

Jazz Artists to Give Show

Duke Ellington and his band, who will present a concert at the Coliseum April 11, have earned a widespread reputation as jazz artists.

Ellington's rendition of "Solitude" has won him the title of "king of the keyboard."

One of the latest record releases by the Ellington crew is "On the Sunny Side" and "Good Woman Blues."

Some of Ellington's contributions to the music world are "Mood Indigo," "Sophisticated Lady," "It Don't Mean a Thing If It Ain't Got That Swing," "I Got It Bad and That Ain't Good" and "Do Nothin' Till You Hear From Me."

Duke's more serious compositions for the concert stage include "Black, Brown and Beige," "Deep South Suite," "Perfume Suite," "Bluetopia" and "Liberian Suite."

According to an Ellington release, the band's method of making records is quite unique. At first, all is apparently confusion as the men warm up their instruments.

Duke plays the new theme or snatches of it. The jamming continues and the overtime mounts. Then Duke has the whole arrangement clear in mind. The rehearsal starts. Ellington and his arrangers start writing and another Ellington record is waxed.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. and will cost 85 cents to students and faculty and $1.20 to the general public.

JAZZ STYLINGS ARTIST—Duke Ellington and his band will give a concert at the Coliseum April 11 under the auspices of the Union. The Ellington concert will begin at 8 p. m. and will cost 85 cents to students and faculty and $1.20 to the general public. Features of the jazz organization are clarinetist Max Roach, drummer Jimmy Hamilton and Duke's piano and mandolin music.

The breakfast is the annual freshman project for the mothers and daughters.

Ag Union Plans Movie, Picnic For Weekend

The Ag Union has scheduled two main attractions for this weekend.

"Saturday Cabaret," featuring a flicker night free movie and record dancing by candlelight, is scheduled for 8:15 p.m. Saturday, March 31, in the Ag Union.

The specialty movie will lead the evening of entertainment and will be followed by the record dancing.

The "Rec" room of the Ag Union is to be decorated and circled with tables where cokes will be served. Fred Hosterman and Don Leising are co-chairmen of the event.

Sunday Picnic

The Ag Union committee members and workers picnic is scheduled Sunday, April 1, and has scheduled a host of games and interesting discussions. Students interested in Unionology are asked to attend also.

Cars will leave the Ag Union at 2:30 p.m. for Pioneer park. Students are asked to be dressed according to what the weather will allow and be at the Ag Union at 2:15 p.m.

Part of the outdoor activities includes a sack race, a bat and ring relay, a softball game and singing. Losing participants in the games will be asked to furnish the meal time entertainment.

Lake to Speak

Duane Lake, Union director, will speak during the informal discussion session. There will be an evaluation of the Ag Union's program, its plans for next year, the committee set-up and possible re-organization.

Program chairman is Warren Monson; food, Jayne Carter; entertainment, Jean Holmes and Jean Vierk; and transportation, Dick Walsh.

In case of bad weather, appropriate parlor games will be arranged in the Ag Union lounge, according to Vierk and Holmes.

Temporary L Becomes Ignored Citadel Of University Lost, Found Possessions

Temporary L, one of the lesser known beauty spots on campus, is almost deserted these days. Since the Engineers deserted it for Ferguson hall, only one room remains in use. And that room is filled with the most motley collection of articles found since they tore down University Hall.

There are gloves, scarves, billfolds, purses and even some ID cards, probably false. (Well, did you ever know a 23 year old freshman whose name was Tom Jones?)

Almost anything can be found there, but what you have lost. Very few of the possessions are ever claimed and so they are all given to the Salvation Army in the spring.

One of the articles that was thrown away, however, was a sack lunch someone had brought in. The sack, very neatly wrapped, was kept on the shelves for a few days and then a very unpleasant odor started to drive all visitors from the room. It seems some foods, especially eggs, just don't last forever.

Lost—One Child
Even though Nebraskans don't take advantage of this concession, there are some schools that do. Rumor has it that at one midwestern school a typical absent-minded professor had to bring his young son to school with him. After one of his classes, he noticed that the child was missing. After a frantic search through the building, he lost his head and decided to go to the lost and found—for the baby, not his head.

Terminal Incident

An incident that happened in one of the larger bus terminals still has everyone laughing. A young lady was traveling with her two aunts, but somehow had lost them in the crowd. They had agreed to meet at the lost and found if they were separated.

So the niece ran to the counter to wait. After about fifteen minutes, she began to look a little anxious. The clerk, trying to be helpful, asked her if she had lost something. She muttered that she had lost her aunts and was waiting for them here.

The clerk, however, misunderstood her and thought she had mentioned wearing apparel. He started back to his shelves and searched high and low while the nervous girl stood wringing her hands and saying, "But they were supposed to be here; I've got to take the 2 p.m. bus." The clerk kept looking and worrying about the sweet young thing who seemed so worried.

Scared Away

Finally, he took out his billfold, gave her a dollar and told her, "Look honey, I know just how you feel. You take this money and get some more and have a good time on your trip." She didn't take the money, but she did take the trip—a fast one away from the lost and found booth.

So it goes when people lose their possessions or relatives. Sometimes they find them; sometimes they don't.

But at least everyone should give it a try. So, if you've lost anything, a good place to begin looking is at Temporary L, the house of lost articles at Nebraska University.

Lovegrove, Sorensen, Dill Attend Human Relations Meet

Delores Lovegrove, Ruth Sorensen, and Kathleen Dill left Wednesday afternoon for Richmond, Ind., where they will attend the National Student Conference on Human Relations in Higher Education.

The official delegation from the University will discuss problems of discrimination in admissions, student organizations, economic aid to students, housing and eating facilities, curriculum, athletics, recreation and health, legislation, graduate replacement and faculty employment.

Transportation costs for the University delegation are being shared by the Student Council, YWCA and Presby house. The girls are riding to the conference with Ray Knutzman, delegate from Wesleyan university.

Speakers for the March 29 to 31 conference are: Harold Taylor, president of Sarah Lawrence college; Charles S. Johnson, president of Fisk university; Floyd W. Reeves, chairman of the committee on discriminations in higher education of the American Council of Education; and Francis J. Brown, staff associate on the American Council on Education.

The committee on Discriminations in Higher Education of the American Council on Education, sponsor for the meet, listed the purpose of the conference as follows:

"To enable student leaders to study the problems of discrimination in higher education, and to encourage and promote the equalization and expansion of opportunities for all persons to share in the experience of higher education without any restriction beyond that of individual capacity."

Business College Students Eligible for Seven Awards

Seven scholarships in the College of Business Administration are offered for the 1951-52 school year.

Applications must be filed in the office of the dean by April 1. Blanks may be secured in room 210 of the Social Science building. Sophomores to graduate students are eligible for scholarships ranging from $100 to $500 in value.

The John E. Miller graduate fellowship will be awarded to the member of the 1950 senior class who has the highest scholastic standing among applicants who wish to do graduate work in business administration in any university. The fellowship is worth $500.

Research Grants

Two Miller and Paine business research fellowships are available to students undertaking graduate work in business research next year. The grants are valued at $375 each.

Any student who has held a Regents' Scholarship in his freshman year, maintained a satisfactory scholastic record, and will be a sophomore next year is eligible for the O. N. Magee memorial scholarship worth $100.

The Edward R. Wells memorial scholarship will be awarded to a student who has completed one satisfactory academic year and is in need of financial assistance for his sophomore year. The scholarship pays $100.

A male student interested in the field of public accounting may receive the Congdon, O'Hara and Becker scholarship worth $250. He must have completed 18 hours of accounting courses and enter the University as a senior next fall.

The Lincoln Association of Insurance Agents scholarship giving $150 to its owner will be awarded to a senior who will graduate in June or July of 1952. He must have credit in Economics 211 and a high scholastic average. He should have a "definite interest in all fields of insurance except life insurance."
