

AUF Sets $5,000 Goal; Consolidates All Drives

By SUE GORTON
News Editor

With the opening of the 1951 All University Fund drive Monday, Oct. 1, this organization will celebrate its eighth year at NU.

At the present, AUF board members and workers are soliciting funds to make this year's drive successful and to reach their goal of $5,000.

The few University students realize the tremendous work AUF has done in raising money for charitable organizations.

Founded in the fall of 1944, the present organization carries out the founders' original purpose: to consolidate all drives and campaigns for raising funds on the campus into one annual drive.

Since its birth, AUF has raised almost $18,000 for such charitable groups as National War Fund, World Student Service Fund, Community Chest, Displaced Persons and Crusade for Freedom. The cancer and tuberculosis fund will soon be added to this ever-growing list.

The AUF eighth annual drive is now in progress. AUF President Sarah Fulton says that the drive will be highly successful if the students make this an "ALL University Fund."

Dr. Jehle To Speak At Cosmo Club

Dr. Herbert Jehle of the physics department will speak at a Cosmopolitan club meeting at 7:30 tonight in Parlor J, Union.

The topic of his speech is "Europe's Problems." Dr. Jehle, associate professor of physics at the University, has spent the past three summers in Europe.

He will draw material for his talk from conferences he had this summer with Einstein, Bohr of Copenhagen, and other physicists in the United States and Europe.

In discussing what scientists can contribute toward the solution of international tension, both Einstein and Bohr were of the opinion that "international problems connected with atomic warfare are not problems of a technical character, but entirely problems of a human nature," according to Jehle.

Both men, Jehle said, emphasized that the procedure for establishing better international relations is person-to-person contact.

"The cause of our difficulties lies more in misunderstanding than in actual ill-will of the people of different countries," Jehle said. He believes that individuals have the responsibility of improving relations instead of waiting for their governments or the UN to act.

AG ECONOMICS CLUB PLANS MELON FEED

The Ag Economics club is planning a watermelon feed today at 6:30 p.m. on lower campus at the College of Agriculture.

All students, especially freshmen, that are interested in the Ag club are invited to attend.

According to a club spokesman, entertainment for the affair will be headed by the Ag Ec department's comedian, Dr. Clyde Mitchell. Dr. Mitchell is chairman of the department of Agricultural Economics.

President of the club is Don Behle.

University Museum Acquires Culbertson Elephant Fossil

An elephant-like fossil skull was recently discovered by C. R. Schneider, Culbertson, Neb., farmer.

The 14-foot mammoth skull is the first complete evidence of its kind to be found in Nebraska and is said to have roamed Nebraska 50,000 years ago. The creature originated in Asia and migrated here during the age of the glaciers.

A heavy rain exposed a part of the skull which was discovered lying in a ravine on the Schneider farm. The fossil was hauled in a truck by Mr. and Mrs. Schneider to the University museum Thursday.

TC Student Board Holds First Meeting

The Teachers College dean's student advisory board met Thursday noon at Teachers College.

This was the first meeting of the year. Successive luncheon-meetings will be held each week at the same time.

According to Dean Henzlik the purpose of the board is "to make Teachers College more effective."

The board will handle the teachers contribution to the spring College Days celebration. The senior tea is also conducted by the board.

Marilyn Coupe is chairman of the board. Other members are Jean Loudon, secretary, Barbara Gillmore, Jack Greer, Shirley Ransdell, Dee Irwin, Jo Miller, and Miss Mary Mielenz, adviser.

Talk About Weather—It's Now Summer In October

make anyone hot under the collar—in more ways than one. As temperatures soared into the 80's yesterday, many coeds came very close to throwing away all the cashmeres and wool flannel skirts which they had so carefully selected 'way last August.

Yes—it looks like summer is here again. However, the sultry weather has brought forth a strange mixture of purples, rusts, banker's grays and forest greens. White is coming back for another encore in contrast.

Someone must have jimmied up the cogs in that smooth-running weather machine!

Two years ago, the unbearable month was August. Last year it was September. This year it's October.

Somewhere—somewhere, there are little people who know about these things. They're called meteorological statisticians. Don't worry—no one else can pronounce all that fruit salad either.

Anyway, their job is to predict weather changes from year to year in different localities of the country. After they have been predicting for awhile, they come up with some "therefores" which, all rolled into one, are called climate.

According to some of these authorities, Nebraska's climate is gradually becoming colder. From the way things feel, it looks like Nebraska might change places with Bolivia any day now. Summer now comes in the fall and spring comes in the summer.

Maybe, if we have a great deal of patience, Nebraskans will be cutting down Chinese elms for Christmas trees instead of the traditional firs. That may take another three or four years, so don't worry about it now.

Right now it's best to worry about rising food bills. All dorms, eating places and cooperative houses on campus have had to readjust their cold-weather menus to accommodate hot-under-the-collar customers.

Powder sales are going up too. Not gun powder—face powder. Anything to camouflage shiny noses and shellac-like finishes on perspiring cheeks and foreheads!

Even the fellows and girls who can't get this higher education business out of their system say, "Summer school was nothing like this!"

Students Meet Faculty Group At Coffee Hour

Faculty and students are invited to participate in activities of a new YWCA commission group.

The new group is the student-faculty coffee hour. Every Thursday afternoon from 4:40 to 5:30 p.m. in the Union faculty lounge, YW members will foster a discussion on subjects selected for their appeal to the interests of both teacher and student.

Activities vs. scholarship is the topic for the first meeting. Both YW and YM members will help carry the discussion.

Through these meetings the YW hopes to strengthen student-faculty relationships in the University. According to commission leader Barbara Brethauer, the YWCA thought that students did not feel that they knew their instructors as well as they should. Open discussions will give both faculty members and students a chance to understand the problems of each other thereby heightening co-operation.

Miss Sue Arbutnot is the faculty adviser for the commission.

outfielders Bill Nelson and Duane Hess. Some of these boys are currently out for other sports. This is true of some other potentially good ball-players.

About Nebraska's prospects in baseball next season, Sharpe refused to comment, except to say that the Huskers have a good potential. Coach Sharpe said Oklahoma and Missouri would probably be tough, and that Kansas is a possibility.

Judging from previous performances of the returning lettermen and the potential ability shown by the rookies, Nebraska should be fighting it out for a top berth in the Big Seven this spring.

All-Nebraska Show Includes Variety Of Art

Nebraska artists have contributed an unusually fine group of paintings to the 15th annual All-Nebraskan Arts now on exhibition in Morrill hall art galleries.

The better known mediums of oil and watercolor are represented, as well as monotypes, wax-resist scratch board and engraved ivory piano keys. Stone and metal sculpture and ceramics are also displayed.

The Lincoln Artist Guild and Associated Artists of Omaha will co-sponsor next year's show which will be held in Omaha and then move to Lincoln, Guild President Mrs. Alta Fieselman said.

Nebraskans Attend YW, YM Workshop

Doris Carlson, junior, and Don Reeves, senior at the University, attended the regional conference workshop of the YWCA and YMCA National Intercollegiate Christian Council.

Miss Carlson and Reeves were elected as regional finance co-chairmen at the YWCA and YMCA Estes regional convention. They attended the workshop in this capacity. The workshop was Sept. 28 to 30 at the National Training School for Christian Workers at Kansas City, Mo.

Reeves was in charge of worship services. Miss Carlson directed the workshop, "Needs on Campus and How the Y Can Meet These." Discussion groups interpreted "Finding Meaning for Our Lives." The conference theme was "Ways to Combat Student Apathy."
