

Enrollment Expected To Exceed 6500

With slightly more than 5,500 students registered last week, the estimated enrollment of 6,500 appeared within easy reach Monday afternoon.

Dr. Floyd W. Hoover, acting director of registration and records, and Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, director of admissions, were optimistic about exceeding the 6,500 figure. Dr. Hoover estimated that five hundred graduate students would register before the Sept. 22 deadline and that College of Medicine registration would total approximately the same.

In addition, the assignment committee registered quite a large number of late students Monday.

Although last year's pre-class registration totaled only a hundred more than this year's, the final University population figure was more than eight thousand students. Dr. Hoover explained that an entirely different counting system was used last year and that therefore a comparison of pre-class registration in the two years is no accurate indication of total registration.

While undergraduate registration was scheduled to end last week, registration in the graduate college will continue until Sept. 29.

Students who wish to drop or add courses may do so today in the Military Science building. Those who wish to change schedules after today need the written permission of the instructor.

Three steps are necessary for changing registration:

1. See your adviser for permission for change. With his help fill out the drop and add sheet.
2. See your dean, or if you are a freshman, see the Junior Division.
3. See the assignment committee.

A drop and add fee of $2.50 is assessed.

Show Tickets Now On Sale

Season tickets for the University Theatre's 1951-52 productions are now on sale at the Theatre box office in the Temple building. In addition, these tickets may be purchased from Theatre members, Kosmet Klub members or house representatives.

Three stage plays are scheduled for the coming school year. On Oct. 30 and 31 the Theatre will perform Shakespeare's "Othello." December 18 and 19 it will present Robert Sherwood's "Idiot's Delight." Elmer Rice's "Street Scene" is set for March 25 and 26.

Tickets for each individual play will cost $1.50 apiece. These tickets will go on sale at the box office a week before each scheduled production and may be purchased up to curtain-time.

Students Greet Returning Cornhuskers At Pep Rally

Over 500 University new students, including Tassels, Corn Cobs, cheerleaders, and pep band, greeted the University Cornhuskers on their arrival from Curtis, fall training camp, at the University Coliseum Sunday afternoon.

As the Husker coaches and players stepped from their busses, Nebraska student fans massed in front of the Coliseum to welcome the team.

Cheerleaders, pausing first for individual hellos to the Huskers, led the first rally attendees of this season in several Nebraska cheers.

First on the list of speakers to greet the student pepsters was Coach Bill Glassford.

Glassford, who spent two weeks at Curtis hampered by bad weather and injuries by his gridders, welcomed the freshmen to the University and wished them success in their four years at Nebraska.

sections of a course may do so by seeing the chairman of the department.

Norden Leads Denomination Student House

The Rev. Alvin J. Norden, of Fair Oaks, Calif., will assume the position of Lutheran-Mo. Synod student pastor at the University on Friday.

He succeeds the Rev. Henry Erk, who was forced to resign several weeks ago because of illness. Erk had served as counselor for Lutheran men and women at the University for 27 years.

Norden received his training at Concordia seminary in St. Louis, graduating in 1942. He comes to the University after serving a pastorate in Fair Oaks.

His office will be in the YMCA office in the Temple.

Since Erk's resignation, the Rev. A. G. Ahlman, pastor of Christ Lutheran church in Lincoln, has been counselor for the 300 Lutheran students on the campus.

It Happened at NU . . .

Monday the fateful drawing for football ticket sections began at the Coliseum. Student representatives from organized campus houses appeared to reach into a batch of numbers from one to 6,000 to receive their game sections.

At approximately 10:43 a.m., all-American Bob Reynolds put in an appearance to draw for seats for members of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

With his good arm, Reynolds reached into the large box, paused to take hold of a ticket, and pulled out the Phi Psi fate.

In his good left hand Reynolds held number 14. Which meant that, even injured, the Nebraska all-American had defeated chance and practically put his fraternity brothers on the stadium 50-yard line for this coming season.

NU Galleries To Schedule Ten Exhibits

Ten art exhibits are scheduled at the University galleries in Morrill Hall for the first semester.

Work done in water colors and oils during the classes of the University summer session are being exhibited this week. Walter Meigs, assistant professor of art, instructed these classes.

Students' work will also be on exhibition from Sept. 21 through Oct. 14. The exhibition will consist of page proofs and a selection of the drawings and paintings used to illustrate a new text in art education.

The All Nebraska Art show and the Nebraska Art association's fall show are included in the semester's schedule. The dates for these are Sept. 28 through Oct. 12 and from Oct. 18 through Nov. 9 respectively.

Highlighting the All Nebraska Show will be a reception on Sept. 30 for Alice Edmiston, honored artist of the year. Juror of the show will be John West, director of the Sioux City Art Center.

"Designers Today" will be featured in two of the exhibitions. These will be devoted to the work of outstanding artists in the fields of commercial and industrial design.

The first designers exhibition will be by David Stone Martin who has achieved nation-wide fame through his designs for record album covers. Besides many of the covers and other commercial work, Martin will display a series of illustrations for "Scientific America." This will be shown from Oct. 5 through Nov. 11.

The second designers exhibition will be by Lillian Garrett, a native of Beatrice, Neb., and a graduate of the University of Nebraska's art department. This exhibition will be shown from Jan. 4 through Feb. 17.

A faculty member of the Minneapolis School of Art, she has been active as an independent textile designer and has won several awards for her work in this field.

From Nov. 16 through Dec. 30 "Art For Use" will be exhibited. The exhibition will consist of materials of contemporary design including furniture, textiles, ceramics and glass, metalware, electrical equipment and professional equipment.

"Architecture and the City Plan," sponsored by the Lincoln chapter of the American Institute of Architects, will be exhibited. This is devoted to a review of the specifically architectural aspects of the problems of city planning.

The quarterly meeting of the Nebraska chapter of the A.I.A. on Dec. 1 will be a special event of this exhibition.

Big Rush Begins For '51 Football Tickets; Cornhuskers To Hustle For Game Seats

Stadium System

EAST STADIUM

ENTRANCES PLAINLY MARKED . . . This illustration shows the student, public and faculty entrances which will be used at all football games this fall. The system which was initiated last year proved very successful.

Sales Remain Untouched By Reynold's Fate

Cornhusker fans had better hustle if they expect to get tickets to Nebraska football games.

All reserved seat tickets have long been gone, and by Monday only a few bleacher seats remained for the Penn State and Oklahoma games. Bleacher space for the other three home games was selling fast.

The University ticket office reported Monday morning that the recent injury of Bobby Reynolds seemed to have had no immediate effect upon ticket sales.

The ticket office also announced that student and faculty gates into the stadium will be the same as last year. The Daily Nebraskan is publishing a diagram in today's issue showing these entrances.

The ticket office requested that students sit in their regular football game seats during the freshman-varsity game Saturday. The office also suggested that all students should enter the stadium by 1:30 every Saturday so as to avoid the 2:00 p. m. rush.

Scarcity of football tickets was reflected in the full registration in Lincoln hotels for football weekends. The largest local hotel reported to The Daily Nebraskan Monday afternoon that all available space has been filled for most of the home games. Only in a few hotels were reservations still open for every home game.

Another Year At NU Brings Few Changes, Usual Gripes

After one full day of cutting classes, it's safe to say school has definitely started.

Classes are much smaller this year. It's getting so you can't even be sure of getting a seat on the back row any more—there aren't enough to fill up a row. Just can't depend on nothin'.

There are the usual gripes about the high price of books. And there's one science book that none of the stores will buy because "they aren't going to use it any more." This has been said of the same book for the past two years.

Freshmen beanies are beginning to be seen more often around the campus. Under them, of course, are freshmen.

Everybody is glad to see everybody right now. It'll be a few weeks longer before the juniors start knifing each other in the back and the seniors start competing among themselves for jobs and husbands. (Or wives, as the case might be.)

Of course the big topic of conversation right now is football. All the girls imagine themselves madly in love with some first stringer while their boy friends take bets on the outcome of any game.

Picnics, a subversive activity, are still being held throughout the countryside by nature lovers . . . and the other kind too.

Convertibles are speeding around the roads with the tops down. Girls in them wish they weren't because it makes a mess of their hair. Girls not in them wish they were.

The party boys are back though some of their members are gone (but not forgotten) to the Armed Services. The Intelligentsia (commonly known as "brains") are becoming more numerous, due to the deferment tests.

Yes, after a long summer, life at the U. is almost back to normal known as "brains" are not for long) new classes, and a new school year. It's going to be terrific, no doubt. As they say of Paris, "It's good to be back." Rah, rah for Nebraska U.

Husker Rally Spirit

home rally in front of the University Coliseum Sunday afternoon. University cheerleaders jump high off the ground in leading a cheer at the rally for the gridders and coaches returning from a rugged two weeks at the Curtis training camp. The old traditional victory bell, plus nine cheerleaders, a pep band, Tassels, Cobs and a cheering barrage of students met the Huskers as they returned to the Capitol City.

P.M. Headlines

'Russia Has at Least 70 Divisions Ready'

OTTAWA—British Defense Chief Emmanuel Shinwell Monday cited some striking figures in describing the Soviet threat to world peace. He declared that Russia has "at least 70 divisions" ready for immediate use in Europe. The Kremlin, he added, also is "maintaining a fleet of 800 modern submarines as well as surface vessels, 215 divisions, including many armored divisions, and an air force of over 19,000 aircraft."

Adenauer Calls For Fast German Rearmament

BONN, GERMANY—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, in an interview with UP, called for a speed-up in the rearmament of western Germany. "Much time has already been wasted," he said. Adenauer predicted that west Germans would approve the incorporation of German units in a western European army.

Truman Socks At Dictators, Politicians

WASHINGTON — President Truman got in two hard licks Monday—one at the Soviet dictators and the other at political vote-getters. He called Russian society a "jungle" and said through it "the naked power of the government grows like a beast of prey, making all men afraid." In his second speech, delivered to the National Association of Postmasters, the President remarked that a lot of persons are "trying to make political capital" by attacking the loyalty of government workers. It is a "contemptible way to get votes," he said.

U.N. Army Beats Off Communist Attack

KOREA—The United Nations army in Korea beat off screaming waves of communist attackers along a broken 60-mile front as the expected enemy offensive got under way. Reports indicated that UN artillery "mowed down" hundreds of North Koreans as they rushed American and South Korean lines. Lt Gen James A. Van Fleet, commander of the Eighth army, said the North Koreans had received such severe losses on the eastern front that they are no longer capable of launching an extended offensive. The Eighth army, however, was still preparing for a possible, all-out communist thrust.

Waggoner Named Head of Music Group

Mary Jane Waggoner, piano instructor at the University, was elected Theta province president of Sigma Alpha Iota, national music fraternity for women.

There are ten provinces of Sigma Alpha Iota in the United States. Theta province includes chapters in Nebraska and Kansas.

Miss Waggoner was graduated from the University of Kansas and received a master's degree from the University of Texas. She studied piano at the Juillard school of music under Frank Sheridan last summer.

Miss Waggoner is vice president of the Lincoln chapter of Pi Kappa Lambda, national honorary fraternity and a member of Delta Gamma.

NU Almanac

If you have no classes Wednesday afternoon and are planning a picnic, the weather man says, "Go ahead." The mercury may rise to the 80's Wednesday, according to the Lincoln weather station, and fair weather is predicted for all day. Today's high is to be 76. Temperatures Monday climbed to 77 and at one time dropped to 51.

Can you guess what the following Associated Press sports article is about? An actual quote, with fictitious names, follows:

"At Blueville, the Rabbits used the fourth to rout Fred Jones, and teed off on Albert Smith, his successor, but were finally doused by Frank Brown. Before Brown put out the fire, Bob Alberts fashioned a blow off one of his serves to send Harry Green to a tally."

Did you guess football, golf, swimming or tennis? Only a sports writer would guess baseball.

My kitty is gone galavanting. I don't know where she's at. Curse this city. That lured my kitty. By dawn she'll be a cent.

Fascinating fact: If all American college graduates of the last 60 years were still alive, they would comprise only about 1 per cent of the total population.
