

NU Tries For Big Seven Win

By BOB BANKS
Sports Editor

The Cornhusker gridders will get their first taste of Big Seven football when they tangle with the Kansas State Wildcats Saturday at Manhattan.

Although the K Staters have dropped two consecutive games, Nebraska football coach Bill Glassford does not anticipate an easy game.

He pointed out that the University of Iowa was forced to pour on all the coal it had to eke out a 16-0 decision. At half time the Hawkeyes held a slim 2-0 lead by virtue of a safety. Kansas State will be shooting for its first win over a Nebraska team since 1942.

But the new Wildcat coach, Bill Meek—who learned his football under Bob Neyland of Tennessee, may be in a position to wave the victory flag if he can get his offense to function as smoothly as his defensive squad.

During the past week Meek has been drilling his offense intensively in an effort to get the spurring attack working.

Meek terms his passing attack as "potentially good." Freshman halfbacks Dick Schockey and Carl Albacher each connected on three tosses, and Ted Maupin completed his only try against Iowa. Maupin also proved to be the most effective receiver of the day, catching two for the day's work. The Wildcats gained 47 yards on passes.

But their running game was totally repulsed as the Hawkeyes held them to a minus 21 yards on the ground.

Meek expects to send the same defensive team against the Cornhuskers that he used against Iowa. This lineup lists Joe Norman and Tom Ebert, ends; Pete Raemer and Larry Harshorn, tackles; and Tom O'Boyle and Bob Smith, guards. In the secondary are Ed Pence and Augie Keller, linebackers; Hi Faubion and Gerald Cashman, halfbacks; and Veryl Switzer, safety.

Nebraska has spent the week ironing out the mistakes it made against Texas Christian. Glassford has made no comment on the team this week except to say that "it is working hard."

Pass defense has received a deal of attention. The Huskers showed a definite weakness in this department against the Horned Frogs. Experts have installed Nebraska as a 14 point favorite. They also gave the Huskers a six point edge over TCU. Asked his opinion on these odds, Glassford replied that "so far we haven't proven to anyone we can score 14 points."

"Nebraska will have to use every weapon it has to get by Meek's crew," he continued.

One major shift has occurred in the Husker offensive line where Wayne Handshy has replaced Dick Regier at tackle.

Otherwise Glassford will go along with Frank Simon and George Paynich, ends; George Prochaska and Handshy, tackles; Cliff Dale and Kay Curtis, guards; Verl Scott, center; John Bordogna, quarterback; Tom Carodine and Don Vogt or Bob Smith, halfbacks; and Nick Adduci, fullback.

Defensively Nebraska will open with Dennis Emanuel and Dick Goll, ends; Bob Mullen and Jerry Minnick, tackles; Ed Husmann and Carl Brasee, guards. Taking over the defensive backfield duties will be Bill Schabacker and either Cliff Hopp or George Cifra, linebackers; Max Kennedy and Emil Radik, halfbacks; and Bobby Decker, safety.

Dick Westin, halfback, and Hopp are back in action after being sidelined with injuries. Glassford praised Westin's open field running.

Harvey Goth, offensive tackle, is still out with a leg injury.

The squad will leave Lincoln at noon today by bus. It will spend the night in Junction City, Kas., and arrive in Manhattan at noon on Saturday.

The traveling squad:

Giants Take Opener, 5-1; Koslo Fires Seven Hitter

By MARSHALL KUSHNER

The New York Giants weren't given any time to catch their breaths after a miraculous National league pennant victory in the playoffs before they crushed the favored New York Yankees 5-1 in the first game of the world series.

60,000 fans saw Dave Koslo fire a seven hitter at the Yanks, who were made 8-5 choices to win the series. The Giants got to Yankee starting hurler, Allie Reynolds, for two runs in the first inning. The Durocher men were not to be headed for the rest of the game.

In that first inning, Hank Thompson walked, Monte Irvin singled him to third. Up stepped Whitey Lockman to smack a ground rule double into the right field stands on one bounce to score Thompson. Then, on one of the sensational plays of the day, Irvin stole home when Reynolds took a full wind-up.

For Irvin, it was the sixth time he had successfully stolen home this season. Reynolds' pitch came in high and outside and made it impossible for Yogi Berra to tag Irvin.

The Giants were not denied the chance to ice the game in the sixth when Alvin Dark, voted the league's best shortstop in the all star poll, clubbed one of "the Chief" Reynolds' pitches into the lower terraces in left field. The circuit clout came after Wes Westrum singled and Eddie Stanky walked. This accounted for all the Giants scoring in the series opener.

The Yankees garnered their lone tally in the second inning as rookie L. McDougald was sent to third by Jerry Coleman's single after the Yanks third baseman doubled. McDougald then scored when Hank Thompson erred on Coleman's single.

For Thompson, it is the first time he has made an appearance with the Giants this season. Durocher has used him as a utility outfielder. He will take the place of injured Don Mueller for at least another series game.

The lights went on and Reynolds went out in the seventh inning. The former because of overhanging dark clouds and the latter was relieved by Bobby Hogue. Tom Morgan took over the Yanks hurling chores in the eighth inning.

Pass Plays Spark IM Encouragers

By DOUG WILCOX
Sports Staff Reporter

Long passes were on the agenda for the intramural squads' as they took to the field at the Ag-College football fields Wednesday night.

One of the most exciting games of the season was played between Sigma Alpha Epsilon and the Beta Sigma Phi.

After a terrific passing duel between Joe Gifford of the Sig Alpha's and Owen Otto of the Beta's the final score stood at 28 to 12 in favor of the Sigma Alpha's.

The first touchdown scored by the Sig Alpha was a 15-yard pass from "Slinging" Joe Gifford to Bill Shainholtz. This combination of Gifford to Shainholtz was pretty prevalent during entire game.

Phi Gamma Delta played Sigma Nu in a tilt sparked by the passing of Rich Olsen of the Phi Gammas.

The final score was 20 to 6, in favor of the Phi Gams.

It is always interesting to listen to the "I told you so's" after some unexpected event occurs in sportdom.

We are referring to the Dodger-Giant playoff series in which the Giants clinched the National League baseball crown.

When the major league season began most of the drug store baseball experts, including myself, wouldn't have bet a Confederate dollar that the Giants would be on top after the firing was over.

Leo Durocher's "my kind of team" was reeling worse than the home town drunk with 10 straight defeats before it finally crashed the win column.

In the meantime the Dodgers rode straight to the front of the pack, as had been predicted in pre-season writeups, and, of course, you and I rode right along with the writers, expecting the Dodgers to win by at least 10 games.

When the Giants began to tighten the loose slack in the senior league race, most of us were still reluctant to believe that the Coogan's Bluff gang could do it.

Now that the Giants have won and are in the midst of a World Series battle with the New York Yankees, one has only to do a little innocent eaves dropping to hear comments like "I knew they'd do it all the time, but I just didn't say anything."

However, you and I are not the only guilty persons. Already the national sports writers, who supposedly have all the inside dope on baseball, are acclaiming Durocher as the heir-apparent to John McGraw, rated the best manager in Giant history.

But these same sports writers used Durocher as the target of their weird jokes when his team was seemingly out of the race.

I recall one particular scribe who wrote that "Durocher knows the Giants can't possibly win, so why doesn't he keep his big mouth shut."

Those making the jaunt to Kansas State should really have an enjoyable week end. According to reports from Kansas State, Huskers will have some of the better seats in the stadium. The ROTC band, cobs and tassels, yell squad and a train load of students are making the trip, so no one should become bored with loneliness.
