MacArthur To Arrive Home Friday

A historic event took place early Monday morning when Gen. Douglas MacArthur arrived in Honolulu after a non-stop flight from Tokyo.

Near-riot raged near the ramp of the Constellation transport, the re-christened "Bataan." The 15-year general, making his first trip to the United States in 41 years, remained aloof to the melee.

The "Bataan"—it was "SCAP" before MacArthur—was stripped of his commands—touched down at Hickam air field at 4:28 a. m. (c.s.t.). Seven minutes later the general set foot on American soil for the first time since his 1944 conference with President Roosevelt.

The scuffle raged a few feet behind the general as he shook hands with Admiral Arthur W. Radford, Hawaii's Gov. Ingram Stainback and Army Secretary Frank Pace, jr.

With the deposed supreme commander were his wife, his 13-year-old son, Arthur, and aides and staff members.

General To Visit Largest Cities

From Hawaii the general will fly to San Francisco, Washington and New York. Time tables for MacArthur's return to his homeland call for him to set foot on the American mainland at San Francisco's international airport sometime after dusk Tuesday.

From San Francisco MacArthur will go to Washington where, in the halls of congress, he will tell his side of the great dispute that resulted in his dismissal by Truman.

House Passes Resolution To Hear MacArthur

The house unanimously agreed to hear Gen. Douglas MacArthur address a joint session of congress Thursday on the foreign policy crisis.

The senate, in recess Monday, was expected to act today to complete the arrangements for the formal speech by the ousted Pacific war hero.

The house acted by unanimous consent upon a request by Democratic Leader John W. McCormack. The senate was expected to do likewise, but under that procedure any senator could still insist on a resolution.

UN Rejects Offer As Red Propaganda

The Pyongyang radio Sunday broadcast a message by Pak Hon Young offering peace under a formula which would carry condemnation of the United States and South Korea for "aggression" against North Korea.

United Nations diplomats generally regarded the North Korean peace offer as a one-sided propaganda trap possibly designed to screen a communist spring offensive.

The messages had not been received at the UN, but officials pointed out that there has been a lag of as much as a full day in previous communications from the communist capitals in the Orient.

Air Force ROTC Increases Quota for Advanced Course

Advanced air force ROTC applicants will continue to be accepted in view of the increased air force enrollment quota, Lt. Col. Alex C. Jamieson of the University Air Force ROTC has announced.

Students accepted for enrollment, he said, will be deferred from induction while pursuing the course. They will be granted commissions in the U.S. Air Force upon completion of the course, he added.

Individuals now applying for the advanced air force courses, Jamieson reports, will be processed either before the end of the school year or next fall depending upon the date on which applications are received.

Because Air Force ROTC enrollment at the University is believed to almost double next year, additional instructors will be assigned to the University in the future. One or two new courses, he commented, may be offered beginning next fall.

Students to be eligible for advanced air force ROTC courses, according to Jamieson, must be either "regularly enrolled students who have completed basic ROTC, veteran or graduate students who are either veterans or who have completed basic ROTC. All individuals must have two years of undergraduate or graduate work to complete in order to be eligible for enrollment."

Information and application forms may be obtained in the Air Force ROTC office, Room 202 of the Military and Naval Science building.

Commissions Due ROTC Seniors

Approximately 80 students in the University ROTC department will be commissioned in the Organized Reserve corps by the end of this school year, the Military Science office announced Monday. These 80 men constitute about one-half of one percent of the 10,500 being commissioned throughout the United States.

Many of these college men have also been deferred from induction so that they may continue their education, but the agreement they have obligated themselves to serve two years on active duty as officers.

Gustavson Talks At Men's Convo

All men students of the University are urged to attend a convocation to be held Wednesday at 5 p. m. in the Coliseum.

Chancellor Gustavson will speak on the latest developments in the national manpower situation.

Specifically the Chancellor will discuss: provisions of the new draft law; the tests which will be offered college men this spring and summer; the possibilities open to college men for postponement of induction; and the ROTC programs of the University.

Dr. Gustavson has been in the nation's capital obtaining the latest information on the selective service program.

Questions from the floor will be invited.

Purpose of Ag Union Told By Larson at 'Union Week'

A group of students attending Ag 'Union Week's' first meeting in the lounge Monday heard Roger Larson describe the purpose of a student Union. They are to function as:

A place for activity programs.

An opportunity for students to increase their ability through social experience.

The living room of the college.

The assistant Union director here spoke of adding recreational facilities on Ag and yet not actually competing with the City Union's program.

He said the Ag Union has the job to provide activities and entertainment that are unique, different and that fulfill a need that cannot possibly be met by the City Union.

On such activities as concerts and lecture series, he said, the Ag and City Unions try to plan jointly.

An Ag college housing program would help the Ag Union's program live closer to the campus.

Convocations Committee Starts Student Opinion Poll

This poll of University students being taken by the University Convocations committee with the help of The Daily Nebraskan is to help the committee plan a well-rounded program for convocations for the school year of 1951-52. It will help to determine in what fields students would prefer convocations and their preferences as to speakers. The budget of the committee was $2,000 this year and will probably be about the same next year. Thus each expenditure must be weighed carefully and the best speakers obtained with such a small sum.

Lack of Attendance

Much of the criticism that has been directed at the committee this year has stemmed from the lack of attendance. The poll is a means of students expressing themselves on whether they would attend the convocations if classes were dismissed. The committee would like to have All-University convocations, but does not have the power to do so, nor does it feel the students' attendance has shown the demand. The dismissal of classes would have to come from the Faculty Senate.

The aim of the University Convocations committee, as set forth by the Faculty Senate is, "to arrange and sponsor all special convocations and public exercises of general interest to the University faculty and student body and of a type that will contribute to the general and special education of all at the University level."

Several Speakers A Year

In the past this has been construed to mean the presentation of several speakers a year. Sometimes program have been sponsored jointly with other organizations or with departments of the University. Only those convocations committee.

The committee is a standing committee of the University Faculty Senate and is composed of five faculty members, the Director of the Student Union and two student members. Members are: LeRoy T. Lasse, Duane Lake, Jan Linguist, Julius Cohen, G. W. Rosenlof, Jack Greer, Carl T. Schneider and Frank Sorenson.

Send all finished poll copies by campus mail to Box 3, Student Union.

Stokes to Speak At Annual Honors Day Convocation NU Will Give Recognition To Scholars on April 24

Dr. Harold Stokes, former University faculty member and past president of Louisiana State university, has been named as speaker for the Honors Day convocation, Tuesday, April 24 at the Coliseum.

Roscoe Hill, chairman of the convocation committee, stated that Dr. Stokes will speak on the subject, "Our American Aristocracy."

DR. HAROLD STOKES

At the present, Dr. Stokes is associated with the national Citizens Commission for Public Schools and is conducting an extensive long-range study of public school teachers and their place in American society.

The convocation, an annual event at the University, will honor all students who have displayed outstanding scholarship. Also those recipients of prizes and scholarship awards will receive recognition.

Last year over 1000 students were honored at the convocation.

Dr. Stokes taught here from 1930 to 1937 as a professor of political theory. In 1940, he served as Dean of the Graduate school. Previous to his affiliation with the University, he served as assistant, associate and professor of political science at Berea college.

Dr. Stokes has a master of arts degree from the University of Southern California and a doctor of philosophy degree from Johns Hopkins university.

Before becoming president of Louisiana State university, the speaker was president of the University of New Hampshire.

In addition to his role as a collegiate educator, he has acted as supervisor of training in public administration, Tennessee Valley authority and, during the war, as consultant in the Bureau of Budgets and chief of the War Records section.

While with the TVA, he traveled as a visiting lecturer.

Other college posts include acting dean of the University of Wisconsin from 1943 to 1944 and assistant dean of the Graduate school there from 1940 to 1944.

Dr. Stokes is the co-author, with Norman L. Hill, of "The Background of European Governments." He also wrote "The Foreign Relations of the Federal State," and numerous articles in law reviews and educational journals.

The speaker is the husband of a Cornhusker alumna, Persis Warren Stokes, '33.

Last year's convocation speaker was Cecil Brown, intermentarian and correspondent.

Prof's to Teach Scientists, MD's Atomic Defense

Five University faculty members, a Lincoln radiologist and state Civil Defense director Edward Gillette will instruct 20 eastern Nebraska doctors and scientists in the defense against an atomic bomb attack beginning Thursday, April 19.

Sessions of the course will not be open to the public.

The faculty members — H. M. McMaster, civil engineer, Dr. H. F. Holtzclaw, Jr., and Dr. W. E. Miltzer, chemists, Dr. Theodore Jorgensen, Jr. and Emerson Jones, physicists—will be assisted by Dr. Marshall Neeley, radiologist, and Mr. Gillette.

McMaster will direct the course. Last year he took a six-weeks course in atomic defense at the Atomic Energy commission's laboratory at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The course is designed to provide Nebraska with the framework for civil defense corps against possible atomic attack. The corps will eventually total over a thousand persons.

The first class will meet once a week starting Thursday and will conclude with a simulated bomb attack on May 26. Class members will then conduct training sessions in their own communities.

Alums Hear Dr. Dunn Speak On Conditions of Med School

The University College of Medicine has suffered a decline because of lack of money, Dr. F. Lowell Dunn, a faculty member of the college, reported Saturday.

Dr. Dunn spoke for the University Medical Alumni association.

"The public is continually informed about the magnificent progress of vitamins, antibiotics, surgery, X-ray and isotope techniques," he said.

"But the College of Medicine is in about the same or in worse condition than before all these things were discovered."

Perhaps something can be done about this according to the 1951-52 state budget bill, certain to be the largest ever recommended to the Nebraska legislature, which is to be laid before the state's lawmakers this week.

The committee reportedly has tentatively approved for the University, $1,500,000 more, or a total of $12,500,000 from the general fund, compared to the governor's recommendation of 11 million dollars and the current appropriation of eight million.

Dr. Dunn said capital improvements needed quickly by the school include:

1. A building which will bring the hospital space up to five hundred beds.
2. An auditorium. Accrediting agencies, he said, have repeatedly criticized the fact that there is no place on the campus where the student body—medical and nursing—can get together at one time.
3. A place for the medical library which now comprises more than 70 thousand volumes.
4. Recreation rooms, a place where students can eat and conference rooms for post-graduate seminars.

Alpha Lambda Delta to Pledge 31

Thirty-one girls will pledge Alpha Lambda Delta, freshmen scholastic honorary, in the faculty lounge in the Union at 5 p. m. Thursday.

Betty Lester, Phyllis Lyons, Mary Mackie, Charlotte Mason, Marjorie Moran, Mary Ann Muligan, Judith Pollock, Nancy Pumphrey, Susan Reinhardt, Barbara Spilker, Janet Steffen, May Van Horne, Shirley Wear, Clementine Woster and Mary Ann Zimmerman.

The pledges will be initiated May 15 in Ellen Smith hall.

'Denim' Dance to End College Days

The Cotton and Denim dance Saturday, April 28, will mark the end of College Days for 1951.

The "very informal" dance at the Coliseum will feature the presentation of the Goddess of Agriculture and her four attendants and the 1951 Whisker King.

The tickets, at $1.80 per couple, will go on sale Wednesday.

Lee Barron will provide the music for the annual affair. Dance co-chairman Phil Olson said that dancers should come in jeans and cotton dresses.

Olson is the representative from the College Days committee and his co-chairman from the Farmers Fair board is Joanne Engelkemier.

There are five finalists for the Goddess of Agriculture. One will be chosen as Goddess and the others will serve in her court.

The Whisker King will be chosen on the basis of the texture, length and uniqueness of the beard by a board of faculty judges.

Cornhusker Royalty

The entertainment at the dance will also include a satirical review of this year's Cornhusker royalty. According to Shirley Coy, chairman of the skit, the review will show the queens "as only their sisters know them."

Lee Barron has included in his band presentations original corn-kits and devices. The audience never knows what the band will try next.

The Barron organization uses the patrons in many of their antics. Dancers are never sure that they will not be called on stage to lead the band, sing with it, name tunes or imitate Donald Duck.

Tune Library

The band has a 400 tune library with every type of tune from polka to be-bop.

Jean Fenster is in charge of the downtown publicity for the dance and Jo Jeffers will handle publicity among the houses. The presentation of the winning beard-grower and the Goddess of Agriculture is the job of Betty Kelo.

Edon Shaffer and Fred Hosterman are the decorating chairmen. Ag ticket sales are the job of Joe Edwards and Wayne Moody.

Jack Cohen, Don Devries and Bev Smith are responsible for ticket sales on the city campus.

Dance tickets may be purchased from Tassels or from the booth in the Union lobby.

University Madrigal Singers Will Present Varied Concert Program Thursday at Union

The University Madrigal Singers, under directorship of David Foltz, will present a concert at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Union ballroom.

An assortment of madrigals, English songs, spirituals, chorals and folk songs will be presented by the group, jointly presented by the School of Fine Arts and the Union music committee.

Director Foltz

Foltz, associate professor of voice at the University, leads a busy life as teacher-musician, as one of the most sought-after music clinic directors in the middle west. Each June he directs the University's all-state fine arts course, a three week session for high school music, art and speech students.

Three years ago, he organized the Madrigal Singers.

Present members of the group are: Robert Martell, John Moran, Joe Feeney, Ray Schamber, Patricia Killion, Nancy Norman, Sue Eastergard McDermott, Sharon O'Vrhees, Joanne Smith, Gladys Novotny, Marjorie Dany, Roberta Lewis, Nancy Button, Janice Fullerton, Audrey Flood, Janice Wagner, Patrick Olson, Alfred States, Milford Myhre, Robert Brown, Lloyd Lotspeich and Jack Wells.

The group will be assisted by a string quartet: Kathleen Forbes, Irene Roberts, Marilyn Harms and Janice Liljedahl.

Filings for Union Committee Chairman Positions Open

Filings for the chairmanship of nine Union committees close Saturday, April 21. The filings for committee members will remain open until the end of the school year.

The requirements for the chairmanship of a Union committee consist of working for one year, two school semesters, as a worker. The pool members work on all of the various Union committees during the year.

The application blanks for committee chairmen, which may be obtained in the Union activities office, request such information as previous positions held in Union activities, particular interest in Union activities, what activity the applicant is interested in, ideas for improving the position desired and improvement ideas for Union activities in general.

University Average Required

The University average requirement for extra-curricular activities is also included on the application blanks. However, the Union does not specify any particular average.

The committee chairmen will be selected by the present and the new Union board during the next week. New board members will be decided by the present Union board of managers next Wednesday, April 25.

Interviews will be held for committee chairmen applicants at a later date which will be announced in The Daily Nebraskan.

The Union activities administrative procedure is headed by the nine board members, Mrs. Genevieve Grimm, activities director and Duane Lake, Union director. Under the board positions comes the committee chairmen, the committee members and the pool workers.

Administration Sees No Need For 'Step-Up'

Despite the existing national emergency and the resulting desire of many high school seniors to enter the University of Nebraska next June, no step-up of the university's summer program is contemplated now.

An administrative council subcommittee, headed by Dean C. W. Borgman, recently has been studying the possibility of an accelerated summer session. However, the existing program is adequate, they have decided, to take care of all high school seniors who may wish to enter the University in June.

Some courses, however, will be added to both the six and eight week summer courses, the committee states, and perhaps a limited number of post-session courses will also be added.

Including the summer session, present class offerings are adequate, they say, to permit students to complete the work for a four-year degree in three years.
