

Museum Shows 16 Replicas

The first of sixteen replicas of typical Nebraska scenic areas will be on display at the University museum.

The scene is an exact replica of ridge country on the Andrew Hottel ranch ten miles west of Harrisburg in Banner county, and a short distance south of famous Wildcat Ridge and Hogback Mountain.

The display reproduces not only the rocks and soil, but plant and insect life. In the center of the display is a bobcat, typical of western Nebraska, which was furnished the Museum by the State Game Forestation and Parks commission.

Dr. C. B. Schultz

The display, or habitat, was constructed under the direction of Dr. C. Bertrand Schultz, museum director, with the assistance of the museum's curators on plant life, soil and rocks, insects and animal life. Nathan Mohler, museum staff artist, painted the background scenes, and the rocks and plants were installed by James Carmel, former assistant artist in the museum.

The bobcat habitat is the first of sixteen which will be featured in a beautifully illuminated Hall of Nebraska Wildlife, located in the ground floor of the museum.

A second familiar Nebraska scene, now ready to be assembled, will illustrate the red fox in the wooded region in the Lower Platte River valley southeast of Ashland.

Other Habitats

Other habitats, which the museum hopes to finance through public subscription to the University Foundation, are:

- (1) Bison on the grassy plains in South Central Nebraska;
- (2) beavers constructing a dam on Beaver Creek in southwest Nebraska;
- (3) coyotes in the barren canyon country south of North Platte;
- (4) raccoons along the North Loup river;
- (5) muskrats

NEW BACKGROUND REPLICA—Pictured above is one of the new scenes that has been constructed for the State Museum at the University. This portrayal is a replica of the ridge country west of Harrisburg in Banner County. It was the first in a series of a series of 16 typical Nebraska scenic areas to be constructed.

in the marshy sandhills country of Cherry county;

(6) Elk among the birch and aspens along the Niobrara river in Cherry county; (7) mule deer in the Fine Ridge country in northwest Nebraska; (8) prong horned antelope along the upper Niobrara; (9) white tailed deer along the Missouri north of Omaha; (10) badgers in the Blue River area southwest of Lincoln and the blue heron on the Missouri near its juncture with the Platte;

Prairie Dog
(12) The prairie dog in south

central Nebraska; (13) the skunk in the Elkhorn valley in north-east Nebraska; and (14) mountain lions and big horn sheep, no longer found in the state, in a scene typical of west Nebraska.

The Hall will give Nebraskans and out of state visitors an opportunity to study sixteen colorful regions of the state, and the widely varied wild plant and animal life found in them.

The museum is open from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

400 Expected for Annual Feeder's Day on Ag Campus

About 4,500 farmers and their wives are expected at the University College of Agriculture campus Friday for the annual Feeder's Day.

The programs starts at 9:15 a.m. with separate programs for men and women.

At the men's portion of the program, Animal Husbandman V. H. Arthaud will speak on "Fattening Cattle on Pasture." Charles H. Adams will discuss "Carcass Qualities of Dual-Purpose Cattle."

Robert Koch, who is in charge of the beef breeding project at Fort Robinson, will discuss plans for the station. Dr. John Matsushima will talk on safflower seed meal as a cattle feed and the vitamin A requirements of cattle.

At 11 a.m. there will be an inspection of the experimental cattle at the cattle barn. Prof. William J. Loeffel, chairman of the animal husbandry department, said cattle to be shown will include those on wintering and fattening rations, some animals being fed individually, some fed different rations of calcium and phosphorus and some on a vitamin A deficient diet.

Dean Lambert

At the afternoon session, Dean W. V. Lambert of the College of Agriculture will outline progress that has been made in animal experimentation. Wesley Biehl, young farmer from Lexington, is scheduled to speak on the efficient use of grass in beef production.

Miss Florence Atwood, state home extension leader, will preside at the morning session for the women. There will be a musical program under the direction of Mrs. Altnas Tullis, director of the Agricultural college chorus.

Professor Adams will give tips on wrapping meat for the freezer locker. Prof. Kenneth Cannon of the home economics department, will present some ideas on "Understanding our Teen-Age Children."

Indian Family Life

Following lunch there will be a session with Dr. Doretta Schlapphoff, chairman of the home economics department, presiding. Family life in India will be out-

Public Warned Against False Ad Campaigns

The Better Business bureau is warning the public about the new "We Remember Campaign" which tries to get donations for different campaigns.

If you have been sent key holders, plastic crosses, dog tags, or other items and have been asked for contributions to this or that campaign, take heed to what the Veteran administration has to say about the subject.

Life Saving Class Offered

A senior life-saving and water safety course is now being offered by the University. The course is open to any University student who wishes to improve his swimming ability.

It is free of charge and the only requirement is that anyone wishing to register must first procure a swimming permit. These permits are obtainable at the Student Health Center.

The course offers the technique of lifesaving and practical application of breaks, holds and rescues.

The course is taught every day from 4:00 to 5:30 p.m. The life-saving lasts two weeks and the water safety follows it and also lasts two weeks. The course is well worth the time because it is something you can always use, and it may even save your life some day.

Men who are qualified instructors and who are interested in helping to teach this class should contact Hollie Lepley in his office at the P.E. building or at the pool.

Coed Dramatists To Present Play

"Over the Teacups," a comedy telling a story of two old women in financial trouble, will be presented April 24 at 7 p.m. in Room 205 Temple.

The cast of this student production includes Joan Cutler, Emily Tucker; Snooky Corryell, Mrs. Polhemus; Joan Farmer, Betsy Young; Nancy Dark, Mary Beardsley.

Jack Westrand is supervising the play and Myrt Suverkrubbe is the production manager. Marcia Burkland is the director.

No admission is being charged for the play.

aneous thinking. Some students think there is a specific answer to every illness and that can cure immediately.

"Mass diagnosis" has loomed as a favorite comment of some who feel that doctors simply term any sickness with which they are unfamiliar, "glandular fever." However, if the doctors are ever unsure about their own diagnosis, they may call upon paid part-time specialists for aid. It is doubtful that Student Health doctors incorrectly diagnose more illnesses than a downtown doctor would.

Sunday Service?

4. Students think there should be Sunday service. They also think there should be night call service.

Answer: Clinic hours are from eight to five on weekdays and eight to twelve on Saturdays. Often, students who could come in during these hours, do not, instead pay their visits after the doctors have gone home, and expecting a complete diagnosis and treatment from the nurse or receptionist on duty.

Nevertheless, doctors are obliged to care for any emergency case when called, after hours. Night calls were abandoned because it was felt too expensive and inefficient a service to maintain.

Athletes' Expense

Answer: No expenses incurred by treatment of athletes is paid for by the regular student fee of $6.50 per semester. All costs are met by the athletic department. Under Student Health supervision, an adequate program of preventative medicine is provided for the care of athletes.

to the student body for ratification, after it has been approved by the Student Council. By-laws on specific procedure will be written later.

Faculty Rating Discussed

Another issue discussed by the Council was the faculty rating system, which is to be in effect by next fall. The campus improvements committee has been working with a faculty committee to set up a rating system.

The Purdue rating scale would be used under the proposed system, which would be entirely voluntary on the part of instructors. Materials would be made available for faculty rating, but results would not be given to deans or heads of departments unless such action was unanimously approved by the instructors concerned.

It Happened at NU...

Not so very long ago, one instructor on campus proceeded to explain to his class about the ways and wherefores of depressions.

He said, enlarging on the idea, that during such times, people got the idea that everything capable of being accomplished had been completed, and that there was no place for them in this country.

"That is why some poor souls settled up in Alaska," he concluded.

"Please!" protested one of his students, "I have relation living up there!"

Feeders Day Plans Include Talks, Tours

The 39th annual Feeders day is scheduled at Ag college Friday.

The morning session in the Activities building will include talks on "Fattening Cattle on Pasture" by V. H. Arthaud; "Carcass Qualities of Grazing Cattle" by Charles H. Adams; "Cattle Breeding Plans" by Robert Koch; "Safflower Seed Meal as a Cattle Feed" by Dr. John Matsushima; and a discussion of cattle on display by T. W. Dowe.

At 11 a.m. the crowd will move to the cattle barn to pens of experimental cattle.

In the afternoon, Dean W. V. Lambert will discuss "Progress in Animal Experimentation," and Wesley Biehl of Dawson county will talk on "Efficient Utilization of Grass in Beef Production."

Dr. G. B. Browning of Iowa State college will describe "Feeding - Grazing Experiments in Southwestern Iowa" and T. W. Dowe will review this year's experimental work at the University. Dr. M. L. Baker will speak on "Increasing the Efficiency of Beef Production."

Husband, Wife Team Combine To Win Phi Beta Kappa Keys

Husband and wife—both Phi Beta Kappas. This is the status of Donald Jensen and Janet Kepner Jensen. The couple were elected to membership in the honorary society Monday evening.

Donald and Janet met in the summer of 1946 at the University All-State fine arts course. She was studying music while he was studying speech. Both were high school juniors. The following year they were together again as they both took part in speech activities at All-State.

Osceloa is Janet's home town while Donald comes from Holdrege. After their summers at All-State, both came to the University to continue their education. They were married last August and continued their senior year in college together.

Mrs. Jensen is majoring in speech correction and French. Psychology is her husband's major field. Both hope to continue their education next year in graduate school. However, Mr. Jensen's ROTC commission may interfere with their plans.

Acting and working backstage in the University theater has occupied much of Mrs. Jensen's spare time. She had roles in "The Two Mrs. Carrills" and "Once in a Life Time."

MR. AND MRS. FBK—In real life, Mr. and Mrs. Phi Beta Kappa are Donald Jensen and Janet Kepner of Osceloa. Mr. Jensen is a psychology major, while his wife is specializing in speech correction. Both plan to continue their studies with graduate work.

The Late George Apley Showing at Union Sunday

"The Late George Apley," the screen adaptation of the John P. Marquand novel, will be shown Sunday, April 22 at 7:30 p. m. in the main lounge of the Union.

Ronald Colman and Peggy Cummins have the starring roles.

Outstanding Scholars to Receive Recognition At 23rd Annual Honors Convocation April 24

Students who have demonstrated superior scholarship will be honored Tuesday, April 24, at the 23rd annual Honors Convocation.

The traditional ceremony will begin at 10 a.m. at the coliseum.

Included in the list of honorees will be the names of those senior students who during the two preceding semesters have been in the upper 3 per cent of their respective colleges, and of those who will have been on the Honors List since matriculation as freshmen.

The list will also include the names of those students recognized as being in the upper 10 per cent of each class of each college or school.

In addition, announcement of prizes and awards will be made.

Dr. Stoke to Speak

Dr. Harold Stoke, former University faculty member and past president of Louisiana State university, will deliver the address. He will speak on "Our American Aristocracy."

Chancellor R. G. Gustavson will preside at the ceremony. Rev. Gordon H. Schroeder of the First Baptist church will act as chaplain.

Members of the Innocents society and of Mortar Board society will serve as ushers.

Orchestra to Perform

The University Symphony Orchestra, directed by Emmanuel Weichnow, will furnish a special program of music for the occasion.

Speaker Stoke is presently engaged in conducting a long-range study of public school teachers and their place in American society. He is associated with the National Citizens Commission for Public Schools.

Dr. Stoke taught here from 1930 to 1937 as a professor of political theory. In 1940, he served as dean of the Graduate school. Before his affiliation with the University, he was assistant associate and professor of political science at Berea college.

He received an M.A. degree from the University of Southern California and a Ph.D. degree from John Hopkins university.

Dr. Stoke, before becoming president at Louisiana State, served as president of the University of New Hampshire.

Other College Posts

Other positions Dr. Stoke has held as a college educator include acting dean of the University of Wisconsin from 1943 to 1944, and assistant dean of the Graduate school there from 1940 to 1944.

Other duties included supervisor of training in public administration of the Tennessee Valley authority and, during the war, as consultant in the Bureau of Budgets and chief of the War Records section.

He has co-authored with Norman Hill, "The Background of European Governments." He also wrote "The Foreign Relations of the Federal State," and numerous articles in law reviews and educational journals.

A luncheon for faculty members has been arranged for 12 noon at the Union, Parlors X, Y and Z.
