Phi Deltas Grab Two Spots To Lead Fraternity Voting

Two men from Champion Phi Delta Theta spoke the Fraternity A All-Star basketball team of 1951. The Phi Deltas got Dave Graef and Chick Battey at guard and forward, respectively, on the first team to lead the balloting. The Frat "A" All-Star lineup is the fourth of five such teams to appear in The Daily Nebraskan. The final and most important aggregation will be found in tomorrow's paper in the form of the All-University All-Intramural basketball team.

With the two Phi Deltas on the first team are Bob Dwehus of Pioneer House, Mel Williams of Brown Palace and Jerry Anderson of Phi Kappa Psi at forward, guard and center, respectively. Graef and Williams are the outstanding players on the 1951 team. Both were unanimous in the voting.

Ball Handling
Both emphasized ball-handling over scoring although Williams led the Palacers in that department, also. Graef was no slouch when it came to scoring either. He was deadly on his long-throws.

Behind Williams, Brown Palace advanced to the second round of the fraternity playoffs. Graef was a steady performer for the fraternity title-winners all the way.

Battey was one of the top scorers in action this year. Although final statistics are not yet completed, he is certain to rank among the top four. He was deadly with any kind of shot and he scored heavily on tip-ins.

Anderson
Anderson led the Phi Psi's in scoring and rebounding. He controlled the boards in all games and even in the only Phi Psi loss, Anderson grabbed 78 percent of the rebounds, both offensively and defensively. Dwehus led Pioneer to the quarter-finals of the playoffs. Behind the scoring and ball handling of this big boy, the Palacers rolled to two consecutive victories before bowing.

Pioneer House grabbed another honor in placing Wes Berry on the second lineup. Runner-up Sigma Phi Epsilon is also represented on this team with Al Hansen at one of the forward slots.

Guards
Teaming up with Hansen at forward is George Paynich of Delta Tau Delta. The two guard berths are held down by Lyle Altman of Sigma Nu and Mickey Sisley of Delta Chi.

Hansen just narrowly missed the first team while all five received plenty of backing.

Fourteen men receive honorable mention making a grand total of 24 men named. All told there were 76 men that received at least one vote in the fraternity "A" balloting.

Tracksters Meet Colorado Saturday in Season Opener

By Marshall Kushner
Nebraska will open its outdoor season in a somewhat unusual manner this season. The Huskers will face the Colorado Buffaloes on the latter's indoor track April 7.

This means that all events will be run indoors, with the exception of the javelin and the discus. There will be no 220-yard dash and the short sprint will be 60 instead of 100 yards.

Coach Ike Hanscom will be making the trip and tutoring the squad in the absence of Coach Ed Weir. Coach Hanscom was still uncertain about the traveling squad as this article went to press.

Since the loss of former Husker cinderman Hobe Jones, Wendell Cole, Wayne Whitaker, and Ken Jacobs, some of the scarlet runners are going to be called upon for extra heavy running duty.

Dale Schnackel will be called upon for points in the 880 to fill the gap left by Jones. Gene Yelken will also double in the 880 from his usual mile race.

Bob Krueger looks like the Husker's only hope in the two mile run. Yelken might possibly be called upon for duty in this event.

In the 440, Barchus, Alexander, Hein, or Kehl could get the call. Hein or Kehl might miss the quarter to compete in the mile relay event.

The squad will leave Lincoln Friday by train and will remain in Boulder until Sunday.

Water Basketball Playoffs Start

The intra-mural water basketball tournament is heading into its final stages.

George Hill, ex-Husker swimmer, has been in charge of the tournament. Hill announced that play-offs in the shallow water division will begin Friday. The deep water tournament will begin Saturday.

Teams will be allowed to play in the tournament if they are ranked either first or second in their league. The tournament will also be a single elimination affair.

Baseballers Start Season Against Drake on April 6, 7

By Marshall Kushner
Nebraska's baseballers will open their 1951 baseball season against the Drake Bulldogs Friday at 3 p. m. on the Husker baseball diamond.

The Huskers may not be used to the brisk outdoor air as yet. "Monday was our first day outside and we're trying to get as acquainted as we can with working outdoors," said Coach Tony Sharpe.

The Husker diamond dazzlers have been working out in the fieldhouse for the past month. Coach Sharpe has been scheduling intra-squad games to give the boys the feel of actual play. During these games, Sharpe has been able to get a fairly good idea of who he can call on for duty this year.

Sharpe will open the initial contest with Johnny Rego at the hot spot corner. The third baseman will also act as lead off man for the team.

Bob Reynolds will handle the keystone sack and will bat second in the Nebraska lineup.

and 8th, respectively. Sharpe plans to use three pitchers for the Drake game. He will send Bill Anderson, Dick McCormick, and Del Kopf for three innings apiece. Sharpe called his mound staff "a good potential crew" but would know more about them after they got actual game experience.

Mladovich
In the intra-squad games held thus far, Mladovich, Dunn, Rego, and Reynolds have shown considerable power at the plate. Mladovich smashed a towering home run Tuesday afternoon.

There will be a B squad game with Nebraska Wesleyan on Monday, April 9. Coach Sharpe announced that he scheduled this game to see the boys who didn't see action in the Drake contest.

The Huskers will play their second game of the Drake two-game series Saturday afternoon.

Coaches' Wives Maintain Strong Interest in Athletics

By Shirley Murphy
Sports Feature Writer
University of Nebraska coaches' wives have one big thing in common. They all enjoy their husbands' particular sport themselves and go to all the games they can.

Hobbies and interests vary greatly, however. Mrs. Alma Glassford is especially interested in tennis, swimming and her little son, Gary.

Mrs. Ann Good likes horseback riding, golf, ping-pong and bridge. During the summer, the family goes to Indiana to spend a vacation swimming and fishing. Mrs. Good rates one of three titles in the sports world. She is either the coach's wife or Joe's or Larry's mother. Coach Good is the University mentor and Joe a varsity player. Larry is a high school star.

of pathos and humor. Her interests and hobbies are all sports. She firmly believes that a wife in any profession must give her husband the moral support he needs.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Franklin's main interest is the children, but she shares her husband's enthusiasm for golf and is an ardent participant in the sport.

Likes Sports
Sports, especially golf and swimming, are hobbies of Mrs. Judy Davis. She is a reading fan, too. Her favorite type of books include historical, romance and adventure stories. Mrs. Davis is a fairly new Lincoln resident. When she first moved here, a salesman appeared at the door trying to sell a cemetery lot.

Said Mrs. Davis, "But my husband is a football coach and we don't know how long we will be here."

The salesman smiled as if to say, "That proves my point."

Mrs. Joan Prochaska is the only one of the wives that attended the University with her husband. As a result, she is very interested in the University's sports.

Her husband and she have many memories to share including the Rose Bowl game. She tries to go to all the games and her other interest is their four-year-old son.

Dean Defends Scholarship

By Jim Petersen
The Big Seven has been charged with "sacrificing all ideals for which college athletics are supposed to stand."

The accusation has been made by Fritz Brennecke, athletic director of the Colorado School of Mines. He also aimed it at the Southeastern and Southwest conferences.

Dr. Earl Fullbrook, chairman of the conference and dean of the Nebraska college of business administration, gave an answer and an explanation to the charges.

Brennecke termed "unprincipled" a recent Big Seven decision to allow board, room, books and tuition fees and incidental expenses not to exceed $15 a month to athletes.

Dean Harry Carlson, athletic director at the University of Colorado, stated that the payments would not exceed $15 a month. He also said this would be the top amount, and in all probability Colorado would not offer that much.

75 Offer Aid
In reference to what Brennecke termed an "all-expense scholarship" to athletes, he stated "obviously there are many schools which can not afford this scholarship program. In fact of the 674 colleges that sponsor intercollegiate football, there are probably not more than 75 who can carry such a financial burden."

In addition to this Brennecke asserted that "by legalizing the all-expense scholarship the Big Seven, Southwest and other conferences will have to match it or they will get only the athletes of inferior caliber."

Little Effect
In reply to this Fullbrook answered that the scholarship program of the Big Seven would not have "much, if any, effect, on other colleges and universities in the area."

"The Big Seven felt it was establishing a maximum aid program, and that it might result in less subsidization of athletes."

"After all, the primary concern of all colleges and universities is scholastic achievement, and it's a pretty well established fact that a man can't give full consideration to his scholastic program, compete in athletics, and earn his way all at the same time."

"If a man is to give the right consideration to his education, then he should be given some help if he is deserving, and competing in an athletic program."

Carodine, Vogt Bordogna Star In Practice

Tuesday's football drills were highlighted by three first year men—Tom Carodine, Don Vogt and John Bordogna.

Quarterback Bordogna possesses a cat-like sense of balance and is hard to knock off his feet. Vogt and Carodine are fast and tricky on their feet.

Standout blockers were tackles George Prochaska and Wayne Handshy. Both repeatedly threw blocks to spring the ball carriers into the clear.

The backfield in 1951 will be heavier. The lightest man out in Bob Decker at 165, and Vogt is the heaviest at 222. The line, however, lacks both size and experience.

The offensive backfield Tuesday included: Carodine, Decker, George Gots, Bill Wiegander, and Vogt half backs. Ray Novak, and Nick Adduci, fullbacks. Bordogna, quarterback.

Linemen were Tony Winey, Clayton Curtis, Joe Ponsieigo, Cliff Dale and Jim Franscen, guards. Ken Schroeder, and Verl Scott, centers. Frank Simon, George Paynich, Bill Giles and Harold Robertson, ends, and Prochaska, Handshy, Harvey Gots and Mervin Anderson, tackles.

Glassford is readying his team for the Varsity-Alumni game which will be a feature of the All-Sports Day on April 14. Last year the varsity was hard pressed to gain a 13-13 tie, and there will be plenty of alumni around to make things hot for the varsity.

Mrs. Weir
Interior decoration is the main interest of Mrs. Josephine Weir. She collects antiques and is a gardener, too. Mrs. Weir says that a coach's wife becomes truly interested in the boys that her husband works with.

One bashful boy who frequently visited the Weir's home didn't feel as free to call out, "Hi Mom," like the other boys did when they saw Mrs. Weir. The Weirs tried very hard to make him feel at ease, but he was just too bashful.

One day, Mrs. Weir went to the train depot to meet the team and her husband when they came in. The bashful boy leaped off the train and greeted Mrs. Weir with "Hi Toots." He was as surprised as she.

"I didn't know anything about baseball until I met Tony," said Mrs. Ruth Sharpe. Now she, too, loves the sport and attends every game. Her interests center around home and the children, and sports at the University.

Mrs. Sharpe
A coach's wife really gets to know the boys on the team," she said, "gets to meet and know them." At one of the football games, Mrs. Sharpe found a resemblance to her husband. "That boy kicks like Tony bats," she cried, "straight up!"

Mrs. Helen Higgenbotham says that any coach's wife's life is full
