I am very pleased that I can help carry on the tradition—and it has become a tradition—that the Symphony has set at Omaha."

Old and Contemporary Music According to Wishnow, the programming for the Omaha Symphony is yet in its embryonic stages. Even so, he hopes to present a fair balance of old and contemporary music. This would be parallel to the practice of all first class symphonies.

Wishnow expressed his partiality to American composers. According to the professor, much of the fine music by these composers deserves a wider hearing.

Having been in the string section of the Glenn Miller orchestra in Europe during the last war, Wishnow spoke of the leader thus: "His motto was 'something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue.' It's not quite that way with me but I do feel one must present the whole panorama of music in order to give listeners a full experience."

Hanson's Composition In speaking of the forthcoming spring concert, Wishnow especially praised "Symphony No. 2, Opus 30," by Howard Hanson. Although it is a sample of some

Builders to Entertain Visiting Preppers Weekend Agenda Outlined for Fans

University Builders have tentatively planned a full schedule for Nebraska high schoolers who will be in Lincoln March 14 to 17 for the state high school basketball tournament.

Thirty-two state teams will be in Lincoln to play in the annual class competition tourney. Cheerleaders, parents and fans will follow the parties and conventions.

Mrs. Sampson To Discuss UN Security

Where are we headed? Can the United States look to the United Nations for security from the armies of aggressor nations? Mrs. Edith Sampson, one of the foremost women in the United Nations, will discuss the answers to these questions at a University convocation in the Union ballroom Friday, March 9 at 11 a. m. Her speech is entitled, "Is the United Nations Way the American Way?"

Mrs. Sampson is a member of the Executive board of the United Nations association of Chicago and has visited United Nations headquarters as an observer for the National Council of Negro Women.

Mrs. Sampson is the only woman who ever received a master of law degree in the graduate school of Loyola university. A graduate of John Marshall law school in Chicago, she was admitted to the bar in Illinois in 1927. In 1934 she was admitted to practice before the United States Supreme Court.

Her practice has been largely in the field of criminal law and domestic relations. She is a member of the National Bar association, the Chicago Bar association and a life member of the National Association of Women Lawyers.

As a member of World Town Hall of the Air, a panel of leaders of citizens organizations, Mrs. Sampson visited more than 20 countries last year, debating with the citizens of each country on current political issues. She is president of the World Town Hall Seminar.

Builders' Mag Completed; 'First Glance' Out April 1

"Around the Year at the University of Nebraska" is the theme of this year's "First Glance" magazine. Issue is expected to be published April 1.

The bulletin is published yearly by members of the University Builders. It concerns all forms of college life on a high school level.

The magazine's purpose is to encourage high school students to attend the University.

The cover of this new issue shows high school students who are attending the High School Press Convention which Builders sponsors every fall. The students are standing in front of Love Library listening to Marilyn Coupe tell them about the University.

Opening the bulletin is a picture of a calendar. In the middle of it is an editorial by Pat Bechan, editor. Along with this "First Glance" features articles concerning sports, life in the fraternities, sororities and dormitories, NU Military life and all of the University organization's activities.

The second page of the bulletin contains a letter from Chancellor R. G. Gustavson urging high school students to come to Nebraska next fall.

Each section is introduced by a page of cartoons illustrating the articles in the section.

The "First Glance" is sent to every high school in the state immediately after publication. Through it these students get a first hand look at University life.

Debaters to Attend Wisconsin Tourney

Four Nebraska debaters, Wayne Johnson, Dale Johnson, James Wamsley and Robert Shively will participate in the University of Wisconsin tournament at Madison Friday and Saturday.

The two Johnsons will form one team. Wamsley and Shively will be the other team.

The two teams are scheduled for four rounds of debate and three rounds of discussion.

The subject for debate will be "The New Non-Communist Organization." The discussion question will be "Of the Welfare State."

The teams will leave Thursday and return Sunday. Speech instructor Bruce Kendall will accompany them.

Drama Clinics Plan to Tour Nebraska High Schools Soon

The speech and dramatic arts department will send drama clinics on tour to three Nebraska high schools.

The clinics, with a program that is designed to be both educational and entertaining, will be at Tecumseh March 17, Norfolk April 28, and Grand Island, May 5.

The schedule of events for the clinic includes film, slides, demonstrations and a presentation of George Bernard Shaw's play, Caesar and Cleopatra.

The University theatre will present the play in the evening on the day of the clinic.

In the afternoon the speech department will show an educational film made by the department of speech. The film is in color and explains the principles of bodily movement on stage.

A set of slides showing the various methods of staging and grouping characters will be shown. Methods of building and handling scenery, principles of moving and grouping actors, blocking stage movements and techniques of make-up will be demonstrated.

The drama clinic will also include displays of set designs, production forms and enlarged photographs of various styles of stage settings.

The subject matter of the clinic has been geared to the needs of high school play directors.
