Just Wait a While . . .

"If you don't like Nebraska's weather just wait a while."

Everybody who doesn't know this, learns it in short order upon coming to Nebraska.

The juniors and seniors have found this out in their plans for a junior-senior class day. The first time the picnic was scheduled, it snowed the day before. So the picnic was called off. Then, the next day turned out to be one of the sunniest of the year. The following week, was beautiful except for the day of the picnic, which brought forth a downpour.

It's time some of the graduate students at the University got busy and figured out some way by which the weather could be controlled. After all, it is very disturbing to find one's plans completely upset by the elements.

Think of all the picnics and athletic contests that have been cancelled because of the elements.

University parking lots are especially delightful during rainy weather. Large mud puddles offer University coeds a place to soak their little tootsies.

One disgusted coed remarked, "Three days in a row I brought my raincoat and carried the dern thing around with me. The next day I didn't bring it and got soaked." Such is Nebraska weather.

Rainy weather also delights coeds who go to formal dances. The hem of their sheer dresses drag through the mud, creating a lovely effect. The water squishes up in their toeless shoes. Nebraska's late spring failed to bring out the leaves on bushes and trees until only about a week ago. Lovers of beauty were denied the beauty of spring time, when everybody's fancy lightly turns.

Such a difference the weather makes in the attire. Everyone was wearing their dreary old winter togs. Now, out come the colorful spring clothes.

Dern such weather, anyway.—t.r.

KNUS Staff Back to Normal
After Busy College Days

By Art Epstein

It's been a busy week around KNUS! . . . Broadcasting from 9:30 a.m. till 5 p.m. during College Days . . . painting part of the KNUS office a violent brick-red . . . watching KNUS staff heads, Lois Nelson, Dick Carson, Gay Marr, and Dutch Meyers wowing the packed houses at each performance of "Good News" . . . Yep, it's been a busy week!

But KNUS is back on schedule now, from three to five p.m. each weekday afternoon, at 710 on your radio dial. And the KNUS staff's wondering what you think of your University station, now that it's been on the air for a few weeks. You've had a chance to listen, n' to look it over; so why don't you send a few of your comments, via campus mail, to KNUS—c/o Gaylord Marr, Basement of the Temple building. No kidding, KNUS wants to hear from you!

Now for a little news on today's line-up of shows. This Thursday afternoon is music, sports, and fashion afternoon; so get set for a full two hours on enjoyment plus! Here's the starting line-up:

"Especially for You," "Disc Jockey's Jamboree" and "Johnny's Pop Shop" begin KNUS—Thursday at 3, 3:15 and 3:30 p.m., respectively. That's forty-five minutes of solid listening to tunes and lyrics which are all modern but all in different styles—from the dreamy numbers that put you into one of those sweetly melancholy moods to the sophisticated Kenton and Ellington-style discs that have you hopping up and down your dorm or house halls.

Incidentally, the radio section's recent purchase of the complete Langworth record library gives you tunes from hot to sweet, from classical to up-to-the-minute jazz. And every style of KNUS music, be it ricky-tick or smo-o-o-oth, is interspersed between another style—just to keep you guessing —n' listening!

There's a 15-minute break from music at 4 p.m., when femmes fatale, Evvie Anderson and Jo Melton, take over on "Fashion Spotlight," a show that's labelled "for women only" but which has a growing male audience as spring comes, and fashion news turns to thoughts of bathing suits.

Following "Fashion Spotlight," it's the men's turn with "Final Sports Edition." KNUS is especially proud of this show, 'cuz it covers not only the important campus, but the national, sporting scene as well. What's more, some of the low-down comes from the press-service wires, guaranteeing you accuracy and reliability.

My gosh, it's 4:30 p.m. already and time for a generous half-hour of "Platters from the Past."

This is a show that brings back the oldies and puts you in a reminiscin' mood—with nostalgic memories of the flapper era, the Charleston craze, and the good ol' days when Ma and Pa were young and 23-Skiddoo! The strains of the old Paul Whiteman orchestra, Al Jolson's throaty "Mammy!" and the mellow tones of the famous Bix Beiderbecke trumpet... I could rave on for hours, but why don't you listen for yourself this afternoon?

Well, that's it for Thursday. Why not twist the old dial to 710 at 3 p.m. and give a listen to KNUS—for a well-rounded day of music, fashion, music, sports, and—you guessed it—music. And don't forget to drop that note to KNUS, via campus mail. We're waiting to hear from you!

More news next time—keep listening!

Exhausted Daughter Portrays
Average 'Life Span' of Coeds

Dear Mom and Dad:

Here I sit at 12:30 a.m. writing you a letter after a difficult night of studying. You would think that a college with so many activities that keep you busy, would let up on the assignments. I'm so behind now I don't know if I'll be a second semester freshman or a first semester sophomore next year!

College Days are over and it has left its scar. Blisters all over your poor daughter's fingers from putting paper through chicken wire and a lame foot from stepping on a nail while pounding one of the boards for the framework of the float. After all that work and then we didn't even win first place. What did they want—anyway???

Mother, you know how I detest lemon meringue pie! Well, yours truly entered in the pie eating contest that was part of College Days out on Ag campus. They placed a pie in front of me after tying my hands behind my back and what did I see but a lemon meringue pie! Well, "your right then before even attempting to the Cotton-Denim dance, tempt," as that is about all the further I got with it. It seemed as if I had been eating forever but when I looked down at the pie there was just a small dent in the center. A small case of indigestion followed several hours later and prevented me from going to the Cotton Denim dance. My date wasn't very pleased with this announcement but after all I couldn't go when I looked so green in the face!

Do you still love me? It seems like I haven't had any mail for so long I wonder if you still know you have a daughter going to school. Speaking of love, I think I have more troubles than any girl in this university. Pete, Tom and Dale all called me for Saturday night. Here the year is almost over and I don't have a pin yet! Just because I weigh 200 pounds, (by the by, send me some of those chocolate cookies) have buck teeth and thick glasses. Honestly, just nobody loves me!

Oh, the tricks they play on me when I do get a date. Dale and Gale, identical twins, dated Susie and I the other night. They wore red and black plaid shirts which didn't help the matter of telling them apart. Half way through the night they left us and when they returned, they switched dates. We didn't know till two days later that one of them took us to the picnic and the other took us home.

My arthritis ails me again but I hope that it doesn't mean more rain. With this weather my natural straight hair doesn't help my looks any, and when I wear my crepe soled shoes the water squeezes out of them like a sponge... hint, hint for a new pair of shoes.

Ivy Day is Saturday and the girls haven't even asked me to sing with them. I've been practicing like mad so I could be ready when they asked me to join them. The lists have been sent in by now so I know they aren't going to ask me. Do you know that I can sing two notes now? Therefore, I'm no longer a monotone! Education is helping me in some ways!

As a clock I must wind it up for now. Do write and come down and see me soon.

Your loving daughter,
"Butch."

Comedy of Errors

In the spring a young man's fancy turns to love but there are a few repercussions heard from this sex.

"What's your new girl's name?"

"I call her baseball."

"Baseball? What do you call her that for?"

"She won't play without a diamond."

The Alpha Chi seniors took their sneaks Monday night and brought confusion to the whole house. Seems they called a dance teacher from the Arthur Murray dance studios, a vacuum cleaner salesman and a professor to talk on morals, to the house to keep the rest of the girls entertained for the evening.

Ever hear of passing bubble gum instead of candy? Norma Jean Meyers passed the gooey stuff to the DG sisters to announce her engagement to Gene Schuman.

Towne Club held their annual formal at the Cornhusker hotel last Friday evening. At intermission time they presented the Typical Towne club Girl, Leonor Strain. Her attendants were Pat Conway and Jo Naatz. Dancing to the music of John Scheldeneck was Barbara Roland and Bob Ketterer, Henri Hagelberger and Jim Weldon, Wanda Bott and Bob Mercier, Betty Topple and Bob Chennock, Gloria Sell and Lloyd Sherrard.

Pinnings: Marilyn Smith and Jim German, Mary Kay Tolliver and Bob Spearman, Jackie Hoss and Bob Rosenlof, Nancy Porter and Bill Long.

Steadies: Kathy Corp and Jim Buchanan and Ray Novak and Roger Dallan.

Engagements: Marilyn Holmgren and Bill Kuebler, Pat Gilbreath and Dave Manard.

If you see any Sigma Kappas on the campus, ask them if they are intact. Their pledges had a so-called scavenger hunt Monday night and took a few of their unmentionables and hid them.

Bev Mann is now available for phone calls, due to a put up job by her friends. Seems that a report came in that she was going steady and it is totally erroneous.

Party-line for this weekend.
