Dr. Condra's Achievement List Is Long

By Jane Randall
As Col, Clarence J. Frankforter
so aptly put it on Ivy Day
George E. Condra is truly the 'grand old man"-not only of the Innocents society, but the whole University and the state of Nebraska as well.

Dr. Condra, Chief of the Con-servation and Survey division at the University, has indeed de-voted his life to maintaining the welfare of the people of Nebraska and those beyond the state's borders as well.

lowan By Birth An Iowan by birth, Contra first came to the University in 1898, at which time he received his masters degree. During that period, he served the schools in Lincoln, not only as an instructor but as a basketball coach as well. In fact, he boasts of having coached a state championship basketball team at that time.

His part in training the youth of the state had just begun, although his ambition to pursue the work he has chosen-conservation dated back to an incident which occurred in his own family Well-Water Fatal

One day, his young son, who took a liking to the outdoors along with his father, went on a hike with one of his playmates. The farther into the countryside they probed, the thirstier they became. Finally, coming upon an old abandoned well, they took advantage of the water it had to

A Broad Scope

Since 1902, when he joined the University faculty, Condra's field of activity has become quite a bit

"Now look here, just because I'm a freshman that's no reason I'll believe everything!"
"But, I tell you, it's not the spring heat, it's the Ag college Magnolia tree."

Located sround 50 feet east of Love Memorial hall, the tree is sheltered behind three large fir and evergreens.
Flowers are large, fragrant, with white blossoms, tinted with pink. Imagine a 20 foot spire with all blossoms—no leaves!

A rarity in Nebraska because of our erratic climate, the Magnolia generally takes to a mild climate and a protected environment. Only a few such trees are known to exist in Lincoln.

True to form, the Aggies pride blossome early last week and will have its colored dress only a few days longer. Then the tree will appear lifeless until next spring when it again will wear its spring bonnet and cape.

The proud girls at Love hall invite stadent flower lovers to see their rare tree specimen. Although they caution that it cannot be seen from the street.

There is a $25 fine for picking the blossoms.
