

Kansas State Here Today; Huskers Club Jayhawkers

By Marshall Kushner
Staff Sports Writer

Nebraska unleashed a furious battery of base hits against the University of Kansas to win the second game of their two-game series, 21-7, Thursday afternoon. The Huskers seemed to free themselves of their failure to hit against the Kansans in their opening game by pounding out a total of 18 hits. Only three of this total were good for extra bases.

Bob Dier also made up for his batting slump in the opening game by blasting two round trippers and a single in five official appearances. Diers was the individual batting standout of the game. He personally accounted for knocking in seven runs.

The Huskers literally stole the game from the Jayhawks. The Husker nine was able to steal 13 bases during the encounter. Bob Reynolds was successful in his risky attempt to steal home, a feat that few can lay claim to. Shortstop Bill Jensen acted as the Huskers' top thief. He successfully "swiped" five bases.

Four Apiece
Johnny Rego and Bill Fitzgerald were not to be outdone by their sparkling performances. Both boys clubbed out four hits apiece off the hurling of the Jayhawks' pitching. Rego's were all singles, while Fitzgerald got three base knocks and a screaming double.

Del Kopf started on the mound for the Huskers and went the entire route. He pitched 10-hit ball and struck out five men. He walked a total of eight men.

Jack Stonestreet started on the mound for the Jayhawks and was relieved in the inning by Honan. Hodan was blasted off the hill in the seventh and Harris came on to complete the game. Stonestreet was charged with the loss.

Kansas State Here
The Huskers will open a new campaign against the Kansas State Wildcats in Lincoln on April 23 and 24. Coach Sharpe will bring his "conquering heroes" home after winning three of their four road games.

The Wildcats will bring a very dependable crew to Lincoln. The team seems to be built around two ace hurlers, Jim Iverson and Pork Reitemeyer.

Huskers Third In Big-Seven Table Tennis

The University of Nebraska will be the host to the next Big Seven table tennis tournament next year. The announcement was made at the Big Seven tournament held this year at Lawrence, Kansas April 6 and 7. Four teams entered the tournament this year. Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, and Kansas State all sent representatives to the first tournament of its type held in the conference.

Kansas won team honors in the double round robin tournament by winning six games without a defeat. The Kansans were led by state table tennis champion, Fletcher Abbey.

Colorado, Second
Colorado placed second by winning four out of their six matches. Nebraska took third by winning two and losing four games. Kansas State met with no success in their six games.

Nebraska sent Jack Cohen, Ed Sarkissian, and Carl Fahrenbach as its representatives to the tournament. These men were selected after an all-university single elimination tournament previous to the conference meet.

against the Huskers, then he will switch to left field garden spot. In cast Reitemeyer pitches, then the whole outfield set-up is changed around.

Coach Ray Wauthier will probably send Reitemeyer against the Huskers on the opening game and save Iverson for the series finale on Tuesday.

Five Return
Coach Wauthier has molded this year's team around five returning lettermen. Last year's Wildcat nine won 10 out of their 24 game schedule. This is Coach Wauthier's first year at the Wildcat school.

Coach Sharpe has not indicated his starting pitcher for the opening game, but he will probably use Gil Phelps, Dick McCormick, or George Nutt.

Bob Lohrborg will probably work behind the plate in the first game and teammate Jack Shull will catch for the second game of the series. This was the arrangement made during the Wichita series. Both shared duties during the Kansas games.

The Husker diamondmen have compiled a record of four wins against two losses. The Huskers' mark in the conference is .500 as a result of the split with Kansas.

Sooner Sets School Marks

Six consecutive victories by fall and 16 consecutive bouts won, both believed new school records, were established this season by Tommy Evans, University of Oklahoma sophomore 137-pound wrestler from Tulsa, Okla.

Evans' long victory string was finally ended in the finals of the National Collegiate tournament last week at Bethlehem, Pa., when George Layman of Oklahoma A&M, also a Tulsa, defeated him 7-5 in the hard-fought final.

Evans had defeated Layman 7-5 at Stillwater in an earlier dual meet.

Blocking and Tackling Stressed by Meek

By Shirley Murphy

Bill Meek, head coach at K-State, warned his candidates before spring drills, that they would learn how to block and tackle r sit on the bench.

Meek has been proving to his boys that this wasn't just an idle threat. After a workout, he remarked, "They're finally beginning to get the idea. If there wasn't anyone right there for them to block, they were going out looking for someone to knock down."

Meek starred as a blocking back at Tennessee. He learned his blocking and tackling under one of the nation's top masters of the art, Gen. Bob Neyland. Meek hasn't forgotten these lessons for he points out that a team can go a long way without individual stars if it can block and tackle with authority.

"We're not going to have any of our best men sitting on the bench this fall," he said. "A fifth string center may find himself playing first team guard if we think he has the stuff."

The instigation of these views is what Big Seven football teams will be facing next fall from the Kansas Staters.

Tennis championships have been adding up for the Oklahoma Sooners. In the 19 years the Sooners have sponsored a varsity tennis team, they have won 13 championships.

Winter sports at Iowa State have a nearly "even Stephen" record. The Cyclones teams won 25 while losing 20 during their 1950-51 season.

Swimmers lead the parade of records with nine won and one lost. Cyclone cagers won nine and lost 12. Wrestlers and track men emerged with balanced records of five won, five lost and two won, two lost, respectively.

'Huskers' Book On Sale Friday

"Spotlighting the Husker Greats of Yesterday and Today," an 88-page book with pictures of players and a review of football at the University of Nebraska since 1890 goes on sale Friday, L. F. Klein, director of concessions announced.

The book also provides a preview of the 1951 season, Mr. Klein said.
All varsity football players will handle the sale of the books which are priced at $1. Mail orders should include an additional 25 cents for postage and handling.

Among the features of the book are the stories of the late Henry Schulte, a profile of C. S. Sherman who named the Cornhuskers, and Coach Bill Glassford.
Pictures of the current players with thumbnail sketches plus pictures of former All America players are also included.

Walt Dobbins, sports editor of the Journal, wrote a 50-year history of Nebraska football.
A review of the Rose Bowl game and also a story about "Mr. Touchdown, U. S. A." (Bob Reynolds) is also a part of the Cornhusker saga.

Records of games won and lost through the years with the coaches who were at the Cornhusker helm during the years of football's growth at Nebraska is included. This should help settle many arguments which arise over past performances of the Nebraska team.

A roster of the spring football squad also is included.
The varsity football players selling the books receive a 25 cent commission on each book. All profits from the book goes into the grants-in-aid fund to help needy athletes.

Tigers Surpass Trackmen In Outdoor--Indoor Duel

The University of Nebraska tracksters surprised powerful Missouri Friday afternoon and pushed the Tigers all the way before falling 64-53. It was a strange track meet all the way with four events being staged in a driving rain, two events cancelled and the other nine of the scheduled outdoor meet moved indoors.

The Huskers grabbed seven of the 13 first place honors and fell behind mainly in the distance runs. The Tigers swept all three places in these two events with ace Bill McGuire taking the mile and Jerry Piper winning the two mile. Both events were run in the rain.

Don Bedker led the Huskers with two victories, scoring wins in both the hurdles. Lee Alexander surprised the Tigers by copping first place honors in the 60-yard dash.

Dale Schnackle turned in his best performance of the year and won the 880-yard run in the good time of 1:58.8 on the indoor track.

Dick Meissner had no trouble taking top honors in the high jump and Don Cooper and Leny Kehl took things easy and tied for first in the pole vault.

Lowell Neilson garnered first place in the discus throw with a heave of 117, feet 3 3/4 inches. This event, which had to be staged outdoors, presented almost impossible footing for the throwers.

The relay along with the 220-yard dash were cancelled. The relay was scheduled until the Tigers clinched victory in the broad jump and no reason was seen for the baton-handing.

Stovall Clinches Win
Laddie Stovall got off a jump of over 23 feet in the broad jump on his next to last try to surpass Huskers Glenn Beerline and Irving Thode. Until Stovall's leap the first place honor was tentatively grasped by Thode and the Huskers were still in the running. The Tiger's jump, however, added eight points to the Tiger lead and that was the track meet.

With the Huskers so terrifically handicapped with the loss of several men to the air-guard a month ago, the Tigers were supposed to surpass their run-away they produced in their indoor dual. With Schnackle, Alexander and Bedker coming through with unsuspected power, however, the Huskers proved that they still had to be contended with.

Saved Themselves
Cooper took only two vault to share first place honors at 12-6 in the vault. Both he and teammate Kehl saved themselves for the Kansas Relays scheduled to be run off on Saturday.

No results have been received on the KU Relays at this paper's printing. Coach Weir had sent an 11-man squad to represent Nebraska in the annual Kansas doing.

LOWELL NEILSON . . . Husker discus thrower, placed first with a heave of 117 feet, 3 3/4 inches.

Triple Golf Meet for IS Next Friday

For the golfing fan who likes lots of it in a hurry it might be well to mark the date of April 27.

That's the day that Iowa State plays host to the annual Iowa Collegiate golf meet, an 18-hole medal play tournament for all the college teams in Iowa.

Later in the day the Cyclones will also play a dual match with the University of Colorado. During the course of the Iowa Collegiate, Drake and Iowa Teachers will also play a dual match.

The Cyclones are defending team champions for the event.
